THIRSTY HERE SET FOR REPEAL PARTY

HIGH PRICES INDICATED FOR FIRST DRINKS

Cost Expected to Fall After Celebration Tomorrow

That rotund gentleman of the bay-window, Father Pitt, was ready today to bend a rusty elbow and wrap himself around an ounce or two of legitimate whisky.

And in the back rooms the boys were working themselves up to a lather of excitement as they warble a few tentative mi-mis in their last rehearsal of that sentimental ballad about the gal named Adeline.

Tomorrow, the Noble Experiment becomes ignoble. Prohibition will be dead. Repeal will be here.

And, some time after 3 o'clock, you'll be able to step into any number of restaurants and hotels and order your favorite drink.

DRUGGISTS CONFUSED

There was not only excitement today, there was confusion, principally among wholesale druggists, who don't know whether they're to be allowed to dispense the stuff or not.

At the distilleries at Large and Schenley perspiring workmen were readying hundreds of cases of whisky, to be shipped to Pittsburg to morrow afternoon.

Prices tomorrow probably will be higher than they will be a week later.

A drink of whisky will cost at least 25 cents. For better brands, 35 and 40 cents.

A pint of rye may be as high as $2.50. Bourbon, slightly less.

WINES SCARCE HERE

Wines, including champagnes, will not only be expensive, but few places will have them tomorrow.

All these listed prices probably will topple after a few days—cer-

LINDYS SET FOR SEA FLIGHT

Unfavorable Winds Block Early Take-off

BULLETIN.

BATHURST, Gambia, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The great monoplane in which it was expected Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh would start their flight across the south Atlantic today was still in harbor, becalmed, as sunset approached.

BATHURST, Gambia, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh indicated early this afternoon that he intended to take off before night, presumably on a trans-Atlantic flight to South America.

Mrs. Lindbergh assisted her husband as the flying colonel put in the morning overhauling the big monoplane following their failure to leave the water last night.

They made several futile attempts to take off by moonlight and twice under a broiling sun.

They were balked in efforts to hop westward because of unfavorable winds and a too heavy load of fuel.

The Lindbergh plane has a flying range of more than 2,000 miles. The air line distance, almost entirely over water from Bathurst to Natal, Brazil, is about 1,875 miles in the path of the southeastern trade winds.

Along this route are two islands, Fernando do Noronha, situated 125 miles from the Brazilian mainland, where a penal colony is maintained, and St. Paul, about 350 miles northeast of the first island.

SLAIN GIRL'S BODY FOUND IN MD.

Crime Near Scene of Lynching Revealed; Hint Man Held

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The body of Miss Edna Morris, 20-year-old white farm girl, missing since last Friday, was found by two Negroes in a wood five miles from Princess Anne today.

Authorities declined to say whether she had been murdered, pending an autopsy.

She was fully clothed, lying face down in a pool of blood. She apparently had been dead some time.

ONE MAN RELEASED

The Negroes who found the body live approximately 100 yards from the place where it was found. They were brought to Princess Anne immediately and one was released. What was done with the other could not immediately be learned.

The place where the girl's body was found was approximately five miles from Princess Anne, on what is known as the Revel's Neck road.

Her father, Edward Morris, a farmer, said she did not return to the home Friday night but the family was not unduly worried, believing she might have gone to visit relatives.

The disappearance, however, was reported to Princess Anne, but no search was made.

SCENE OF LYNCHING

Princess Anne was the scene of a lynching on October 18. A Negro, George Armwood, accused of attacking a white farm woman, was taken from the jail, hauled through the streets behind an automobile, strung up on a tree and then burned.

No indictments against the mob members were brought and last Tuesday Governor Albert C. Ritchie sent troops to Salisbury, in an adjoining county, to arrest persons said by witnesses to have participated.

A riot resulted and the troops were withdrawn. Later the four persons under arrest were released on habeas corpus proceedings.

Destructive Propaganda

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL
Financial Authority

DR. OLIVER M. W. SPRAGUE, who recently resigned from the President's advisory board, publishes in the November 29th issue of the New York Times the first of a series of articles under the title "Problems of Recovery."

This article contains a glaring MIS-STATEMENT OF FACT, of such fundamental and vital importance as to render any further argument or presentation by Dr. Sprague of no consequence whatever.

Dr. Sprague says that from 1929 to 1933 CREDIT WAS PLENTIFUL AND CHEAP.

The exact quotation is:

"We had sound money and no doubt about the security of the currency between 1929 and 1933. THERE WAS ALSO DURING THOSE YEARS A PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF CREDIT AVAILABLE AT LOW RATES, and at intervals widespread confidence that prosperity was at hand; and yet the country drifted more and more deeply into depression."

EVERY BANKER; probably 95 per cent or more of the business men, including publishers; a very substantial part of the women and a fair sprinkling of high school children of the United States know that bank credit for diversified commerce and industry has been largely UNOBTAINABLE since the crash of the stock market in 1929.

They know that immediately upon the collapse of the inflated speculative structure, which threatened to wreck the banking system of the United States, every bank almost without exception AND OF NECESSITY, began calling every loan of every character.

That they prosecuted the collection of their loans by the most severe and drastic pressure upon their borrowers, by any means available.

The banking SYSTEM, while safe as a depositary system, has not at any time since 1929 been in position to extend to diversified commerce and industry the substantial credit which MUST BE SUPPLIED to finance the activity the administration is attempting to restore.

IF DR. SPRAGUE, as indicated by his statement, is so ignorant of this situation—if he does not know that approximately one-half of our total active medium of exchange has been forcibly withdrawn from circulation by the commercial banks of the United States—that this process of liquidation is still going on—then he is so amazingly ignorant of our essential economic structure that his opinions on banking or finance are of no importance, and entitled to no consideration.

On the other hand, if Dr. Sprague INTENDS to MISLEAD UNINFORMED READERS as a

PLAN GETS HERRON'S SUPPORT

Big Estates Likely To Receive Plea For Funds

Large estates may be a[illegible] pay part of their 1934 taxes in advance to help the city out of its financial straits.

Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner made the suggestion to Mayor John S. Herron today and he approved the idea.

This and possible repealing of ordinances authorizing $1,322,810 in street improvements to make cash available were to be considered by Council in session this afternoon.

KERR TO APPEAR

City Controller James P. Kerr was to appear and lay the entire situation before members of that body resulting from a $100,000,000 cut in assessed real estate values. Before Council convened, Kerr stated that if a bond issue ordinance for $1,2000,000 for the city's share of Federal civil works was enacted Council would have overborrowed its bonding power by January 1 to the extent of $154,000.

Mayor Herron transmitted the 1934 budget to Council calling for estimated expenditures by the various departments of $23,[illegible]835, an increase over this y[illegible] appropriations of $2,000,000.

MAYOR URGES CUTS

The Mayor's recommen[illegible] however, slashed these e[illegible] to $21,445,128, or $273,5[illegible] the 1933 figures. No new [illegible] or salary increases exc[illegible] automatically provided [illegible] ommended.

Assistant Solicitor Benn[illegible] that under an act of May [illegible] the city may sell 10-year [illegible] cent bonds up to 80 per cent [illegible] delinquent taxes and the m[illegible] borrowed in this way would [illegible] be a debit against council's b[illegible] rowing power of 2 per cent of t[illegible] assessed valuation of property. Approximately $12,000,000 is due in deliquent taxes.

An ordinance repealing the $6,000,000 bond issue for a subway had been drafted for several months, Benner revealed, and is in readiness for introduction in council. About $5,880,000 of this loan remains unspent.

Chief Assessor Thomas C. McMahon, following a conference with Mayor Herron today, said:

"The $100,000,000 reduction in assessments is purely an estimate, based on appeals filed and knowledge of a decline in values in several districts. I believe it represents the extreme limit to which the reduction would go. We must necessarily protect ourselves by not underestimating it."

NAMES DISTRICTS

McMahon named the districts where reduced assessments have been made—Water street to Fourth avenue between Ross and Ferry streets; Penn avenue from Eighth street to Thirty-fourth street, and some additional industrial property in the Strip district; Fifth avenue and Forbes street from Sixth avenue to Soho; parts of East Liberty residential district; the old Ridge avenue residential district, North Side, and Federal street business district.

McMahon's announcement prevented an anticipated cut of 1¼ mill in the school tax levy for 1934. The Board of Education cut the levy a half-mill.

DR. WYNEKOOP'S TRIAL JAN. 4

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Dr. Alice L. Wynekoop was too ill in the County Jail today to appear before the bar in Criminal Court for arraignment on her indictment for the murder of Rheta, her daughter-in-law

There was no plea entered in her behalf.

Earle, son of Dr. Wynekoop and the second suspect in the murder of his wife, is still held on a warrant charging he was an accessory. He will be arraigned next Monday.

Dr. Wynekoop's attorney, Frank Tyrrell, said he had found a witness who says she saw Rheta's body lying in the back seat of a taxicab sometime before the death was discovered in the physician's basement office. He added:

"This witness informs me that she saw a cab drive down an alley in the neighborhood of the home. It was forced to stop because of a street laboring crew blocking the alley. The cab door swung open and the witness says she saw Rheta's body lying on the back seat."

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—The body of Mrs. Rheta Wynekoop probably will be exhumed, it was learned this afternoon.

Two physicians from the office of the Cook County Coroner were reported to have obtained permission of B. H. Gardner, father of the slain woman, for the exhumation.

Lewisburg Prison Employes Accused

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—A warrant has been issued for two employes of the Lewisburg (Pa.) federal prison, charging that they introduced contraband into the penitentiary, the Justice Department announced today.

Robert P. Ettman, a guard, was arrested, and H. B. Blackburn, assistant engineer, was sought.

Warden Henry C. Hill charged employes brought letters, currency and small articles of merchandise into the prison.

ROOSEVELT SET FOR REPEAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt, on returning from Georgia today, found the imminence of prohibition repeal thrusting tax and other problems forward for action and prepared to do his part toward settlement.

Among the first to be consulted by him was the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., under whom the multiple taxes on liquor will be collected and whose recommendations on the subject are being formulated for congressional action.

The State Department made ready for quick proclamation of repeal when it hears by telegraph from the Utah convention, as the thirty-sixth to act, in mid-afternoon tomorrow.

A presidential proclamation is expected simultaneously to assert the fact of repeal, thereby marking the end—effective January 1—of taxes estimated at $212,000,-

CWA PROJECTS LAUNCHED HERE

Civil works improvements in South Park were launched inauspiciously today by six men and a truck load of brand new tools, much to the chagrin of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern.

At North Park, however, similar work was under way with approximately 400 men to swing picks and mattocks, according to park attaches' estimates.

McGOVERN HELPFUL

Commissioner McGovern went early to South Park to witness the start on the grading of a new road to the fair grounds. The handful of workmen made anything but a favorable impression on McGovern, but he said later that he expected the project to be in full swing soon. In fact, he said, he will visit the park later in the day to speed things up.

Frank Batt, superintendent of the work, said only 36 men were to have gone to work this morn-

4TH VOTE FRAUD TRIAL STARTED

The ballot box of the Tenth District, Fourth Ward, was empty when taken to the prothonotary's office following the 1932 election, Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed charged in his opening address to the fourth vote fraud jury in Federal Court today.

Five officials of the Election Board of the district went on trial charged with conspiracy before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. The defense failed to obtain a continuance on the ground that nine of the 28 jurors from which the jury was to be drawn served on a jury last week that convicted three members of another Election Board.

Reed declared the government would show that Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democratic nominee for Congress in the Thirty-second Congressional District, was credited by the board with only 43 votes, whereas 80 witnesses would be produced to testify they voted the straight Democratic ticket.

Defendants in the trial which began today are Albert Diulius, judge; Albert Levine and William Kennedy, inspectors; Charles F. Morrision, clerk, and Joseph Ridge, election constable.

Killer Kicks Woman After Stabbing Her

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Mrs. Esther Ryan, 46, of Wormleysburg, was stabbed to death in front of her home today by a man who disappeared as witnesses to the slaying dashed to the woman's side.

At least three women saw the man they were unable to identify struggle with Mrs. Ryan and plunge what appeared to be a hunting knife into her abdomen and chest. As her body sagged to the ground, witnesses told police, the assailant kicked it, and disappeared.

3 AT BREAKFAST OVERCOME

Three women were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes while eating breakfast this morning at the home of Mrs. W. G. Mackey, 5650 Rural street, East End.

They were Mrs. Mackey, Miss Frances Siranni, 21, a roomer, and Miss Mary Testa, a niece of Mrs. Mackey.

Miss Siranni was the first to collapse when fumes from a hot water heater filled the room, according to officials of the Equitable Gas Company, who reported to police that there was no ventilator attached to the heater.

While the other two women attempted to revive her, they were partially overcome, but not before Mrs. Mackey was able to telephone police for help.

The three were quickly revived by inhalator crews from the gas company and police.

Gen. Cardenas Gets Mexican Nomination

QUERETARO, Mexico., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, former minister of war and former governor of Michoacan, today appeared certain of the presidential nomination on the national revolutionary party ticket. It is equal to election.

High Court Upholds Factor Extradition

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—John Factor (Jake the Barber) today lost an appeal to the Supreme Court to escape extradition to England to face fraud charges in an alleged $7,000,000 stock swindle.

Factor appealed from the Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago, which reversed the District Court. The high court's decision came after the case was reargued.

McCready Going to Write Two Books

'Evils of Marriage' To Be One, He Says, Eyeing Ex-Mates

Harrison R. McCready, the Fox Chapel playboy seeking to break a $150,000 trust he established in 1930 for his first wife and child, announced he intended to do some writing as the trial of the suit today entered its third week.

McCready, visibly shaky from his "tapering off" which Judge Frank P. Patterson had "suggested" in Common Pleas Court, leaned back in his seat in the rear of the court room and announced:

"I'm going to be an author."

He added:

"I'm going to write two books. The first I was going to call 'The Evils of Prohibition.' But now that repeal of prohibition will be here tomorrow, I'm going to change the name of it. I'm going to call it 'The Evils of Marriage.'"

McCready leaned forward and concentrated his gaze on the front row of spectators. On one side of the aisle sat Mrs. F. H. Welfer, his first wife and defendant in the present suit.

Across the aisle from her was Mrs. Marguerite Heasley McCready, wife No. 2.

McCready looked at them for a moment in meditation. Then he said:

"My second book will be 'Don't Be a Playboy.'"

Then court opened and the youth who, he admitted on the stand last week, in asking the appointment of a guardian, has dissipated a fortune estimated three years ago worth $500,000 or more, settled down to follow the proceedings.

On the stand was Miss Josephine Schramm, secretary to

'Don't Be a Playboy' Selected as Title For Second

Oliver K. Eaton, attorney for the first wife, who again described McCready's appearance and conduct on September 10, 1930, when the trust was established. Efforts of Charles J. Margiotti, McCready's attorney in the suit, to make her testimony favorable to his contention that McCready was then of unsound mind, were frustrated when she declared:

"He was sober and appeared rational in every way."

She added that McCready, for whom the Union Trust Company was last week appointed guardian, after he admitted that liquor had ruined his judgment, dictated several business letters to her at the time.

Bride Dies as Fiance Waits for Marriage

A Pittsburgh shopkeeper waited impatiently today in New York City's marriage license bureau for the McKeesport woman he was to marry. A few minutes later she was found dead in a rest room of the Municipal Building, in which the bureau is located.

John G. Ruoss, who operates a curtain shop at 410 South Main street, and Miss Louise Wyant, 40, dietitian at the McKeesport Hospital, had motored to New York over the week-end, with her mother, to be married.

Today, happy and eager, they went to the Marriage License Bureau. When Miss Wyant did not return from the rest room, Ruoss asked a woman to see if anything was wrong. His fiancee was found on the floor. Emergency aid failed to help.

Ruoss, grief-stricken, was bewildered by the sudden turn of events.

Three years ago Miss Wyant and her mother went to Philadelphia to visit a brother, also a physician. When they arrived they found his [illegible] wealth

DAWES BANK DEFAULTS ON $90,000,000 LOAN FROM RFC

HUGE AMOUNT IN INTEREST UNPAID

Balance Due Covered By Collateral, Probers Find

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The Central Republic Bank and Trust Company, of Chicago, is in technical default on its $90,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, International News Service learned today.

The bank has repaid about one-third of the loan, which became due on December 23, 1932. The bank now owes $62,157,396.85, including $1,839,192.14 in interest accrued, overdue and unpaid.

This was the loan negotiated June 23, 1932, 16 days after former Vice President Charles G. Dawes resigned as president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to become chairman of the board of the Central Republic Bank.

LOAN DENOUNCED

The loan was denounced by insurgent Republicans and Democrats on both floors of Congress as soon as it became known.

The present status of the loan has been investigated by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. It learned that the unpaid balance is fully protected by collateral, having a face value of $91,633,679.91, but considerably less actual value.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was reported as being "thoroughly satisfied" with the present status of the loan. One government official explained the default was "purely technical" and induced solely by the corporation's decision to refuse a renewal in order to take more complete control of the bank's affairs.

He declared the bank was "in process of liquidation," with prospects that every penny of the loan would be repaid ultimately.

DAWES NOT INVOLVED

Government authorities carefully explained that former Vice President Dawes is not involved in the loan, although he headed the Central Republic at the time it was negotiated. They said no other Chicago bank was connected with it.

RFC officials expressed complete confidence in the present status of the Central Republic Bank. They declared the loan's collateral was in charge of the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago and that an RFC agent was in charge of the collection.

They said no effort was being made to speed liquidation of either this or any other like loan for fear such a course would injure both the lender and borrower.

HEARST SPEECH WINS PRAISE AT CAPITAL

Publisher on Side of People, Asserts Thomas

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Praise for the radio address to the nation of William Randolph Hearst has come from leading supporters of President Roosevelt's drive to raise commodities through a cheaper dollar.

The publisher, in a speech broadcast from coast to coast, declared that dear money is not sound money, but "blood money," and that international bankers are fighting the President's inflationist measures in behalf of their own selfish interests.

THOMAS APPROVAL

Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, leader of the congressional currency expansionists, announced his approval of every word spoken by Mr. Hearst. He said:

"The currency fight is an issue between the world gold bloc and the world anti-gold bloc. The gold bloc, which is directing the attack on President Roosevelt's plan, consists of the Federal Reserve Board, the banks of England, France and Holland and their allies. The bloc is making a last stand for control of government through control of money.

Mr. Hearst has taken the side of the people in this fight, the people who must have more money to pay their debts and save their property.

"This question is no longer merely a national problem. It has become a world problem and embassies at Washington have their orders to use their influence on one side or the other. America has become the battleground for this stupendous struggle."

BACKED BY FLETCHER

Strong approval of Mr. Hearst's stand was voiced also by Senator Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the Senate banking inquiry which has made such startling disclosures of banking methods. He said:

Mr. Hearst's speech was splendid, and I agree with it fully. One of the great characteristics of Mr. Hearst is that he makes the subject very clear.

"There is no ambiguity, no uncertainty in his analysis if the situation and his indictment of the financial powers who are shouting for 'sound money.' The address was plain-spoken and I am sure it will have a useful effect."

COUGHLIN SEES APOLOGY FROM AL SMITH

Radio Priest Receives Telegram of Regret From Belford

DETROIT, Dec. 4—(AP.)—Pledged anew to support the administration's monetary program and in receipt of a telegram of regrets from one of his critics, the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower, today awaited similar messages which he predicted would be forthcoming from Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob.

Shortly before he started a speech Sunday, Father Coughlin received a telegram from the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Belford, of Brooklyn, expressing the latter's regret for an "uncharitable interview" he gave following Father Coughlin's address at a New York mass meeting last Monday night.

SEES OTHERS

Father Coughlin commented:

"John Raskob will be next and Al Smith after him."

Both Mr Raskob and Mr. Smith have taken issue with some of Father Coughlin's statements.

In the nterview last week, Msgr. Belford referred to Father Coughlin as "an infernal nuisance" and "a public enemy."

While Father Coughlin in his speech was renewing his attack on opponents of the administration and warning that it was either "Roosevelt or ruin," Msgr Belford was speaking in Brooklyn and saying that he desired to broadcast "a very humble and sincere apology to all whom I offended."

WALL STREET SILENT

In his speech, Father Coughlin said:

"All week long silence has reigned in Wall street. Hardly one voice was raised in public to impede the policies of Franklin Roosevelt. It was the silence of a beaten bully who realizes that he can dominate and intimidate no longer the American public."

He added that the "Tory newspapers decided to humble me for having played even a small part in this contest for economic emancipation." He said:

"I immediately exempt from that category not only the news journals who are favorable to Mr. Roosevelt's financial reforms—reforms that are intended to free us from the gold standard—but also those decent American publications which, although they differ in policy from what I have advocated, nevertheless have not forgotten the principles of fairness and of honesty."

LYNCHING ENDS HOLLYWOOD'S KIDNAP FEAR

Movie Colony 'Rests More Easily,' Says Jean Harlow

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Jean Harlow, platinum blonde screen actress, said here today that members of the Hollywood film colony "rest more easily" since the lynching in San Jose, Cal., of the kidnap-slayers of Brooke L. Hart.

Miss Harlow said she did not approve of lynchings, but added:

"The San Jose affair will undoubtedly make those planning kidnapings think twice."

"Because of exaggerated reports of the film stars' salaries and fortunes many of us have lived in fear of kidnaping."

PROTEST AT SCENE

SAN JOSE, Cal., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—In St. James Park here, where Jack Holmes and Harold Thurmond, confessed kidnap-murderers of Brooke Hart, were lynched, a crowd of several hundred persons yesterday heard speakers protest mob violence and statements of Gov. James Rolph, Jr., upholding the hanging.

Principal speakers were John D. Barry, San Francisco publicist, and the Rev. C. B. Sylvester, pastor of the First Methodist Church of San Jose.

MORE MOB ARRESTS

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Additional arrests in connection with the lynching of Lloyd Warner, 19-year-old Negro, were expected today by county and state officers.

With two men already in custody, county officers said they had information which they believed would enable them to identify leaders of the mob which last Tuesday night hanged and burned the confessed attacker of a white girl.

William O. Sawyers, an assistant State Attorney General, said he expected to issue warrants for suspected mob leaders today.

WOMAN DEFIANT

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Over the defiant "no" of a lone woman heckler who called herself "Madame X," a mass meeting of Protestants, Catholics, Jews, and Negroes adopted a series of resolutions yesterday condemning mob violence.

The resolutions denounced "the recent lynchings and the laudation thereof by Gov. Rolph, of California," urged Governors Ritchie, of Maryland, and Park, of Missouri, to continue their efforts to punish lynchers, and called for a fair trial of the Scottsboro defendants.

Pale with anger and shaking her fist, the minority member of the meeting took up a position at the foot of the dais in the great hall of the College of the City of New York and cried that New Yorkers should "wash their own dirty linen" before questioning the acts of citizens of other states.

BALK ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Two "trusties," who tried to shoot their way out of Schuylkill County Jail yesterday, were in "solitary" today, facing greatly increased sentences.

Taking advantage of their access to the corridors, William Kuchinsky and Joseph Mocinicis, serving three years each for burglary, slugged a guard, took his keys and snatched up rifles from the office.

Another trusty, John Roth, happened on the scene and was ordered to hold up his hands. Across the corridor, Warden William Watson appeared, unaware of what was happening. Covered by the escaping pair, the warden was forced back into his office and the door locked. Just then, however, Roth opened fire, and the guard who had been slugged discharged a tear gas bomb.

Kuchinsky and Mocinicis returned the fire, but finding their retreat cut off, they threw down their rifles and surrendered.

2 LOST ON HUNT FEARED DEAD

HARBERT, Mich., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The small canoe in which Roy and Paul Rutledge, brothers, started on a duck hunting trip on Lake Michigan, was found half submerged today on a beach seven miles south of here.

The discovery was made by George Dunbar, a motorcycle policeman of the East Chicago, Ind., force. A careful search of the area showed no trace of the missing men and rescue workers had little hope that they would be found alive.

The paddles and other equipment were missing from the canoe. Scores of airplanes, and boats had searched the lake since Saturday without success, and Mrs. Roy Rutledge was a passenger today in one of the searching planes.

Roy Rutledge was principal of an East Chicago high school and his brother was instructor in a high school at Dekalb, Ill.

COURT UPHOLDS 'NEW DEAL' ACT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The Supreme Court today held constitutional an act of the South Carolina Legislature providing for appointment of conservators of closed banks, the plan used by the Roooosevelt administration for national banks after the March banking crisis.

It was the first "new deal" legislative act on which the high court has handed down a decision.

The decision was unanimous.

In the case before the court, Hunter A. Gibbes, depositor in the Central Union Bank, of Columbia, S. C., demanded appointment of a receiver instead of a conservator.

The South Carolina law was passed after President Roosevelt declared a national banking holiday in March.

Gibbes alleged that the conservator plan merely increased expenses, there being no hope of reopening the bank. The increase in expenses, he said, deprived the depositors of funds which would be due them.

Caffery to Leave For Cuban Job Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Jefferson Caffery, Assistant Secretary of State, announced after a call upon President Roosevelt today that he would leave for his post at Havana, Cuba, in the middle of the month.

STATE INCOME TAX URGED

The Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League has asked members of the State House Ways and Means Committee to meet with its representatives to discuss the Sterling income tax bill, which would provide funds for educational purposes instead of allowing the entire burden to rest on realty owners.

Since the announcement of the State Chamber of Commerce that it would oppose the bill, the Taxpayers' League has initiated a militant movement in favor of the legislation. I. Leonard Aronson, president of the Taxpayers' League, is heading the movement.

000 a year. This will reduce the federal gasoline tax a half-cent a gallon, making it one cent; and eliminate the taxes on dividends, capital stock and the increased excess profits levy.

Meanwhile, studies looking toward liquor tax increases will be prosecuted the more vigorously to enable Congress to make an early decision after it meets in January. Until new laws are fixed, the whiskey rate is $1.10 a gallon, as it has been throughout the national prohibition years. General opinion expects a rate of between $2.20 and $3 a gallon to be set.

The House Ways and Means Committee started today to revamp much tax legislation, aiming to increase federal income with the aid of liquor taxes by $400,000,000 a year.

Dr. James M. Doran, meanwhile, resigned as Industrial Alcohol Commissioner to take charge of the distillers' group which will serve as the authority to administer the code by which the industry will be governed.

Federal officials were kept busy by the rush for large liquor imports, but there was no sign of wavering from the quota system to hold importations to a reasonable level until Congress can act and trade agreements be drafted.

Cadwalader, Society Leader, Gun Victim

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Thomas Cadwalader, 58, member of an old and socially prominent Philadelphia family, was found shot to death yesterday in his home in Whitemarsh Township. Coroner Ronald T. Dettre said he committed suicide because of ill health.

With a bullet wound in the head, Cadwalader was found by a maid when she went to his room to call him for dinner. He was lying on his bed, a pistol beside him.

Film Actor Accused Of Slugging Hostess

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Burt Roche, film actor, was charged with assult and batery last night by police after an alleged row at the home of Mrs. Carmelita White.

Mrs. White appeared in night court, her eye discolored. Riche gained a continuance to Tuesday. The woman said Roche became abusive and struck her during dinner at her home.

TAX-DODGING ACTION NEAR

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Drastic changes in the income tax laws, striking hard at stock market speculators and rich tax evaders, were to be recommended to the House Ways and Means Committee by its investigating sub-committee today.

Culminating a four-months' study of income tax laws, the subcommittee had prepared a score of recommendations designed primarily to stop loopholes disclosed in the Senate Banking Committee investigation.

Among the proposals of the investigating body, it was understood, is one which would prevent the use of paper losses in offsetting taxes due on earned income.

Use of this method of charging losses occasioned in speculation or in tax sales has operated to wipe out hundreds of millions of taxes on earned income in the last several years, committee members say.

While some of the loopholes had been plugged up by Congress last year, members of the investigating body predicted other changes could be made which would increase the revenues $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 a year.

RECOUNT AIDS GOLLMAR

Twenty-two enthusiastic voters in the First Election District, West Homestead, today apparently had boosted the lead of Sheriff Frank Gollmar for re-election over John Heinz.

The district's ballot box on the recount showed that while only 789 voters were registered there, 811 ballots had been dropped into the box. Of these Gollmar received only 173 to Heinz' 231. The other 407 ballots were not marked for sheriff.

If the box should be thrown out, as appeared probable, Gollmar's lead of 402 votes over Heinz after 75 boxes had been recounted, would be increased by more than 50. Twenty-eight boxes remained to be checked.

URS BY CUBA U.S. BALKED

TEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. P.)—Representatives of a of American republics, did not include the United s, designated the Colombian gation today to inform the ban delegation that attacks on e United States in the Panmerican conference were not permissible.

The action was taken to forestall derogatory remarks against the United States in the Cuban response to be made later in the day to the salutations of Dr. Alberto Mane, foreign minister of Uruguay.

Dr. Jose M. Puig Casauranc, foreign minister of Mexico, revealed his nation's intention to sponsor a six to 10-year Pan-American moratorium on public and private debts today, when he proposed an amendment to the Pan-American conference agenda.

The amendment suggested an international court deal with these debts without the intervention of bankers, that a common bimetallic monetary system be established with domestic price levels as the monetary basis, and the use of silver for a portion of the reserves and coinage.

M'Kellar Denounces Roosevelt's Critics

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—In a denunciation of President Roosevelt's critics, Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, said yesterday the American people were facing a "death struggle between the speculators in New York City who produce nothing and who create nothing, and the great wealth-creating masses of our people."

VOTERS TENSE IN LOUISIANA

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Ashes of hundreds of burned ballots, expressed fears of bloodshed if troops are called out and warning from officialdom that no intimidation of voters would be tolerated tomorrow at the polls streaked the horizon of Louisiana's Sixth Congressional District on election eve.

The election was called a week ago for Tuesday by Gov. O. K. Allen to fill the vacancy in Congress caused by the death last June of Representative Bolivar E. Kemp.

The Sixth District Democratic Executive Committee, friendly to Senator Huey P. Long, on that day met in New Orleans, disregarded the primary and nominated the widow of the late representative for the position.

Thereupon a storm of protest with open threats of "revolution" swept the district and centered last night in burning of ballots and a series of citizens' mass meetings through the district called by opponents of Long and Allen.

Maine Plans Lottery To Meet Expenses

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A state lottery bill, which Senator Frank H. Robie, of Westbrook, its sponsor, believes will be "a tremendous financial aid to the state," was in preliminary form today as he left to attend the special legislative session at Augusta.

He expected to redraft the measure for presentation to the Legislature. Its present provisions call for a state commission of three to five members to supervise such a lottery, the frequency with which they would be held, the fixing of tick ices, the amount of prizes to b ded and designation of the various agencies for sale of tickets.

A local option clause would permit any community to vote permissibility of the lottery in that particular town.

Proceeds would be set up as a separate account of the state, to which would be charged all expenses of operating the lottery and from which, when net profit was shown, the Governor and council would have authority to transfer funds for general purposes of the state.

Cities and towns would be allowed a commission of 15 per cent for acting as agents.

Kidnap Suspect Pleads Guilty

Court Rules War Insurance Taxable

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Property purchased by World War veterans out of government compensation, and war risk insurance received from the Veterans' Bureau was held today by the Supreme Court to be subject to taxation by the states.

This was ruled in a case brought by T. J. Trotter, guardian of Joseph A. Leake, World War veteran living at Maryville, Tenn

Presence at Lynching Held Sin by Priest

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The Rev. Victor Meagher, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, told his Catholic parishioners yesterday that presence in the mob that hanged Lloyd Warner, Negro, accused of attacking a white girl, was a sin that must be confessed.

He said:

"The mere presence of any Catholic in that mob is a matter of confession. I don't care whether presence there was only curiosity. The very fact that you were there and watched that murder makes it a sin that must be confessed."

Teachers Forced to Buy Jobs, State Head Told

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Charges that a new racket—the sale of jobs to teachers—is flourishing in Pennsylvania are being investigated by the Department of Public Instruction.

Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of the department, said he was informed school directors in some districts have been awarding positions to teachers willing to pay for them.

In one case, a young applicant is alleged to have paid between $200 and $300 for a job, after borrowing the money. When he was unable to get the cash for a second year, he was dismissed.

Dr. Rule said the racket was first reported in several scattered districts, but that it seems to have spread to many parts of the state.

Whether the system is operating under a central leader or whether there are no connection between the cases, the superintendent has been unable to determine.

LE GALLIENNE 'WOULDN'T DREAM' OF CRITICIZING ETHEL

DENIES ACTRESS CALLED WOMEN 'MORONS'

Barrymore Protege Here Tells About Phila. 'Tirade'

With echoes of the tongue-lashing given Philadelphia society women by Ethel Barrymore still ringing in her ears, Miss Eva Le Gallienne here today refused to criticize Miss Barrymore. She said:

"I wouldn't dream of criticizing Miss Barrymore for what she said. But she didn't call them morons. I don't think the word moron is in her vocabulary. It was all a sort of tempest in a teapot."

Explaining her failure to attend the meeting of Philadelphia clubwomen which brought about criticism and the resultant verbal bombasts by Miss Barrymore, Miss Le Gallienne added:

"The engagement was a professional one, and I had been told that it had been canceled. That's why I didn't show up. But they fell upon me like a ton of bricks and said I had behaved abominably."

Ethel Barrymore was with Miss Le Gallienne when she did appear before the group. Miss Barrymore, reported to have been introduced by Miss Le Gallienne, said:

"Miss Le Gallienne does you great honor to be here. I do you honor to be here. I don't see why we speak to you at all. You have no appreciation. You don't know anything. You never will know anything."

Miss Le Gallienne who is here for a week's theater engagement, will appear before the Drama League in the William Penn Hotel today. She will be introduced by Albert C. Lehman, at whose home she is staying while in Pittsburgh.

'Nothing to Add', Miss Barrymore Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—There is "nothing to add" to the denunciation heaped on 300 Philadelphia society women by Ethel Barrymore. The noted actress made that plain today as she remained in virtual seclusion at her home in suburban Mamaroneck.

The denunciation came as the result of criticism of a "sister of the stage," Eva Le Gallienne, because the latter failed to keep an appointment with the Philadelphia matrons.

Miss Barrymore told her Philadelphia audience in extremely plain terms that they "know nothing" and were unappreciative of an artist like Miss Le Gallienne.

Miss Barrymore spent Sunday with a few intimate friends, it was learned, but the topic of her Philadelphia remarks was taboo.

FINIS IN PALMER ROMANCE NEAR

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—Before a Superior Court judge this week, finis will be written to the romance of Corliss Palmer, beauty contest winner and film actress, and Eugene V. Brewster, once a millionaire publisher and now seeking to stage a comeback as writer and author's agent.

The charges filed by Miss Palmer contain general and specific allegations of neglect, false accusations and the like.

The divorce hearing is the last chapter in a romance that began 13 years ago when Miss Palmer, in Macon, Ga., submitted her photograph in a beauty contest being held by the magazines then published by Brewster.

Brewster himself selected the picture as a possibility when he was looking over photographs rejected by judges.

Winning, Miss Palmer went to New York and drifted into a romance with Brewster. They were married in Mexico in November, 1926.

Wife's Crash Death Nets Mate $8,850

Stanley F. Doak, of Newell, Fayette County, was awarded $8,850 against the Penn Bus Company by a Federal Court jury today in a suit arising from an automobile accident, January 14, 1932.

Doak's wife, Mrs. Anna B. Doak, was fatally injured. The accident occurred on Route 88 between Brown's Hill and Charleroi.

Docket Jammed, 22 Jurors Dismissed

Because judges are tied up with present cases, Judge Samuel H. Gardner, presiding in the assignment room of Common Pleas Court, dismissed 22 of the 230 present panel of jurors who reported today.

Married in Mexico

ALICE WHITE...NOW SHE'S MRS. SIDNEY "CY" BARTLETT

Miss White, the film actress whose five-year up-and-down courtship by Scenarist Bartlett led to marriage in Sonora, Mexico.

ALICE WHITE WEDS WRITER

MAGDALENA, Senora, Mexico, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Alice White, film actress, and Sidney Bartlett, writer, whose marriage here climaxed an engagement of several years, were honeymooning today at the Mexican ranch of Antonio Proto, a friend.

The couple was married in the Magdalena town hall by Civil Judge Francisco Estrella Sunday and then were guests at a party attended by leading townspeople and Mayor Roberto Urias.

The names of Miss White and Bartlett, whose engagement was first announced by the actress in 1929, figured in a Los Angeles grand jury investigation several months ago of the attack by two robbers on John Warburton, British actor.

The robbers, who were captured, were quoted by police as charging Bartlett hired them to disfigure Warburton after the latter allegedly slapped Miss White.

Miss White, though saying Warburton had "knocked her all over the street," denied any knowledge of the alleged attack by the two robbers and Bartlett refused to testify before the grand jury. The investigation was dropped.

POPE TELLS ALL TO SACRIFICE

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Pope Pius yesterday urged girls to "resist the attractions of indecent fashions" in an address in connection with the martyrdom of three Jesuit fathers slain by South American Indians in 1628.

The pontiff presided at a reading of the final decree for canonization, and exhorted a throng of listeners to observe the sacrifices made by the trio of martyrs and to make sacrifices themselves.

He urged the sacrifices be applied to parents in bearing and educating children, to girls in resisting the attraction of fashions and to all people in supporting the privations imposed by the present economic crisis.

N. Y. Zoo Has First Vampire Born Captive

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(Universal)—A vampire brought to the Bronx zoo from Panama by Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars in September—the first one ever to be lured into captivity—has given birth to a baby vampire, the first one ever born in captivity.

PUBLISHER SUED BY WIFE

PITTSBURG, Kan., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marcet Haldeman-Julius, wife of the Girard publisher, E. Haldeman-Julius, today filed suit in District Court here for separate maintenance and judgment of $125,00. She charged that sum has been turned over to the publisher by her since their marriage at Cedardville, Ill., in 1916.

Mrs. Haldeman-Julius charged extreme cruelty, declaring her husband refused to supply her with funds for household expenses.

Several years ago Haldeman-Julius publicly became a champion of the companionte marriage doctrine of Ben S. Lindsey, former Denver Juvenile Court judge. Late in 1927, his adopted daughter, Josephine, and Aubrey Roselle, embarked upon a companionate marriage with the approval of the publisher.

Slapped Over Movie, Girl Leaves Home

Because her face was slapped when she argued over her right to attend a movie, 16-year-old Dorothy Roth ran away from her home at 1230 Bellaire place, her mother, Mrs. Jeannette Roth, reported today to the Bureau of Missing Persons. Missing with her is a cousin, Leona Roberts, 20, of Painesville, O.

Pressure is relatively low off the Middle Atlantic Coast, over the upper Mississippi Valley, and the Canadian Northwest, while highs overlie the southeastern states and the Pacific Coast states. Weather continues mostly cloudy over the country, with rain, generally light, in the lake region, the Ohio valley and eastward to the coast, and light snow in the northern plains. It is somewhat colder over the lakes and the central valleys, except in Minnesota, and over most of the Canadian Northwest, while it is warmer over the southern plains and the Southern Rocky Mountain region.

PUSH BLACKMAIL CASE AGAINST 'KIN' OF KING

Threats Sent George V Revealed in Court, 'Pretender' Jailed

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A public prosecutor read letters in Bow Street Police Court today in an attempt to prove that Clarence Guy Gordon Haddon, 43-year-old engineer, sought to blackmail King George.

At the end of the hearing, Haddon, who claims to be the illegitimate son of the late Duke of Clarence and hence a nephew of the King, was remanded to jail until Tuesday.

From one letter the prosecutor read:

"It would only have taken a year's income from my late father to have made me the happiest and most contented man in the British Empire. It would have meant so little to the royal family.

"The blessing of God would have been on their household for years, whereas now I will be a byword to the world and so will the name of the royal family."

EXTORTION CHARGE

The prosecution contended the letters were written by Haddon to the King in an attempt to extort money.

From another letter, dated November 8, the prosecution read:

"Within a few days I am having made sandwich boards giving the particulars of my case. I shall personally carry this board about the streets of London in an attempt to secure justice."

In other epistles were mentioned a letter to the President of the United States and the preparation of petitions to the House of Commons and the League of Nations.

Extracts from the letter claimed that Haddon had been followed by detectives and had been "hounded about like a criminal for no other crime than that of being the son of the late Duke of Clarence."

THREAT MENTIONED

Another mentioned "my backers" and a promise Haddon made "to get myself into the law courts for the money they have spent on me and are still spending, in return for which I am to come before the eyes of the public."

In opening the proceedings, the prosecutor declared:

"There is absolutely no evidence at all to support his assertion."

The court magistrate denied bail to Haddon for the period of his remand, but granted him leave to apply again for release next week.

DREAM OF DEAD SPURS SUICIDE

Brooding over the death, more than a year ago, of his wife and child, James Simpson, 28, of 90 Evans avenue, Ingram, shot himself in the chest and died a short time later, according to a morgue report.

Simpson's body was found by his mother, Mrs. Minnie Simpson. He was attired in pajamas and a revolver was clutched in his hand, she told morgue investigators.

Mrs. Simpson said her son had been disconsolate since the death of his wife and child. Recently she said her son told her his loved ones had appeared to him in a dream. Recounting the dream later, Mrs. Simpson said her son told her:

"I won't be here long."

GARBER WINNER OF POPULAR ART PRIZE

Vote of Visitors to Exhibition Favors 'Mother and Son'

A $200 prize for the most popular painting in the thirty-first International, at Carnegie Institute, yesterday was awarded to Daniel Garber, American artist, for his painting "Mother and Son." This is the ninth year that this prize has been awarded in connection with the art exhibition.

The award was based on votes of visitors to the exhibition during the last two weeks. Each visitor was given a ballot and asked to vote for the painting considered the best in the exhibition. All but three paintings entered were eligible for prizes. The object of the prize, offered by the Fine Arts Committee, is to stimulate interest in the exhibition and to encourage visitors to express their opinions.

CLOSEST COMPETITORS

The closest competitors of the prize painting were: "Portrait of Mrs. G. D. Thompson" by Malcolm Parcell; "Navajo Family" by F. Luis Mora; "Miss Anna Cristine Thompson", by Gerald F. Kelly; "Reclining Nude" by Jose de Togores; "Portrait of a Singer," by Ludomir Slendzinski, and "The Household," by Leon Kroll.

Mr. Garber was born in North Manchester, Ind., in 1880 but for the last 26 years has been living in the Dalaware Valley, near New Hope, Pa. He received his early training in art at the Cincinnati Academy and later at the Pennsylvania Academy. He studied under J. Alden Weir and eventually pursued his art studies in Paris and Florence. He has been represented in many Carnegie Internationals. He was a member of the jury of award in 1914, 1921 and 1925. In 1910 he received an honorable mention in the International and in 1924, at the Twenty-third International he received third prize.

WINNER OF MANY AWARDS

His painting, "Grey Day, March," is owned by Carnegie Institute and hangs in the permanent collection. He has received numerous art awards and is represented in all the important galleries.

About 7,162 peope visited the international yesterday. The attendance to date is approximately 116,585.

The International will continue another week in order that visitors may return to see the popular prize painting. It closes December 10.

ACCEPT ITALY'S OFFER ON DEBT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The United States today accepted Italy's offer to pay $1,000,000 on the $2,133,905 Italian debt installment due this country December 15.

Acting Secretary of State Phillips notified Augusto Rosso, Italian Ambassador, that this government would "take note" of the Italian promise to pay $1,000,000 and not consider Italy's debt in default.

As soon as Rosso has communicated the American reply to Rome, an official announcement will be made concerning the offer and acceptance.

GRIEF STALKS WAR ACTRESS

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Alice Cocea, a noted French actress whose life has been dogged by tragedy, lay gravely ill today with blood poisoning, the result of pricking her finger on a lobster claw.

Mlle. Cocea played in the first underground theater during the World War and was starred in shows that had long runs in Paris. Recently she tried a comeback in the face of unpopularity resulting from the suicide in August, 1932, of Lieut. Victor Point, a French naval officer, after he and the actress had quarreled.

Mlle. Cocea is the wife of Count Stanislas De La Rouchefoucald. They were married in 1925 after an attempt by the count's father to prevent the union. At the time of Lieut. Point's death, the count was quoted as saying Mlle. Cocea intended to marry the officer after obtaining a divorce.

Frick Mansion To Be Museum

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Converson of the upper Fifth avenue residence housing the Henry Clay Frick art collection from a private into a public museum has been started, it was announced tonight.

Frederick M. Clapp, executive director, said 175 men were dismantling the rooms which will not be used, but that he could not say when the house would be opened to the public.

'WORK FOR 200'

McGovern said there was plenty of work for 200 men right away, adding:

"I can't see what difference it makes whether they are clearing out trees or grading a road."

Batt said it was probable 200 men would be working by the end of the week.

The six men on hand attacked the tree-clearing project, and a steam shovel puffed up the road, all ready to supplement the efforts of the 200 workmen when, and if, they show up.

PROJECTS APPROVED

State Civil Works Administrator Eric H. Biddle today approved three CWA projects in Allegheny County. The projects and the number of men to be employed are:

Extension of Sewickley water system, 40; construction of Shaw avenue sewer, Clairton, 45; paving Miller avenue, Clairton, 50.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press dispatch from Washington said the War Department today allotted $2,450,000 for improvement of lock and dam construction on the Ohio River, taking the money from funds advanced by the Public Works Administration.

The work includes construction of the Montgomery Island Dam in the Ohio River 31 miles below Pittsburgh. Bids for the work will be opened here December 12.

City Public Works Director Edward G. Lang said 2,800 men were employed on city CWA projects today.

J. Lysle Stuart, in charge of the CWA program in the county, expects to have 25,000 men on jobs eventually.

Employes in the county planning engineer's office worked day and night during the week-end to prepare plans for three projects which were mailed to Harrisburg for approval today. These plans are for grading and draining county roads.

Planning Engineer E. L. Schmidt said he expected approval of the Natrona Heights road project today.

Nurse Giving Blood Saves 4 Babies In Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Miss Edith Miller, a nurse at the Brooklyn Women's Hospital, saved the lives of four babies last week by donating her blood for transfusions.

'IT'S ALL LIES,' RUBY REPEATS FROM SICKBED

Bates Girl's Affidavit Charges Frameup at Scottsboro Trial

International News Service.

COURTROOM, DECATUR, Ala., Dec. 4.—From a pain-wracked bed in a New York hospital today came the word of a 19-year-old Alabama mill girl to hurl the charge of "frame up" in the thrice-tried Scottsboro attack case.

"It's all lies'"

That is what the affidavit of Ruby Bates, one of two supposed victims of mass attacks by a group of a dozen Negro hoboes aboard a freight train near Paint Rock, Ala., March 25, 1931, said.

The Bates girl, who dramatically appeared at the first retrials last April to repudiate her assertion in the first trials that she and Victoria Price were mistreated, was unable to appear here again because of a major operation undergone a little more than a week ago.

Defense counsel said the witness would not have appeared, anyway, because she believed she would be lynched if she ever came South again.

Her affidavit was introduced in the closing hours of the trial of Clarence Norris, second of the seven defendants again to face judgement.

With frequent interruptions by state objections, it was read by Joseph Brodsky, defense counsel employed by the International Labor Defense.

The Bates girl declared neither girl was harmed by the Negroes and charged the story of the attack was "framed" by Victoria Price, who feared prosecution under the Mann Act for having crossed the state line on the hobo trip from Huntsville, Ala., to Chattanooga, Tenn., from which they were returning when the train was halted by an armed posse at Paint Rock following a fight between groups of Negro hoboes.

COUNSEL REBUKED

After striving unsuccessfully to have evidence admitted that Ruby and Victoria had spent the night preceding the alleged attacks in a hobo jungle with Leyoer Carter, young hobo, and Orvel Gilley, tramp poet, the defense was permitted to give Ruby's account of what happened after they boarded the freight train at Chattanooga to return to Huntsville.

Judge W. W. Callahan, who earlier had sharply rebuked Samuel S. Letbowitz, chief defense counsel, for his court attitude, excluded the testimony of prior incidents on the ground they had no bearing on the case.

WARN DE VALERA ON SECESSION

International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The British government today decided to the responsibility for Irish sion from the common squarely on the shoulders of ident Emaonn De Valera.

At a full cabinet session, a was drafted for dispatch to Irish Free State President, reiterating that the choice of an Irlenad within or without the sommonwealth is entirely his. The note contained a pointed reminder, however, that secession wil lautomatically exclude the Free States from the advantages of commonwealth membership.

The government also decided, it was learned, to draft a special statute enabling Irishmen living in the United Kingdom or employed in government service or the army, and navy to remain within the empire as individuals by swearing allegiance.

Girl Quitting Gandhi Disappears in India

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Nila Cram Cook, who until recently was a follower of the Mahatma Gandhi, left the hotel where she had been staying the last nine days and disappeared today, apparently taking a train for an undisclosed destination. It was learned she plans to return to the United States soon. Miss Cook, meanwhile, lodged a complaint with police that $40,000 and jewelry were stolen from her hotel room.

Gambling Charge Wins Wife Divorce

Mrs. Kathryn A. Sandsberry, of 1602 Station street, was granted a divorce today after she testified her husband operated a gambling place in the rear of their apartment.

She told Judge Samuel H. Gardner she was married June 28, 1921 and a few days later discovered her husband, Harry W. Sandsberry, maintained the gambling establishment.

McGovern Seeing Six Start CWA Job!

COUNTY COMMISSIONER CHARLES C. M'GOVERN, FRANK BATT (LEFT) WATCHING SIX WORK

Mr. McGovern, in South Park to see 200 men start a CWA task of building a new county road, talking with the job's superintendent as six workmen—all who showed up to work—carried on. The probable reason: orders didn't reach the others. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Hawaii Volcano Spouts Lava in Eruption

HILO, Hawaii, December 4.—(AP.)—Molten lava surged and spouted in the Mokuweoweo crater at the summit of Mount Loa today in a continuation of the greatest eruption of that volcano since 1903.

A cascade of fiery lava seething across the plateau at the summit forms a pillar of smoke by day and of fire at night.

Two gigantic smoke plumes trailed from the peak early Saturday to give the first indication that Pele, Hawaiian goddess of fire, was stirring from her long sleep.

Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, volcanologist, took up headquarters near the crater to make scientific observations. Dr. Jaggar said activity here, in Alaska, Japan and Salvador, was attributable to a sun spot period coming on an average of every 11 years.

City Swept by Freak Electrical Storm

Lightning flashed and thunder rumbled last night in a freak December electrical storm lasting an hour.

Observer W. S. Brotzman explained that Pittsburgh was in the center of a storm area and that atmospheric conditions were favorable for a thunderstorm, a rarity in winter. A heavy rain accompained the electrical display, with the temperature in the 40s.

Mild weather is in store for a day or so, the weatherman said.

STATE TO LEAD REPEAL RITES TOMORROW

How to Get a Drink In Pennsylvania

Where—At any restaurant, hotel, club, boat or dining car licensed by the State Liquor Control Board.

When—As soon as the thirty-sixth state ratifies repeal, which probably will be about 3 p. m. Tuesday, December 5; thereafter between 7 a. m. and 2 a. m.

What—Anything you want, from straight liquor and mixed drinks to fancy wines.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—In 1919 they shouted "King Barleycorn is dead." Tomorrow they'll declare prohibition legally dead after 13 eventful years.

And the rhythmic crash of the cocktail shaker and the tinkle of highball glasses will proclaim that Pennsylvanians again may take a drink without breaking the law.

At noon the state repeal convention meets in the ornate Senate chamber for the formality of casting its vote for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Ohio and Utah, thirty-fifth and thirty-sixth states to go wet, hold their conventions at 1 p. m. and 2 p. m., respectively—and by 3 o'clock officials expect liquor to flow.

Washington has ruled that prohibition is dead the moment the thirty-sixth state casts its ballot.

SHANNON PRESIDES

Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth, next certifies the state's 15 wet delegates elected at the November 7 election. Then delegates cast their votes. Shannon and Hamilton sign the certificate showing that the votes were cast, their signatures are attested by Beamish—and it's all over.

Two copies of the certificate are to be dispatched to Washington — one by airplane or swift motorcycle and one by registered mail. However, the result will be telegraphed to the State Department immediately.

But public interest centers not in the official conventions, but in how to get the first drink, w' ere and when.

Indications are that as early as Tuesday afternoon, hotels, restaurants and clubs will have an ample supply of intoxicants ready to serve.

NO SHORTAGE OF RYE

There may be a shortage of champagne and other expensive wines for a while, but no dearth of rye whisky is seen.

Between December 5 and January 2 liquor may be sold by the drink, bottle, case or carload at any restaurant, hotel or club that has a license issued by the State Liquor Control Board.

On January 2, state liquor stores begin operating and there is no restriction on the amount that may be bought in them. However, after the turn of the year, restaurants, hotels and clubs may sell only by the drink.

[illegible] stores will open between [illegible] to 9 p. m. Restaurants [illegible]els between 7 a. m. and 2 [illegible] Clubs 24 hours a day.

[illegible]as for tomorrow night, the [illegible]gal liquor since post-war [illegible]lows and the order of the [illegible]ng will be Manhattans, Mar[illegible]s, Bacardis, or what'll you [illegible]ive?

Speedy Vote on Repeal Expected in Ohio

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Ohio expects little delay in the state constitutional convention tomorrow to ratify the Twenty-first, or Repeal, Amendment.

Summoned to meet at 1 p. m., eastern standard time, the 50 delegates will be convened by Gov. George White, will fill two vacancies in the delegation committed to repeal, caused by deaths since the November 7 election, name a chairman and record their "ayes."

Gov. White has expressed the hope the convention will fulfill its duty with dispatch, and repeal leaders declare they will oppose any tendency to linger in order to gain the distinction of having Ohio be the thirty-sixth state to ratify.

Utah May Delay Repeal With Red Tape Ceremony

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—It appeared likely today that national prohibition repeal will not come until well along in the afternoon tomorrow—what with all the ceremonies arranged for Utah's formal ratification as the thirty-sixth state.

With Pennsylvania and Ohio acting earlier in the day, the Utah convention will meet at 2 p. m. (Pittsburgh time) tomorrow to deliver the knockout blow to the Eighteenth Amendment.

But final action on the ratification resolution will come only after an imposing array of formalities. Thus it appeared likely that the afternoon would be well spent before the roll call of the 21 delegates—elected November 7 and all pledged for repeal—could be completed, and the result of the vote announced. Then, and not until then, will the prohibition amendment cease to be effective.

Pinchot Signs Bill For Bridge Loans

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today signed a bill authorizing the Highway Department to borrow money from the federal government for construction of toll bridges.

The measure was introduced by Senator Frederick T. Gelder, of Susquehanna. Repayment will be made from tolls.

City All Set to Lift Drink of Legal Liquor

tainly after January 2, when the state liquor stores open their doors and take over the package trade.

All of which offered little solace today to the wholesale druggists. The wholesalers have asked the Attorney General at Harrisburg to make a ruling as to their status; they hope to continue to dispense medicinal whisky as they have during prohibition.

The new laws permit retail druggists to sell medicinal whisky, although no directions are given as to where the whisky is to be bought.

The night clubs and hotels are anxious to make tomorrow night a night of celebration. And indications are they will succeed in enticing customers bent on recognizing repeal.

POLICE TO BE LENIENT

Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide will be lenient with those who desire to celebrate.

He will, however, have 200 police on hand at spots where things are likely to happen, and the traffic squad has been instructed to keep an eye open for drunken motorists.

The superintendent feels that the people deserve a celebration and if the night clubs are open a minute or two past the closing hour of 1 a. m., well . . .

Not all of the eligible places will be able to offer whisky tomorrow, for the rush for licenses has been so great throughout the state that the new Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board is swamped under the avalanche of applications.

50,000 SEEKING JOBS

Just as great is the avalanche of job-seekers. Fifty thousand have applied for jobs in the state liquor stores which will open January 2. Civil service examination of the applicants will be held December 16 in high school buildings. In charge will be the district superintendents of schools.

Pittsburgh is expected to have, after the first of the year, at least a half-dozen of these stores, which will take over the package business from the hotels and restaurants.

The head of the glassware department in a large downtown store said today that the wine glasses are more in demand than any other style. Next comes the champagne, and then the cocktail glasses.

URGES PASSAGE OF AID BILLS

Social reform measures now awaiting action by the State Legislature are the most important before that body in a number of years, Congressman Henry Ellenbogen declared in telegrams sent yesterday to Gov. Pinchot, Lieut. Gov. Shannon and Speaker Talbot. He characterized the measures more important to the people of Pennsylvania than legislation dealing with liquor. The telegram read in part:

"It is imperative that these measures be acted upon promptly and favorably if the voters of Pennsylvania are not to be betrayed.

"The freezing of these measures in committees or the premature adjournment of the Legislature to prevent their passage would constitute a major tragedy for thousands of lives and would relegate the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the ranks of the most backward of the states of the Union. I submit this for your very earnest attention and hope that you will help to keep the Legislature in session until these measures are passed."

State Bonus Action Expected This Week

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Measures to set up machinery for payment of the $50,000,000 soldiers' bonus authorized by the voters at the November 7 election are at present lodged in the Senate Military Affairs Committee. Observers expect action on them during the week.

REPEAL EDICT FIGHT HEARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Decision in the court action to prevent the issuance of the State Department proclamation announcing repeal will be given tomorrow by Justice F. Dickinson Letts in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Argument of the case, brought by Canon William Sheafe Chase, of Brooklyn, and George S. Duncan, of this city, both of the International Reform Federation, to prevent acting Secretary Phillips from issuing the proclamation, was heard today by Justice Letts.

District Attorney Leo A. Rover argued the petitioners had not sufficient legal interest to bring the action, that they had another and complete remedy at law, that the Secretary of State was not exceeding his jurisdiction but was about to perform a mandatory act, and that the proclamation does not affect the validity of the amendment.

Counsel for the reform leaders contended that unless the writ were issued, suits instituted in Vermont and Pennsylvania contesting the validity of the states' action would be ended by the proclamation.

King Christian Sends Greeting to America

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—King Christian, of Denmark, sent a holiday greeting yesterday to Danes in America, who he said are preserving the best of what they brought with them from Europe.

RUM TAX BILLS NEXT BEFORE ASSEMBLY

By ROBERT F. GORMAN
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—Finished with liquor control, Pennsylvania's Legislature turned its attention to the taxation features of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's program today before stepping too deeply into social legislation and other intricate problems.

Tonight the upper chamber will give consideration to the Witkin bill taxing all liquor exported from Pennsylvania after tomorrow. It was expected the Governor would appear before a joint meeting of both houses and urge speedy action on social matters and other points in his call to permit an early adjournment.

Other bills up for final passage are the Wilson bill boosting the license fees for breweries, distilleries, and wineries, and the Spann measure making the 1933 beverage law apply only to malt liquids.

BEER BILL ACTION DUE

The Zimmerman bill, the last of the Governor's program, will probably be brought from Senate committee tonight and passed finally tomorrow. It removes the alcoholic content limitations on beer.

As a final touch to the beverage issue, the Senate also must consider finally the Ziesenheim resolution establishing a commission to study the liquor problem generally and report to the 1935 General Assembly.

The financial end of this subject grasped the attention of the House, where several bills dealing with proceeds and profits anticipated from state store liquor sales were under consideration on second reading.

They are a portion of the series the administration has drafted to handle approximately $53,000,000 anticipated from liquor during the remainder of the biennium.

Relief made its appearance in the Talbot bill providing for a $20,000,000 liquor revenue appropriation to the State Emergency Relief Board for aiding Pennsylvania's destitute and unemployed until June, 1935. This sum would be matched by a similar amount from the federal government.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Two Sterling bills make necessary appropriations for establishment and continued operation of state stores expected to open for package sales January 2. One Blumberg bill appropriates liquor money for old age pensions, while another provides for state assistance in the burial of certain aged indigent persons.

Several recovery bills awaited action in both houses while the lower body was ready to consider on first reading the Rice bill, setting up machinery to permit the commonwealth to purchase toll bridges as authorized by a constitutional amendment adopted in November.

Problems of the milk business were to be aired at a public hearing this afternoon on the Buckman milk bill. It provides for a milk control board to issue licenses and regulate prices and already has passed the Senate.

S. Carolina Rejects Prohibition Repeal

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—South Carolina today became the first state to reject the Twenty-first Amendment through formal convention action.

The vote of the convention against abrogation of the Eighteenth Amendment was unanimous, pursuant to the anti-repeal vote cast at the special election November 7.

BEER BARON'S HUNT PUSHED

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—With five federal agents assigned to the sole task of bringing him in, Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer is next on the list of beer racketeers the government intends to jail for income tax evasion.

The scope of the relentless hunt for Schultz was revealed by United States Attorney Thomas Dewey, who successfully prosecuted the income tax case against Waxey Gordon, New Jersey beer baron, now under a 10-year sentence.

Gordon, the other racket chief dethroned by Dewey and his assistants, ate prison fare in the Federal House of Detention Saturday and conferred with his lawyers on the plans for appeal from his sentence. Indicating he was resigned to the prison term if his appeal failed, Gordon shrugged and said:

"I can take it."

Phillips Again Urged To Take Liquor Job

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., Butler oil man, who has been appointed to the State Liquor Control Board, today was urged again by Gov. Gifford Pinchot to accept the appointment.

JUDGE'S RULING INDICATES NRA LEGAL WAR

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Widespread legal contest of NRA's business regulation powers was predicted here last night following the decision by Federal Judge Alexander Akerman in Tampa, Fla., Saturday, that the Blue Eagle can not invade state's rights.

Akerman held it "pernicious" for NRA to attempt to fix prices in local industries.

The decision was looked on as providing an opening wedge for similar attacks on NRA all over the country.

UPHOLDS JUDGE

Senator L. J. Dickinson (Rep.), of Iowa, attorney and 1932 Republican keynoter, said:

"Judge Akerman is 100 per cent right. He deserves credit for his courage at a time when every effort has been made to generally intimidate the judiciary on grounds that it must not rule against NRA for fears of injuring recovery.

"A few more such decisions and the greatest obstacle to recovery—NRA—will be removed. The whole theory of NRA is absolutely unconstitutional and the efforts at price-fixing and regulations of state industries is what Judge Akerman called it—'pernicious.'"

Donald Richberg, NRA counsel, attempted to belittle the decision. He said:

"The decision is not as far-reaching as it looks. There was no actual evidence in the opinion. It does not affect the actual recovery act. It is merely an expression of a Judge and no doubt there are 10,000 lawyers of the same opinion."

HOTEL CODE BATTLE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—The NRA today faced a battle with the far-flung hotel industry over the hotel code.

Leaders in the industry's effort to prepare a code have informed hotel men the code was imposed without their consent and in spite of a promise of further conferences by Hugh S. Johnson, NRA Administrator.

In some sections, according to information received here, hotel men are planning to inform the NRA they cannot operate under the code.

One of the chief complaints of the hotel interests, especially resort hotels, is that they will have to maintain separate working forces for breakfast and dinner.

STATE POLICE SENT TO MINE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot says he was notified today by James White, sheriff of Greene County, that deputy sheriffs have been removed from Nemacolin and that state police have been requested to supplant them.

The State Police Department said a half dozen officers will be sent from Greensburg.

Police used tear gas Saturday to disperse a crowd of 600 who they said had threatened to kill two families in a dispute over workers' representatives in the Buckeye Coal Company's mine at Nemacolin.

Trucking Assn. Head To Discuss NRA Code

The outcome of the trucking industry code hearings in Washington will be discussed by Ted V. Rodgers, president of the American Trucking Associations, Inc., at a meeting of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, at 5001 Center avenue, Thursday night.

Benjamin G. Eynon will speak on the status in Harrisburg of legislation affecting trucks.

1900 Penna. Miners Balked by Pickets

TAMAQUA, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—About 1,900 miners of the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company were turned from work at two collieries today by miners not scheduled for work at the company's other operations.

Workers on the day shift at the Tamaqua and Greenwood collieries found the workings picketed, and went home.

Garment Label Drive Committee Named

DESTRUCTIVE PROPAGANDA—By Robert H. Hemphill

part of a definite SYSTEM OF PROPAGANDA intended to DISCREDIT the administration, ON WHOM THE SURVIVAL OF OUR SOCIAL COMPACT UNQUESTIONABLY DEPENDS, then such a proceeding cannot be too severely condemned.

I have held all along that the banking system will have to be redesigned or replaced with some credit manufacturing agency competent to loan direct to commerce and industry not less than twenty billions of dollars of credit.

I know of no practical substitute for a complete loan-deposit credit system.

In his book, "Credit and Prices," Dr. J. Laurence Laughlin, of the University of Chicago, said:

"Whether we like banks or not, the fact is, they are the institutions of credit, evolved by centuries of experience to serve the needs of trade; and whether they like it or not, the banks MUST SATISFY THESE NEEDS or CEASE TO EXIST."

ON JUNE 30, 1929, all the depositors in all the banks of the nation had to their credit approximately $28,000,000,000 subject to check.

This was our ACTIVE WORKING CAPITAL.

We were drawing checks against these deposits to pay for our purchases, the goods and services which we were exchanging with each other.

I believe every thoughtful person will agree that in 1929 this exchange was proceeding as fast as possible. That we were using our total working capital to the limit.

It was so rapid that this entire $28,000,000,000 was being transferred, at the peak of business, AT THE AVERAGE RATE OF 47 TIMES PER ANNUM.

It obviously is impossible to duplicate that activity unless we have an equal amount, equally widely distributed.

Three years later on the same date, June 30, 1932, $8,000,000,000 of these deposits had been used to pay loans to the banks, leaving only $20,000,000,000 in circulation.

This $20,000,000,000 was not being transferred as rapidly, not because there was less disposition to exchange goods and services, but because when banks generally get apprehensive and start calling loans, the first loans collected are paid out of deposits in most active use—therefore as bank liquidation proceeds, the deposits which remain available consist more and more of reserve deposits—minimum working balances, which are necessarily much less active.

WHILE ACCURATE present data is unavailable, it is fairly certain that a further contraction of $5,000,000,000 in our working capital (bank deposits subject to check) has occurred since June, 1932, so that the present effective working capital of the nation is something LESS than one-half of normal.

Necessarily our business has contracted in precise agreement.

This means that you and I cannot buy and sell the things you and I wish to buy and sell, for the very simple reason that we have not the money.

We have not the money for the equally simple reason that it does not exist.

IT SHOULD BE OBVIOUS THAT TO RESTORE THE EQUIVALENT OF 1926 ACTIVITY, WE MUST EXPAND OUR CURRENCY AND CREDIT IN CIRCULATION TO THAT LEVEL.

This is the keynote of the administration's program. Everyone who embarrasses its execution is definitely DELAYING RECOVERY.

State Police Called In Tannery Strike

NORWOOD, Mass., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—State and Boston police were called upon to aid the Norwood police today after striking tannery workers and hired guards had clashed in a fight that sent eight men to hospitals with injuries. One of the injured may die.

50,000 Meat Men Threaten to Strike

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Delegates of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers of North America today are considering calling a nation-wide packing strike that may involve 50,000 workers, officials said.

Representatives have been summoned from 1,000 local unions. Wages, working hours and conditions are the issues.

3 about Cigarettes

Not so long ago practically all cigarettes were made by hand

Now, Chesterfields are made by high-speed machines that turn out 750 cigarettes a minute, and the cigarettes are practically not touched by hand.

BY the use of long steel ovens—drying machines of the most modern type—and by ageing the leaf tobacco for 30 months—like wine is aged—Chesterfield tobacco is milder and tastes better.

Only pure cigarette paper—the best made—is used for Chesterfield.

And to make sure that everything that goes into Chesterfield is just right, expert chemists test all materials that are used in any way in the manufacture.

Chesterfields are made and packed in clean, up-to-date factories, where the air is changed every 4½ minutes. The moisture-proof package, wrapped in Du Pont's No. 300 Cellophane—the best made—reaches you just as if you went by the factory door.

In a letter to us, an eminent scientist says:

FIFTH PENN AND STANWIX . . . COURT 3000

DIAMONDS

RINGS
BRACELETS WATCHES

The prices are favorably low for gems of superb quality . . . lower than they will be, perhaps, in many subsequent seasons. Stocks and bonds have a quicksilver temperament, but precious jewels, bought in a favorable market, are not only things of joy and beauty, but they have a comforting quality of constancy. Fine jewels, like these, are necessarily one-of-a-kind . . . it would be a part of wisdom to make early Christmas selections.

A. Two baguette-cut diamonds and 44 round ones in this delicate open-work model with fleurs de lis links. $165

B. Slender baguette watch of platinum mounted with 24 round diamonds . . . 17-jewel movement. $85

C. Platinum and diamond cord watch in which 40 diamonds form an attractive new design . . . 17-jewel movement. $125

D. Diamond watch with 6 baguettes and 70 round diamonds in simple formation . . . Gothic-type flexible end links . . . 17-jewel movement. $265

E. Almost half way 'round the wrist, this platinum watch set with 6 baguettes and 60 round diamonds . . . note the extra diamond links . . . 17-jewel movement. $295

F. Platinum and diamond solitaire set with sixteen small diamonds . . . design of charm and simplicity. $295

G. Platinum and diamond dinner ring in which a marquis diamond is set with 26 round diamonds and 6 baguette diamonds in sparkling effect. $295

H. Simple effective solitaire in which a half-carat diamond in square mounting is set off with two marquis and two round diamonds . . . platinum set. $195

J. Platinum bracelet of flexible square links set with 17 perfectly matched white diamonds. $450

K. Platinum and diamond bracelet with square flexible links on either side; marquis and center stone . . . 72 diamonds and 1 marquis in all. $335

L. Flexible white gold wedding or guard ring, comprising six links, each set with a small diamond. $21.50

M. Effective lacy ring in diamonds and platinum . . . sizable center diamond in square setting supported by 10 others. $69.50

CROATIAN DISH AMONG PRIZE RECIPES

European, Oriental Foods Welcomed To Competition

Thanks to Prudence Penny, housewives may try not only the other woman's, but the other nation's favorite recipes. Included in today's prize list is Croatian kraut zafrik of which Miss Anna Zivick, who sent it in, says:

It's fun trying the dishes of foreign nations, seeing just how their foods differ from ours. Most every woman has quite a few recipes that she considers different from those used by her friends.

Send yours in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, whether they be European, American or Oriental. If one of your favorites is selected by the judges it will be awarded either the $5 first prize or one of the 10 $1 prizes.

No recipes, Prudence Penny reminds, will be returned.

FIVE DOLLAR PRIZE WINNER

MRS. MARIE BATT,
R. F. D. No. 6, Pittsburgh.
FRUIT JUICE GINGERBREAD

One cup brown sugar.
One-half cooking butter.
One cup fruit juice. (Any heavy fruit juice will suit.)
Two eggs.
Two and three-quarters cups flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One tablespoon ginger.
Two teaspoons soda.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One cup milk.

Beat the eggs. Add sugar and mix well. Add fruit juice. Melt cooking butter and mix together. Sift flour, salt, ginger and cinnamon. Add alternately with cup of milk. Last add soda dissolved in a little warm water. Bake in a moderate oven 25 to 30 minutes.

TEN $1 PRIZE WINNERS

MRS. E. J. FLESKE,
844 Grand avenue.
PLAIN VEGETABLE SOUP

Two or three pounds of boiling meat off leg with bone.
One medium-size onion.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One tablespoon salt.
Five quarts cold water.
Two cups finely diced carrots.
One cup green beans (cut fine), or one cup corn cut off cob.
One cup white turnips or rutabagas.
Two cups potatoes.
Four cups cabbage (shredded).
One cup celery (cut fine).
One green pepper (if desired).
One quart tomatoes mashed fine before adding to soup.
Two or three tablespoons of sugar.

In an eight or 10-quart kettle place meat, onion, salt, pepper and water. Let boil gently two hours. Then add celery, cabbage, beans, green pepper or corn. Put carrots, potatoes, turnips and rutabagas in an extra pot (together), cover with cold water and bring to boil; let simmer one-half hour, then add all to the rest of the soup. Add sugar and tomatoes 10 minutes before serving. Season to taste with more salt, if liked. A larger or smaller amount of vegetables may be added to suit the taste. Meat should not boil longer than three hours. (All underground vegetables should be put on in cold water).

MRS. VIRGINIA BARBER,
Export.
ZABAGLIONE

Four eggs.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One cup grape juice or other fruit juice.

Break eggs into bowl and beat until very light. Add sugar gradually. Pour in slowly the grape juice (or fruit juice) until all is added. Turn into upper part of double boiler (over boiling water) and cook over a low fire, beating constantly (using rotary egg beater) while mixture thickens. Serve immediately while still warm in sherbet glasses with lady fingers.

MRS. A. M. MOORE,
R. D No. 1, Tarentum.
POTATO SURPRISE

Whip an egg into well seasoned mashed potato and place good-sized spoonfuls near together in shallow glass baking dish. Lay a small cooked sausage on each and cover each with another spoonful of potato. The mounds should then be the size and shape of large potatoes. Set in hot oven to brown delicately. Garnish with parsley and serve in same dish.

MRS. RUSSELL WELSER,
Gilfoyle.
PREPARING VENISON

Wash and prepare the venison steak or roast. Put the venison in a kettle, add three level tablespoons baking soda and one tablespoon vinegar, pour boiling water over it and parboil 10 minutes. After 10 minutes' boiling drain and cover again with fresh boiling water and boil another 10 minutes. Then drain dry, prepare the same as one would any other steak or roast. This amount of soda is for an average size (three pound) roast. Add more or less, accordingly.

MRS. JOHN SCHNECK,
265 Brookside Ave., Washington.
LEMON SHERBET

Four cups water.
Two cups sugar.
One-fourth lemon juice.
One egg white.

Boil sugar and water 10 minutes. Cool, add lemon juice and strain. Freeze, and when nearly stiff, add beaten egg white and finish freezing.

MRS. BERTHA KUNKLE,
Box 79, Cuddy.
SAUSAGE COMBINE

One pound link sausage.
Six large potatoes (diced).
One can peas.
One tablespoon tomato paste.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Fry sausage till brown, drain most all grease off then add water and potatoes. Cook 15 minutes then add peas and tomato paste, cook 15 or 20 minutes longer, 'til potatoes are done.

MARGARET SEIBERT,
261 Maple avenue, Edgewood.
SUET PUDDING WITH LEMON SAUCE

Two cups flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
One-eighth teaspoon nutmeg.
Four tablespoons suet (chopped fine).
One-half cup raisins.
One-half cup currants.
One-half cup figs.
One-half cup walnut meats (chopped).

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Add fruit and nuts. Add enough cold water to make a drop batter. Turn into greased mold and steam three hours.

LEMON SAUCE

Three cups boiling water.
One tablespoon butter.
One cup sugar.
One lemon.

Mix cornstarch and sugar, pour on boiling water and cook for 10 minutes stirring constantly. Add lemon juice, rind, and butter. Serve hot.

MISS ANNA ZIVICK,
229 South Millvale avenue.
CROATIAN KRAUT ZAFRIK

One-half pound Roman beans.
One pound or can of sauerkraut.
Three tablespoons flour.
Three tablespoons lard.
One onion.
One tablespoon salt.

Boil Roman beans in one quart of water, add salt and onion. Add more water as it boils down and until beans are tender. Wash kraut and place into the boiling water and beans, and cook about 10 minutes or until it boils.

MAKE BROWN SAUCE

Place lard, size of an egg in skillet and melt. Add three tablespoon of flour and stir to keep from burning. Cut in one-half of onion, brown flour and onion together, be careful of burning same. Brown lightly. Pour this brown sauce into the boiling kraut and beans, and boil five minutes. Serve as soup or puree.

MRS WILLIAM J. BROWN,
Box 65, Dunlevy, Washington County,
ROAST SHOULDER OF VEAL WITH APRICOT STUFFING

Six tablespoons butter.
One cup chopped celery.
One tablespoon chopped onion.
Two tablespoons chopped parsley.
Four cups soft stale bread crumbs.
One cup chopped dried apricots.
Salt and pepper.

Have a pocket made in the shoulder of veal for the stuffing; sprinkle the inside of the roast with salt and pepper. Heat the butter in a frying pan and cook the celery, parsley and onion in it for a few minutes. Add the bread crumbs and apricots; season with salt and pepper, and heat thoroughly. Fill the pocket in the roast with stuffing, and sew the opening securely. Rub the meat with butter and sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper. Place in roasting pan and sear in hot oven (450 degrees). When lightly brown, cover the pan. Reduce oven heat to moderate about (325 degrees) and continue cooking until the meat is tender. Allow about 25 minutes to the pound.

MRS. BESS STYERS,
R. D. No. 6, Butler.
CHEESE NOODLE RING

Two tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One cup thin milk.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and flour over fire. Add milk and salt, cooking until thick. Add one cup of grated, mild cheese and the beaten yolks of two eggs. Add one large cup cooked noodles and beaten egg whites. Put into ring mold and place in pan of water and cook until set.

JUNIOR PATROL

The stores downtown in Pittsburgh and in every town are crowded these days with people buying Christmas gifts, fellows!

And that's good too! Christmas is a happy time of year—it should be, anyway, and we Junior Patrol members should do what we can to see to it that everybody has a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

The reason we are saying this now, so early, is because it takes time to make plans for helping others. Not long ago we told you about the Toy Mission, which gives toys to poor children who might not have anything in their stockings if the Toy Mission Santa Claus doesn't help them. If you have some spare toys, fellows, send them to 100 Wood street, Pittsburgh, or if your Junior Patrol has some money in the treasury maybe you would like to buy toys to give to other children who can't afford to have Santa Claus call at their homes.

A toy doesn't have to cost much—not more than a dime or two. Write and tell us what you are doing, and if you can send any toys to the Mission.

Now Nathanie Robinson, of Cuddy, Pa., writes this nice letter:

"I follow the Junior Patrol every evening in the Sun-Telegraph. I am joining it because I like the Junior Patrol. I like to have a club and I have 12 members and you will please send us 12 membership cards and an official emblem?

You bet we would right away, Nathanie, if you had sent 12 pledges, one for each of your members and yourself, too. The pledge is printed every day right beside the Junior Patrol comic strip. Either cut 12 of them out of the Sun-Telegraph, and fill them in, or else make 12 copies of it, and sign them. Then when you have elected your captain, we will send him an armband.

RETURN TO TEMPERANCE!

To-morrow at or near 3 o'clock P. M., with Utah ratifying, America returns to the old Wet Standard, and, as everybody hopes, to Temperance. Celebrate! Get into some New Clothes. Invest in a Good Appearance. We have the clothes—and the slickest Plan for Buying Them in Pittsburgh! You and your family may take many months to liquidate the Extended Charge Account which awaits you at 624 Liberty.

What's Yours: 3.2 OR "HIGH PROOF"

3.2 Iron City Beer will continue to be sold under the same labels and same cap as always. Look for the GREY cap.

"High Proof" Iron City Beer will be identified by the new red cap, the big 5% on the neck label and "High Proof" on the body label. Look for the RED cap.

"HIGH PROOF" Not less than 5% Alcohol

"HIGH PROOF" Not less than 10% American Proof Spirits

We Leave it to You.....

● Before prohibition, the alcoholic content of most beer was about 3.2%. A few stronger beers were made, but their sales were limited. The large majority of people drank beer as a beverage and preferred a non-intoxicating beer that produced a pleasant glow and quenched the thirst.

Iron City has been just such a beer—a beer that, in the eight short months since April 7th has come to be known as Pittsburgh's best-liked beer.

As soon as prohibition is repealed the alcoholic content of beer will be no longer restricted. Anxious to satisfy the preference of everyone, we will then offer you your choice between Iron City Beer containing 4% alcohol (3.2% by weight) and Iron City Beer containing 5% alcohol.

"High Proof" Iron City Beer is guaranteed to contain not less than 5% alcohol by volume nor less than 10% American Proof Spirits. The alcoholic content is clearly marked on the labels as shown in the illustration. The 5% beer is further identified by a red cap instead of a grey cap. No change has been made in the cap or labels of the 3.2% beer.

If you want "High Proof" beer, be sure to ask for "High Proof Iron City."

Both 3.2% and "High Proof" Iron City Beer are the same except as to the alcoholic content—the same delicious mellow flavor that has made Iron City Pittsburgh's best-liked beer.

When ordering either draught or bottled Iron City Beer from your dealer or at a restaurant, be sure to specify 3.2 or "High Proof" as you wish. Because of the additional government tax and the higher cost of making beer of greater alcoholic content, the price of 5% beer will be $2.00 per case. The price of 3.2% beer will remain at $1.80 per case.

When ordering bottled Iron City Beer in a restaurant, ask to have it brought to the table unopened so that you can identify it by the cap. Remember, the 3.2% Iron City is sealed with a grey cap, the "High Proof" Iron City with a red cap.

SWANSON SEEKS ROOSEVELT AID FOR BIG NAVY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Secretary Swanson today sought opportunity for conversations with President Roosevelt in furtherance of pleas contained in his annual report for an American navy second to none and an abandonment by the United States of its "lead in disarmament."

The Navy secretary also studied reaction from abroad to his frank suggestions. First reports from London indicated little stir over his statement, while from Tokio came word that Japan was dissatisfied with its small end of the 5-5-3 ratio.

SEES PERIL TO PEACE

In submitting his annual naval activities report to the President, Swanson remarked that this country's disarmament moves since the World War had set an example for the rest of the world, but had impaired America's relative naval strength. He said:

"The time has come, however, when we can no longer afford to lead in disarmament by example. Other powers have not followed our example. Our weakened position does not serve the cause of peace.

"It jeopardizes it, because balanced armament fortifies diplomacy and is an important element in preserving peace and justice, whereas undue weakness invites aggressive, war-breeding violation of one's rights."

To maintain a navy at full treaty strength, the Secretary urged adoption of a progressive building program, providing construction of a specified number of vessels each year and allowance for replacement of over-age ships. He added:

"The Navy has not had such a program in the past. Our sporadic building programs have not only proved very costly to the nation, but they have left us far under our treaty strength in up-to-date ships."

FAVORS 5-5-3 RATIO

As an example, Swanson said, that by the end of the present year all but four of the fleet's destroyers would be under-age. The secretary expressed himself as favoring the 5-5-3 ratio of the Washington naval treaty as between the United States, Great Britain and Japan for capital ships and aircraft carrier tonnage and the approximately 5-5-3.5 ratio of the London naval treaty for the three nations for other categories. He said:

"There are two methods by which these ratios may be attained: First, by reduction of naval strength on the part of other nations to our level or, second, by our building up to full treaty strength. Inasmuch as the first method has been tried and failed, only the second remains open to us.

"I believe one of the strongest guarantees for peace and justice is an adequate United States navy—a treaty navy second to none."

U. S. NAVY STAND TOPIC ABROAD

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—London newspapers treated calmly today Secretary of Navy Swanson's approval of present treaty ratios in his annual report.

Only the conservative Post, a traditional advocate of a strong British navy, commented editorially.

Emphasizing that Great Britain cut her navy and others augmented theirs, the paper asked:

"Is it fire-eating militarism or common sense to build more ships if somebody else insists on building more?"

TOKIO, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A Japanese naval office spokesman, commenting today on Secretary Swanson's approval of existing navy ratios, declared that Japan was dissatisfied with the present 5-5-3 allotment and would demand an upward revision during a reconsideration of the Washington and London naval pacts. He said:

"In a changing world, nations cannot remain bound forever by old agreements. The Washington treaty is 12 years old and totally inadequate from Japan's standpoint."

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Secretary Swanson's statement approving existing naval ratios was received without excitement by French government circles today.

Rites Set Today For Burton, Actor

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Funeral services for Clarence V. Burton, 52, film actor, who was "killed" in nearly every movie he worked in, were to be held from a Los Angeles mortuary today. He died at his home Friday.

Burton was on the legitimate stage several years before coming to Hollywood in 1910. He worked at nearly all the studios as a character actor.

K. of C. Discusses Convention Plans

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

It Is Not True That 'Only Fools Marry for Love'

Is money all-important in marriage?

Is it true that love always flies out at the window if poverty steals in at the door? And that "love in a cottage" is only an idle dream that won't work out in real life?

In short, do "only fools marry for love?"

Margaret is asking. She loves Bill—or thinks she does. But just now she is almost ready to back out of his life, because all he has is a lot of ambition. And her Lady Boss says—

But we'll let Margaret tell it.

Dear Elsie:

I have faith in your judgment, so I feel that you can help me. I had been going steady with Ted, with the intention of marrying him. Then I met Bill and fell in love with him. He is only clean cut, and so much finer in character than Ted. He loves me, I know.

But the trouble is that Bill is poor, with only a lot of ambition, while Ted has money.

When my boss found out about Bill, the war started. She raved and nagged continually, about me turning Ted down for Bill, and she has told me over and over that I am a perfect fool, and that "only fools marry for love." She insists that I would regret it all my life, if I turned Ted down and took Bill, who has nothing.

She raved so much that I thought perhaps she was right, and to fight it all I began running around with a wild bunch, and saying mean things to Bill. If he had told me where to get off I would have felt better about it all, but he didn't. He only said that he didn't blame me, and that he realized how much he was asking me to give up.

IS PERPLEXED

I have written to Ted, telling him there is somebody else. (Of course my Boss doesn't know this). But now I don't know what to do.

I'm sure that I love Bill. But suppose I marry him, and feel sorry afterward, and find out she was right? Oh, I am all mixed up. Tell me what you think.

Is love worth the struggle? Or—am I just a person without any backbone? MARGARET.

"Is love worth the struggle?"

That depends on you, Margaret—and on what you call "love."

If you're just a pretty, pouty little pee-wee, without any real sense or spunk—if "living," to you, means sitting pretty, and "loving" means a necking party—then a man with a little money would certainly be no treat to you. Nor you to him!

But if you're a real woman, with a hunger for real life—if you long for adventure, and flame to romance, and want to be part of the Big Parade—then love is worth anything it costs.

For those who can take it, love is the biggest, bravest and most beautiful adventure on earth.

And for those who can't? Well, you might just as well face the fact right now, youngster—they're out of luck all around.

Happiness isn't for cowards. We get out of life exactly what we put into it. No play—no pay.

So if you won't give anything, it's a cinch you won't get anything. And though Ted may put millions in your pocket book, you'll still have only ashes in your heart.

MUST FACE RESPONSIBILITY

So what? So—it's up to you. If you want real life, you'll have to be a real person. You'll have to think for yourself, make your own decisions—and stop trying to run away from responsibility by playing with a bunch of cheap sports or listening to your Lady Boss.

And if you can't do that? Well, you'd better face the fact right now, before you wreck poor Bill's career by your spinelessness. For there's no use kidding yourself by saying that "maybe it will come out all right anyway."

Marriage never "comes out all right anyway." Marriage is only as big as we make it. If you aren't willing to make a great adventure of your marriage—quit while the quitting's good.

But if you're a real person, ready to live a real life, you'll join hands with Bill, who now has so little, and help him along the way till he has more—and you can then have the laugh on your Boss who tells you that "only fools marry for love."

That's my story, Stranger. What do you think of it? Must young folks wait to marry until they have enough money so that they will have no struggles to make a go of matrimony; or will facing difficulties together make their love all the stronger and finer?

What do you think?

ALAS! I HAVE BEEN FORGOTTEN
HE COULD NOT SEE THE PRICELESS GIFT OF FUTURE GREATNESS IN HIS EMPTY STOCKING CHRISTMAS MORNING
"MY OWN LIFE HAS BEEN THE MOST WONDERFUL FAIRY STORY OF ALL!"
SO SAID HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN WHO WAS HIMSELF AN UGLY DUCKLING THAT BECAME A MAGNIFICENT SWAN!
HE WAS VERY TALL AND LEAN. HE TRAVELLED MUCH AND NEVER OWNED A BED OF HIS OWN UNTIL SHORTLY BEFORE HE DIED IN OLD AGE. HE NEVER MARRIED BUT HE WAS IN LOVE WITH JENNY LIND - WHO MARRIED SOMEONE ELSE!
FAY. KING.

By FAY KING

The dispatch from Moscow expressing Russia's pleasure over recognition by the United States likens its feeling to that of the Ugly Duckling when it discovered it had grown into a beautiful swan.

The good heart of Hans Christian Andersen, the Danish story teller, would rejoice to find his little story of the Ugly Duckling mentioned with this happy historic event.

Andersen's fairy stories are considered a children's book, but they are more than that, as any grown up, reading them, will find.

Andersen wrote travel books, novels, poetry and plays, but his fairy tales, translated into every language, are his lasting crown of glory.

Madge Fears That Edith Is Serious About 'War'

"There isn't much to explain," I said wearily, as Lillian asked me what Edith had meant by a truce. "When she came up to the hotel that day—do you remember?"

"I'll say I remember," she said grimly. "My finger nails never had such a yen for a face before."

"She came to warn me—or rather, to ask my aid in combatting the influence over Dicky of a girl named 'Floss'," I said slowly.

"And you told her?"

"That I wasn't interested, and I wished to hear nothing whatever upon the subject."

"Forgive my asking," Lillian pleaded. "I knew the answer, of course, but I wanted to hear you say it. That must have hit little Edie across the midriff. What did she say?"

"She reproached me for repulsing her when she was trying to do me a favor, and rather vulgarly insinuated that she could tell me many things derogatory to Dicky if I didn't insist upon remaining blinded. She also declared war to the knife, or words to that effect. I really was almost afraid of her. She seemed hardly sane. I do not know how I would have managed to get rid of her save for Mr. Veritzen's opportune call. He was announced while she was in the middle of a violent tirade, and although I asked to have him sent up, I was quaking for fear that she would continue her attack upon Dicky with Mr. Veritzen listening."

DANGEROUS WOMAN

"That wouldn't have been so hot," Lillian agreed thoughtfully, "but I guess you knew you weren't taking much of a chance, at that. The fair Edith, is an anointed idiot, but she still retains some of the conventions and standards that were pounded into her during her childhood 'in ole Virginny,' and the chief of those shibboleths is 'Never make a scene.'

"But she's dangerous, nevertheless, and I don't mean maybe. When she gets to the point of appealing to you to save Dicky from some fancied menace, she's come to the point where she's pretty nearly goofy, if you ask me."

"I'm inclined to agree with you on all points," I told her. "And now, lead on to that breakfast of which you've been talking so glibly. I could use it just now."

"I'm very glad of that," she said, rising and moving toward the dining room. "I was afraid maybe the Avis person had taken away your appetite."

But I knew she did not mean the Avis person. It was Edith, with her reference to "Floss" who, she thought, had worried me.

"You shall see that I am a valiant trencher-woman," I said, and I kept the promise. Breakfast is my best meal, anyway, and upon this last day before the wedding I knew that I would have little time for food of any sort and wisely fortified myself for a busy day.

GUESTS ARRIVE

I thanked my particular little joss many times, during the hours that followed, for my foresight. I do not know when I would have had later any time for even a meager meal, so many were the demands upon my hands and time.

The day brought Mary's family—her two brothers, Hank and Bill, from Worcester academy, and her aunt, Dicky's sister Harriet, who with her husband, Dr. Edwin Braithwaite, had taken the four tragically orphaned children of Dicky's other sister, Elizabeth Harrison, into their home, after a long fight with William Harrison's relatives for their custody. They had turned the care of the three boys over to Dicky and me, only last year, following the distinguished surgeon's nervous breakdown.

He was far from being a well man yet, I decided, after I had greeted him and his devoted wife, and had seen to it that they were comfortably ensconced in the room farthest from the swirl of activity.

But I had little time to dwell upon his problem, for it was not long after the coming of the Braithwaites before a fanfare of horns announced the coming of Marion and Carolyn from Whitney hall and of Ronald and Bob from Yale, to say nothing of Helena Brixton, escorted by her husband, who was dutifully carrying boxes which I knew contained the gowns for the bridesmaids.

"You may thank your stars I have both of them," Helena Brixton told Lillian and me, when we carried her off to my room upstairs. "That cat of an Avis nearly managed to get hers away from me."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Use of Insulin in Cases of Malnutrition

Recently I told you of the value of insulin. It was pointed out that the discovery of this substance revolutionized the treatment of diabetes. Since it was discovered the mortality rate of this formerly dreaded disease has greatly decreased. Today, I want to tell you of the successful use of insulin in the treatment of underweight and malnutrition.

Dr. Copeland

Insulin is a substance normally secreted by certain cells in the pancreas, the organ that corresponds to the "sweetbreads" of animals. By careful laboratory methods it is extracted and prepared for human use.

When insulin is given to a diabetic it helps to burn the sugar found in the blood and tissues of the body. Since it assists in furnishing heat and energy, it was thought that insulin might be given to underweight individuals in the hope that it would create an appetite and put on weight. From a careful resume of the cases reported the results obtained are extremely encouraging.

Of course, the insulin must be given hypodermically and under the supervision of a physician. No suffering or disability results and after the injection the patient is able to go about his usual work.

As a rule the treatment is first given by the physician. After careful instruction the patient may administer his own injections.

Extremely small doses of insulin are used. About five or ten units of insulin are given before each meal. Some doctors advise giving the injections only twice a day, before lunch and before dinner.

Many thin individuals resort to "weight increasing" remedies without success. You can appreciate their happiness and delight when they gain weight as a result of the insulin treatment. The gain in weight is steady and may amount to as much as two to two and one-half pounds a week.

If you are underweight and desire to gain weight consult with your physician about this treatment. It is especially to be thought of if you have tried other ways and have been unsuccessful in gaining weight. It is a method used without risk if the instructions are carefully followed.

Avoid all patent medicines and nostrums that guarantee gain in weight. Diet, rest and proper habits are essential for increase in weight. Points of infection, such as diseased teeth, tonsils and adenoids, are other factors that must not be overlooked. They are often the underlying causes of underweight.

Household Hints

When pressing linen, dampen the creases with a cheesecloth dipped in water. Press on the wrong side.

A tablespoon of boiling water placed in mayonnaise makes a salad dressing, which may be bottled and kept in the ice box for several days or a week.

If a mayonnaise sauce curdles, put an extra raw yolk of egg into a basin and add the curdled sauce to this, drop by drop, stirring well with a wooden spoon.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

When to Finesse and Why

One of the first things taught a beginner at Contract is that with certain combinations of cards a finesse should be taken in order that the full trick-taking power of the hands may be utilized. But a finesse—that is, a maneuver for position which wins a trick if the position of the honor against which the finesse is taken is favorable—is by no means the best play in all cases. In fact, after learning all there is to learn about finessing and graduating into the expert class, Bridge players spend much of their time, not in taking finesses, but in seeking to avoid them.

South, Dealer.

	♠ K J 10 9 3 ♡ 3 ◇ 6 5 2 ♣ A Q J 9
♠ 6 4 2 ♡ J 2 ◇ K J 7 4 ♣ 8 5 4 3	North West East South	♠ A 8 7 ♡ K 10 9 7 ◇ 9 8 ♣ K 10 7 2
	♠ Q 5 ♡ A Q 8 6 5 4 ◇ A Q 10 3 ♣ 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Perhaps South should have bid three spades rather than three no-trump. However, a game cannot be made at spades while it actually was made at notrump.

West, lacking a good waiting lead, decided to open his fourth-best diamond. East played the eight, and South won the trick with the Ten. Obviously, there was but one suit for South to seek to develop—namely, the spade suit. In order to be certain of four tricks in that suit it was only necessary to drive out the Ace while there remained an entry in the Dummy hand. The club suit in the Dummy could not easily be developed, and if it were developed the Dummy would then lack entries to bring in any established cards in it. The heart situation was equally impossible because of the fact that there was only one card of the suit in Dummy.

After winning the first trick, South immediately began the establishment of the spade suit. East refused to win the first two rounds, not because there was any point so far as the suit itself was concerned in this course, but because he wanted to be sure that South was void of spades and thus to limit the number of entries in the Dummy to one. Winning the third spade trick, East returned a diamond. South, of course, had an opportunity to finesse here, but he knew that the finesse should not be taken, as he could easily discern by correct card reading that East had no diamonds remaining and that the finesse must fail. The proper play, therefore, was to win with the Ace.

This South did, and now led the club. A finesse at this point was suicidal, so South now came up with the Ace and cashed the two remaining spades. Then he threw East in the lead with the return of the club Queen. East returned a heart and South could now afford to take the finesse as West's hand obviously contained nothing but clubs and diamonds. When the finesse held South cashed his remaining heart trick and conceded the last 2 tricks to West.

Various other lines of play might have been adopted with equal success but the important point from South's standpoint was to refuse the finesse on the return of the diamond and also to refuse the club finesse.

Today's Question

What is the correct Opening bid, holding:

♠ K Q J 3 ♡ A 9 7 5 4 ◇ 7 5 ♣ 7 3

Answer: One spade, because the hand itself is a minimum and too weak for that reason to show the longer five-card heart suit. By bidding one spade first, if partner responds with one no-trump, two clubs or two diamonds, two hearts can then be bid. If partner prefers spades he can show that preference by bidding two spades, and if he prefers hearts but is not strong enough to raise further, he can indicate that preference by passing.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The First Call

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

About two months ago a very good friend of ours, with her husband, was out of the state on a two weeks' vacation. Just about the time they returned we went on our vacation for two weeks . . . after which we were busy canning fruit, cleaning house and other things, and so we did not get to see these friends until just the other day. Asking why they had not called upon us, we discovered that the lady was greatly offended, saying that it was our duty to call upon her first. We had extended the last hospitality to them about two weeks before they left and had not seen the lady since. Whose duty was it to call first?

H.

I do agree with you that this was rather a narrow and ridiculous attitude for this friend to take, an attitude with no justification. In this busy world . . . and yours sounds very busy these days . . . it sounds rather immature not to understand another's life, and certainly immature for a person to consider that a two weeks' vacation should be taken with such serious social consideration.

The best thing for you to do, I think, is to let this glide casually over your life, and very soon, as if nothing had been said or done, invite this friend to tea or to dine with you at your home.

Easy-to-Make Nursery Pictures

Nursery rhymes are always popular with the youngsters, so wouldn't they be thrilled to have their room decorated in these two favorites of theirs? The pictures are so simple that a child could really do them himself. They are formed by patches—good sized ones—that are cut out of scraps of gay prints and then just pasted to cardboard on which the entire picture has been stamped. The forms of the patches to be cut are given in the pattern.

Patterns 586 and 587 each come to you with a transfer pattern of the entire picture and of each patch needed to make it and complete directions for making and framing the picture, which measures 9x12 inches.

Send 10 cents for each pattern (20 cents for both) to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

MURRAY INVITES OPERATORS TO WAGE TALK

Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, has invited representatives of the National Mining Company, the Sharon Coal and Limestone Company and the H. C. Frick Coke Company to meet with union officials to negotiate wage agreements in conformity with the decision of the National Labor Board.

Other companies owning captive mines also received copies of the letter, parts of which read:

"In conformity with the decision of the National Labor Board upon the matter of elections for representatives of your employes for the purpose of negotiating wage agreements at the properties of the National Mining Company, the Sharon Coal and Limestone Company and the H. C. Frick Coke Company, I am taking the liberty to invite you or your representatives to meet with representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, who were designated by your employes as their representatives for the purpose of making a wage contract."

The letter did not specify any date, but asked the operators to make it at the earliest possible time. In addition to the companies mentioned, the letter was sent to M. C. Angloch, president, Vesta Coal Company; William G. Fletcher, general superintendent, Inland Steel Company, Indianola; George Gehres, president, Consumers Mining Company, Harmarville; Louis W. Hicks, general manager, Allegheny Coal and Coke Company; Frank Dunbar, general manager, Pickands, Mather & Co., Cleveland; H. L. Wilkinson, chairman, Crucible Steel Company of America, and George L. Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W.: There's a story, I think, in Jane Savage, the numerologist, who won't be bothered with you—unless she knows you—and you solicit her favor . . . I mean, it isn't her racket to predict things, unless you're a pal . . . Those who know her well are testifying to some of her amazing predictions and I pass them along to you—to give you a shudder or so . . . The fashionable know how Miss Savage predicted the tragedy to the Lindberghs—shortly before it happened. Within five years, she now says, another tragedy will happen to Lindy. Her stock market stuff cost one man two millions because he wouldn't follow her counsel, but this is the one that makes me cold all over . . . Within six years, she is telling people, a tidal wave will destroy part of Manhattan on the East Side—what part of town, I don't know. And at the same time—one of the huge liners will disappear.

Corse Payton, poor man, has just been taken to the Bushwick Hospital, where he is without funds and suffering from pneumonia. Surely some of his long time friends will bring him succor . . . I've felt low all day about Frank Wilstach. Who'll help us collect all those grand smiles, now? . . . He was a nice man . . . Barbara Blair will fly to the Coast Satdee to make faces at the cameras . . . Richy Craig, Jr.'s, widow is stopping with Gloria Grafton at the P. A., if her friends would like to know . . . Max Baer has been signed to appear at the new Casino de Paree . . . Who bunkled that Jack Kirkland romance, anyhow? it isn't Polly Walters, at all—but his leading lady in "Tobacco Road" (a dead ringer for Polly, anyway). The play opens at the Masque Monday . . . Kirkland says you're the only one who (when mentioning him) does not add—the ex of Nancy Carroll" . . . Walter O'Keefe's dog bit Mrs. O'Keefe's dog—and then bit Mrs. O'Keefe. Anything for a laugh.

A policeman's widow called. She wonders if you would hint that this. Cops' widows and families do not rate holiday baskets—but the firemen's do . . . Jane Froman's husband calls her "Mom" . . . Guy Rennie and Charlotte Dorrance, of the Roup tribe, are uh-huh . . . Con Conrad's new find, Del Campo, sings delightfully—a little nervous, yet, however . . . The offers are coming in bunches, though . . . The Show Place is getting over—a good show, too . . . One of the 5th Ave. stores in Dec. 10 will exhibit the paintings of Suzanne Lalique (daughter of the famous glassmaker)—but get this and choke from laughing. To learn what locals will do about champagne —they are asking several well-knowns to decorate tables for the party. For instance: Clifton Webb is doing a black velvet breakfast table. Tee, hee.

Incidentally, that historic Gurdy-Gurdy party at Spivey's, which the society columnists heralded for weeks, came off all right, but when it came time to pay off the charity which was promised the receipts, there wasn't any munyee. So Dwight Wiske paid it out of his own pockets. . . . The theaters took a bath" last week—business went off in even the biggest hits. Some thought that Monday lived because of Father Coughlin's address at the Hipp—but nobody can explain the rest of the week. This time of year, you know, is supposed to be the peak" . . . Severance called. Said that when you start that racy tempo on the air—he feels like putting on his fireman's hat and sliding down a brass pole. . . . The mother of Lee Tracy phoned all the way from Trucksville, Pa.—and was so thrilled because you gave her son the best of it. She said that all boys are naughty, and is glad hers isn't a sissy. I told her to tune in again Sunday night. . . . Bankhead doesn't have to undergo another operation, after all—returns home Tuesday.

Some of the papers keep saying that Betzi Beaton and one of the Rocky Twins are serious. Betzi, a friend of mine, wishes you'd state that the one-and-only is in California, where she wishes he weren't. . . Have you noticed that the Boston critics have been guessing wrong a lot lately? . . . Every show that stretched its wings there—drew rave notices. "Hold Your Horses" for example, which will be replaced by the "Follies" about Xmas. . . . "Let 'Em Eat Cake" was another rave there, . . . but in N. Y. the boys were divided. . . . Other shows ditto. It's a girl at the Phil Bakers (Peggy Cartwright). . . . Lou Holtz, the denier, is motoring to Hollywood and Greta Garbo can't wait.

Give a boost to the benefit performance of "Mary of Scotland" at the Alvin, December 6. It is the first time the Guild has permitted a benefit, I believe, and is for the Infants' Welfare League . . . Al Jockers, the orchestra leader, is sad. Besides being so ill himself, he came from Saranac to the bedside of his beautiful daughter, 20, whose condition is serious . . . Be sure to mention that "Sydney Munden," who fathered so many similes, was really Frank Wilstach . . . Here's an item: Thorley, the florist, once owned the site where stands the Times Bldg. He was urged to sell the property to Mr. Ochs, the newspaper owner, but he did so only after much persuading—and Mr. Ochs' promise that the name Thorley would be written on the cornerstone. Which was done—but the cornerstone is on the third floor!

The sensational suicide story of the sculptor Zaiss (with the married woman dancing in the lewd), when Mrs. Zaiss walked in, etc.— is almost an exact duplicate of a new book, "The Devil's Den," by Lawrence Saunders, whose real name is Burton Davis . . . The well known nobleman in Hollywood really has a "heart" who dwells in the same place—and you can wager that definitely there will be the divorce that has been denied right along . . . If the saloon came back, it would be a bust, anyhow . . . Now, the women go everywhere the men go, and probably even the men wouldn't patronize a place that they couldn't take their girls.

Tell those newcomers who get discouraged easily that James Melton waited a month for an audition at the old Roxy in 1927—and now looka! . . . Dorothy Hughes, the widow of the late Phil Payne, hasn't passed out of the local picture, as was recorded. Unless they mean she's avoided the Broadway crowd. For four years she's been head receptionist in a large ad agency. . . . Add tough breaks, the Ritz Towers had the honor of being the first place in America to fly the Soviet flag, so what happened? So the captions under the photo credited the St. Moritz! . . . I don't think there's anything to that rumor about Mrs. B. P. Schulberg and G. R. They merely came here on the same choo-choo. . . Here are some new rackets in town—certain 6th Ave. shops dig up photos of celebs (from theaters) and peddle them at a nickel each. . . . Then there are several society girls in town who stooge for certain restaurants. The gals take their boy friends to the place—eat the most expensive things—and then get a 50 per cent rake-off. Not bad. . . . Pola Negri called. Feels wretched about your line and says she's really ill. And that you ought to take Gene Fowler's advice—and lie TO a woman—but NEVER about her! —Your Girl Friday.

Two gunmen last night threatened S. Wilmer, a butcher, of 618 South Millvale avenue, locked him in a refrigerator and escaped with $100 from the cash register. A customer heard Wilmer's calls and released him.

European Star Blinks at Our Love

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.—The rules of love in America astonish Francis Lederer, Czecho-Slovakian matinee idol, whose heart interest, they'll tell you, is still Stefanie Duna, the Hungarian actress who played with him in his first RKO picture, "A Man of Two Worlds."

Mr. Lederer

Like Will Rogers, Lederer admits that all he knows is what he reads in the papers and sees in American films, but he can't understand breach of promise suits, heart balm actions and the flimsy divorce grounds upon which alimony is granted.

"Heart balm and breach of promise suits particularly amaze me," he says. "I had heard of them before. How can anyone be compensated for lost love by money, or look upon love or marriage in terms of a living?"

The star thinks that American women are tremendously attractive, but believes they should learn that the basic quality of love is unselfishness.

"And I do not think it is unchivalrous to feel that love should be placed on a strictly idealistic basis," he insists. "It is only on such a foundation that it can be real."

Mr. Lederer is strong-minded about other things than love. RKO still hasn't recovered from his insisting upon shaving off his eyebrows and playing an Eskimo in his first Hollywood picture.

* * *

W. C. Fields insists that all he is doing in "Six of a Kind" is to play straight to the radio comedians, Burns and Allen.

Mr. Fields

"That script is so bad!" exclaims Fields, "that when Director Leo McCarey was holding it in his hand on the street the other day, a dog came up, looked at it and bit him."

* * *

It was a bad 10 days, but Dr. H. J. Strathearn now assures Paramount that Baby LeRoy has safely passed through the whooping cough threat. The studio breathes a $20,000 sigh of relief and slows down a bit in its rush to finish "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen" before the infant star gave his first bark.

* * *

If anyone else had done it, Hollywood would have said grandstand play. But, coming from Sir Guy Standing, the remark created a moment of drama even for hard-boiled studio technicians.

Sir Guy

They were preparing to film a scene in "Death Takes a Holiday," where the British actor and former sailor was called on to wear a number of war medals.

The property department brought them, all authentic decorations. Sir Guy took them in his hand, looked at them for a moment, then quietly said:

The distinguished actor, who was a British naval commander at the Battle of Jutland, sent home for some of his own decorations and went through the scene.

Busiest young-man-about-Hollywood is Dick Powell. Having squired Mary Brian and Gwen Heller to many recent social events, he now goes dining and dancing with Jean Muir . . . Dick is very keen to go to New York for Mervyn Leroys wedding, but studio work looms between . . . Another who would speed eastward for the holidays is Ricardo Cortez. He, too, faces disappointment because of camera work . . . Kay Francis, however, will depart as soon as she has finished her part in "Wonder Bar." She'll join Kenneth McKenna for a Christmas on Broadway . . . It's an ill wind, etc. When the advent of legal beer closed out most of the Tiajuana resorts, Paramount bought two roulette tables at next to nothing. Heretofore, they've had to rent them and at fancy prices . . . according to word received from Joan Crawford, she'll be back here at the end of this week. Francnot Tone is expected to return at the same time.

Did you know: That Sally Blane made her screen debut at the age of 8? It was in "Sirens of the Sea," with Jack Mulhall, Louise Lovely and Carmel Myers.

MARION DAVIES IN GORGEOUS MELODIC FEATURE OF HER NEW MUSICAL PICTURE, "GOING HOLLYWOOD"

PLAYS AND PLAYERS — By William J. Lewis

Eva Le Gallienne, in the role of the White Chess Queen in "Alice in Wonderland," will step upon the Nixon stage tonight for the first time since the spring of 1925, when she appeared there in "The Swan." Previously she had played in the Alvin, with Joseph Schildkraut, in "Liliom," and later she came to the Pitt in two Ibsen plays. Hence, her "Hedda Gabler," to be given Saturday night only, will be her third Ibsen role here. Thursday and Friday she will portray the heroine of the Shakespearean love tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet." While this young actress-manager will hold the spotlight the last three days of the week, she accords that honor to another member of her Civic Repertory Theater Company, for the first part of the engagement. This is Josephine Hutchinson, who plays the title role in "Alice in Wonderland." Miss Hutchinson is a native of Seattle, where she lived until she was 16. Then she won a scholarship in a school of acting, of which Maurice Brown was the director. Later she joined the Ram's Head Players in Washington and was with them for three years. Her first important part in New York was in "A Man's Man." In 1926 Miss Hutchinson joined the Civic Repertory Theater Company. She has played Teresa in "The Cradle Song," Wendy in "Peter Pan," Nina in "The Sea Gull," Irina in "The Three Sisters," Mrs. Elvsted in "Hedda Gabler," Mrs. Eben Stanhope in "Alison's House" and Jane Austen in "Dear Jane." Last season in New York she achieved a great triumph as Alice. In all there will be five performances of "Alice," including matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

* * *

The next attraction in the Nixon opening Monday, December 11, will be the new Ziegfeld "Follies," playing its last road week before going into New York. Its cast combines some veteran musical comedy stars with some of the younger generation. Among the vets are Fannie Brice, Willie and Eugene Howard, George Mataxa, Everett Marshall and Victor Morley. The youngsters are represented by Patricia Bowman, dancer; Jane Froman and Don Ross, radio stars; Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, Betzi Beaton and others. The "Follies," of course, still "glorifies the American girl." Its music and sketches are by E. Y. Harburg, Fred Allen, Harry Tugend, H. I. Phillips, David Freedman, Vernon Duke, Arthur Swanstrom, Louis Alter, Samuel Pokrass, Ballard MacDonald, Joseph Meyer, Chris Taylor, James Hanley, Ann Runnell, Harold Atteridge, Robert Dolan, Dana Suesse and Billy Hill.

The Masquers, at Calvary Parish, will present "The Devil Passes," in the parish house in Shady avenue three evenings, opening tomorrow night. This Benn W. Levy drama will be the second production of the season for the Masquers, one of the most active of the Pittsburgh's Little Theater groups.

Dramatic

Irene Dunne is co-featured with Clive Brook in "If I Were Free," dramatic film coming to the Warner Theater Friday.

Drama of Sea In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

A sea tragedy in which the trans-Atlantic liner Berengaria vainly hunted for the sinking British freighter Saxelby off the Irish coast is contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Capt. Britten, of the Berengaria, tells of the hunt.

Recent disturbances in Palestine cause Great Britain to strengthen her air force in Egypt. Pictures show 12 new airplanes leaving England for Cairo, and of the patrol fleet over the Pyramids searching the desert for marauding Arabs. The Globe Trotter describes the latest developments.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, widow of the former President, is seen and heard as she opens the Christmas seal drive at Northampton, Mass.

With the same pomp that has marked this ceremony for centuries King George opens Parliament in London.

Champion cats, Persians, Siamese and other rare varieties, take part in the Empire Club show in New York City. One strenuously objects to being photographed.

Walter Christie demonstrates his new war tank at Linden, N. J. It can do 100 miles an hour over the roughest ground and can be carried and set down by an airplane.

Heavy snow falls have transformed Yellowstone Park into a Fairyland with Old Faithful sending up its huge column of hot water amid this beautiful setting.

Note—Because of the necessity upon theater managers to arrange programs in time schedules, it is possible that some of the subjects in the above issue of Hearst Metrotone News may not be shown in your theater.

Kathleen Norris Tale In the Family

"Walls of Gold," photoplay based on a Kathleen Norris tale, is a first-run picture that opened in the Family Saturday. It features Sally Eilers and Norman Foster in a sexy story in which gold appears as a barrier to a happy marriage. Wealth separates a young couple, who later pick up the romantic thread. Ralph Morgan also has a prominent role in the film.

Wedding Gift

THE GOLD-LEAF words on the office door read: "Blue Moon Copper Company," but the company was already a thing of the past. The stenographers and clerks had been discharged the night before. One of the partners was preparing for a well-timed trip abroad. Only Arthur Burns, president of the now defunct Blue Moon Company, remained in its office. And he was there merely to glance through the mail.

There was nothing worth while in it. At least from Arthur's viewpoint. The checks had stopped coming. There were plenty of letters, to be sure, but most of them were anxious demands and some contained thinly-veiled threats.

Arthur tossed the letters into a waste basket and sighed. He knew that the time had come for him to be on his way. He was growing a little tired of jumping from city to city. He was 45 now, and he was beginning to long for a little peace and security.

He turned over in his mind various spots where he would be safe during the investigations into his latest phony stock dealings. It would have to be some quiet place, where he could live cheaply. For despite the fact that he had made plenty during the past few months, his bankroll was thin. His money had gone as quickly as it had come. And then Arthur thought of Elmwood.

He had always known that some day he would go home. At intervals during his travels he had dreamed of going back to Elmwood, and always in his dreams he had been prosperous and envied. He wasn't prosperous now, and it was doubtful if anyone would envy him, but even without any money, it wouldn't be so bad. Perhaps he would see Florence again.

Arthur thought of Florence a bit sentimentally, for they had been sweethearts once. He wondered if she had married, if she would be glad to see him. For now it was definitely settled in Arthur's mind that he was going back to Elmwood for a visit...

Almost the first person he met on his arrival at his home town was Florence. She was still pretty, a little faded, perhaps, but sweet and gentle as he had remembered her. She told him that she had been married but that her husband, Rufus Jones, had died a few years before. She invited Arthur to come and see her.

Arthur went. Not once but many times during the first two weeks of his stay. Florence's house was an impressive affair in the better section of the town. Arthur liked being there. All around him there were evidences of luxury and good living. It was plain to be seen that Florence had plenty of money. It was also plain that she had a very definite fondness for her old-time sweetheart.

The two weeks had scarcely passed before Arthur began to play with the idea of marriage. Why not? Florence liked him. She was comfortably situated. He could do much worse. She would never learn of his shady past, and life with her would be free from the uncertainty of his past precarious existence.

Thus Arthur decided to ask Florence to be his wife. He felt sure that she would say yes. Of course, there was one little detail to be settled before they planned anything definite, but she would be amenable on that score. He was confident of that.

His carefully-prepared proposal was a masterpiece. His declarations of undying devotion would have melted the heart of any susceptible female, and Florence had regarded his memory with tenderness for 20 years.

She edged closer to him and murmured, "Arthur, you make me so happy. Yes, dear, I do love you."

The man sighed with relief and tried not to appear too eager.

"I'm the luckiest man in the world," he declared. "But, Florence dear, there is one little thing. Perhaps it seems strange to mention it at a time like this. But I want you to know the truth.

"I am not a rich man. As a matter of fact, I'm almost poor. We aren't children, my dear. Love in a cottage wouldn't work out at our age. To speak frankly, I think we had better know where we stand. If you have money, and I suppose you have, it would make things very awkward. I'd have to ask you for every cent. You wouldn't want that, and I'm sure I wouldn't."

Florence nodded.

"I see what you mean," she agreed. "Yes, Arthur, I have plenty. My husband left me very well fixed, and nothing would make me happier than to have you handle the finances. On our wedding day—how sweet that sounds, our wedding day!—the new Mrs. Burns is going to turn over everything she owns to her husband. Will that please you as a wedding present, Arthur?"

That would please Arthur very nicely. In fact, he could think of nothing else during the days that followed. His wedding morn could not come too quickly now.

Arthur and Florence were married quietly. They returned to the big house on the outskirts of the town. The new bridegroom was a very happy man, but he was also a very impatient one.

At last his bride led him to the safe over the fireplace. She drew out a long envelope and placed it in his hands.

"There," she murmured, "it's all yours, darling. Go ahead, open it! That represents every cent that Rufus left me. Not cash, Arthur, but something just as good."

Arthur opened the envelope, drew out its contents, and very nearly sank to the floor. The familiar pieces of paper he held in his hand were issues of stock in the Blue Moon Copper Company! . . .

West Penn. Nurse Gets State Board Position

MISS C. RUTH BOWER

C.Ruth Bower Named Examiner by Governor

Miss C. Ruth Bower, principal of the school of nursing of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, has been appointed by Gov. Pinchot a member of the State Board of Examiners for the Registration of Nurses, according to word received from Harrisburg.

Miss Bower thereby becomes for six years a member of a group which consists of five members, Supt. of Public Instruction James N. Rule serving ex-officio as a sixth member.

One other Pittsburgher is a member—Sister M. Placide McCoy, of Mercy Hospital. The other two are Mrs. Mary C. Eden, of Philadelphia, and Miss Mary Kurchinsky, of Pottsville.

GALE PERILS 68 ON SHIP IN ICE

ST. PAUL ISLAND, Bering Sea, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A hundred miles north of the Arctic Circle in the bleak ice of the East Siberian Sea, the ice-locked Soviet ship Chelluskin, and its human cargo of 68 today faced another "heavy storm."

Baffled by storm three days ago in their efforts to abandon ship and cross the ice to shore, the party of Russian scientists prepared to weather a second storm, their wireless operator messaged. The flash said:

"Still drifting in ice and still okeh, but heavy storm from north started. Position 68 N., 173 W."

The icebreaker has been ice-locked two months in attempts to reach Davidoff Island.

Sailing from Murmansk August 10, with a crew of 51 men and 17 passengers, including five women and one child, the expedition was planned to relieve another scientific party which had spent last winter on Davidoff Island.

BRIDGE 'WIDOW' PLAN SCORNED

CINCINNATI, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A cold shoulder was turned today to the suggestion of Ely Culbertson that a "widow" would make contract bridge more interesting.

At the scene of the national tournament of the American Bridge League, which opened today, Culbertson's idea was described as "most absurd" by P. Hal Sims, and W. E. McKenney, secretary of the league, said the element of luck introduced would displace skill and make bridge a "gambler's game like poker and horse racing."

Culbertson believes a widow would add a zest of uncertainty to the game and promote more skillful play by the declarer. He suggested last week that each player be dealt 12 cards and that the widow contain four, the winner of the auction selecting one card from the widow and giving one to each of the other players.

Fire damaged the boiler room of the Perry High School, early yesterday. Capt. Charles A. Kauffman, of Engine Company No. 54, said the blaze was caused by the ignition of wooden baskets in the boiler room. He set the loss at $35.

SCIENCE ROOSTERS LAY EGGS

Universal Service.

MOSCOW, Dec. 4.—Russia has some roosters that hover protectingly over broods of fluffy chicks, cluck like hens and even lay an occasional (but unhatchable) egg. Also, hens that strut like roosters and crow triumphantly as they preen newly-acquired plumage.

These living biological phenomena were shown by Prof. M. H. Zavodovski during a personally-conducted tour through the physiological development laboratory of the All-Union Institute of Animal Husbandry, of which he is director.

For years Prof. Zavodovski has been experimenting with sex mutation, and says he has definitely "determined the dependent and independent sex characteristics in birds and mammals." He transforms animals by a glandular transfer known as the "Savodovski operation."

Having achieved identic results in transplantations in pheasants, ducks and other birds, Zavodovski is ready to let the scientific world battle over his conclusions:

That his experiments prove that "among the dependent sex characteristics of male birds are combe, wattle, voice and sex instinct, while feather-coloring and markings are independent sex characteristics; and that among the dependent sex characteristics of the hen are her plumage, voice and sex instinct."

The Pittsburgh Junior League will help remind us of the significance of Christmas, which we nowadays are a bit inclined to forget in the rush of living.

On Friday, December 15, at the Twentieth Century Club the league will sponsor, for the benefit of the Frontier Nursing Association, an exhibit of reproductions of Giotto's frescoes illustrating, among other religious subjects, the life of the Virgin Mary up to the time of the birth of Christ, to be done as tableaux by the Italian committee of the Italian room in the Cathedral of Learning.

Presented With Song

The reproductions of the frescoes, done by Giotto for the interior of the chapel of Enrico Scrovegno at Padua in the year 1304-5, are the work of the faculties and student bodies of the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology and of an Italian group.

The presentation of each scene—Giotto's frescoes are like little scenes on a stage—when given a year ago in Pittsburgh, was enhanced by the singing of Gregorian chants and of early Italian chorales.

The frescoes will be shown under the direction of the Henry Scotts and Walter Hovey. Mr. Hovey is head of Pitt's art department, of which Mr. Scott is a member.

Pitt Staff Assists

Mrs. Scott prepared the text, Mrs. Heinz Langer and Oltrado Lisotto did the settings: Mrs. Porter Garnett, Aidee Lisotto and Vivien Lucci, the costumes.

E. Willis Whited and Carl B. Cass, assisted by the technical staff of the Pitt Players, University of Pittsburgh, made the technical arrangements. Mrs. Scott selected the music.

Music students from Carnegie Tech, directed by Miss Susan T. Canfield, will sing. The Italian Women's Committee for the Italian room in the Cathedral of Learning provided the sets, costumes and properties. The cast will be announced later.

There'll be another gathering of all ages and sets of the social realm in Pittsburgh Friday night. The event calling them together is the supper-dance the women's committee of the Children's Hospital will give that night in the Hotel Schenley ballroom for the benefit of the hospital.

There's a group of energetic folks, chairmaned by Mrs. Joseph M. Scribner, dashing about obtaining a list of patronesses.

They are Rita Borntraeger, Anne Emmerling, Mrs. Rowland Erving and Harriet Fickes, Katherine Frazer, Miss Eleanor Grier, Lydia Irish, Mrs. Charles Lockhart, Mrs. Harry Rafferty, Alice Rust, Mrs. James C. McKay and Helen Tunnell.

Obtain Sponsors

Patrons who have already subscribed to the event include Paul C. Harper, Mrs. Julian Burdick, Mrs. W. J. Holland, Mrs. James A. Reed, Mrs. Stewart Johnston, Mrs. S. E. Hackett, Mrs. George Ladd, Mrs. Howard Noble, Mrs. W. A. Seifert, Miss Laura Wilson, Mrs. Thomas Alexander, Jr., and Miss Isabel Chalfant.

Others are Mrs. Edwin S. Fickes, Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard, Ernest Hillman, Mrs. John J. Heard, Mrs. Frank Kier, Mrs. Charles D. Marshall, Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., Mrs. Maitland Alexander and Miss Katharine M. Edwards.

Gribbon-Craig Wedding in February

Miss Gladys Yvonne Gribbon, of Pittsburgh, daughter of the late John Gribbon, one-time lawyer and judge of the Supreme Court of England, is to marry Barrie Colton Craig, on February 14.

Miss Gribbon was honored with a dinner party Monday, November 27, by Mrs. Nelson Owens Craig, of New York, in the St. Regis Hotel. Mrs. Gladys Preston, of Pittsburgh, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Craig, was among the guests. Decorations were in green and gold, and the guest of honor wore green satin and cloth of gold with a corsage of gardenias.

Miss Gribbon is a graduate of the University of Tampa, and her fiance of the University of Southern California. At present he is in Africa.

Beechview Democratic Workers Giving Dance

Name Chairmen For Bridge of Pitt Club

Mrs. J. C. Tibbetts (the former Edith Raschen) heads the committees for the annual University of Pittsburgh Christmas bridge. The ballroom of the Schenley Hotel has again been chosen for this affair which will be held Saturday afternoon, December 30.

Chairmen of committees have been appointed by Mrs. Tibbetts. They are Miss Herminie Ruoff, chairman of refreshments; Miss Sara Drum, candy sale; Miss Gertrude Kromer, arrangements, and Mrs. Frank Nicholson, hospitality.

The Christmas party is the traditional reunion for the alumnae. More than 3,000 women graduates of the university are included in the general invitation. It is also a benefit to aid financing the various projects planned by the alumnae year committee, of which Mrs. A. D. Robb, Jr., is chairman.

Jewish Juniors Book Forum Program Changed

A departure from the usual program of the book forum of Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Juniors, will be offered tomorrow evening at the Y. M. & W. H. A., when Miss Mildred Baringoltz will review and lead a discussion of "Fatal Interview," Edna St. Vincent Millay's volume of sonnets.

The section is inviting the public to its bundle bridge party to be held in the Hotel Schenley on Sunday as a benefit for senior council's service shop. Mrs. Peter Cooper is benefit chairman.

Margaret White Married in Rectory

Mr. and Mrs. William J. White, of South Fairmont street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret White, and William Henry Gantner, of Howe street.

The ceremony took place Thursday in the rectory of Sacred Heart Church, with the Rev. Victor Kennedy officiating.

Miss Mary Agnes White was her sister's only attendant, and Robert Boyd was the best man. After December 15 Mr. and Mrs. Gantner will be at home in Beechwood boulevard.

Winchester Benefit Tonight

Alumnae mothers of Winchester School and their student daughters are competing—to see which group can sell the most tickets for "Alice in Wonderland," which Eva Le Gallienne's company will present tonight in the Nixon Theater.

Proceeds from the theatrical benefit, the first one in 13 years, will be used to continue the alumnae's self-appointed task—furnishing morning meals daily throughout the school year to over a hundred needy children.

Added to the list of patronesses are Mrs. Roy H. McKnight, Mrs. David I. McCahill, Mrs. Howard P. Zeller, Mrs. Norman Rendleman, Mrs. George L. Kesel and Mrs. O. G. Leichliter.

Mrs. Robert P. Rhodes is general chairman; Miss Dorothy Keller, tickets; Mrs. Harry A. Sipe, box seats; Mrs. Charles Lennox, candy.

Verona Girl Weds in Church

At 11 o'clock Saturday morning, Miss Georgie M. Watterson became the bride of Harry J. Reed, with the Rev. Willard Mellin, of the First Presbyterian Church of Oakmont, officiating in the manse.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Watterson, of First street, Verona, wore a gown of pencil blue chiffon velvet and her flowers were gardenias. Mrs. Harry Skinner, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and wore mulberry velvet and her flowers were Talisman roses. The bridegroom, son of Jacob Reed, of Washington avenue, Oakmont, had Harry Skinner as his best man.

STORYBOOK FROCKS FOR REAL GIRLS

By PRUNELLA WOOD

ANYONE who believed all the hooey that has been printed about the dancing mothers of this generation will get an awful shock when he sees the latest styles for their children. For it was taken right out of the pages of Louisa Alcott's "Little Women," and there isn't so much as a detail missing, unless its long pantaloons—and were they before Louisa, anyway?

They are darling garments; they make any child look dainty and healthy at the same time; and they are built of such sturdy fabrics—in the good, old-fashioned manner—that their vogue is bound to persist a while, on sheer durability.

Like the quaint styles that have been borrowed latterly for grown-up styles, a great deal of the fascination of these little frocks is put into the yoke, collar, and sleeve treatments. They hold the spotlights of the Alcott style parade, giving a storybook quirk to the models.

Women of Homewood To Be Juniors' Guests

Members of the Homewood Women's Club will be guests of the Juniors at a meeting in St. James Episcopal Parish House, Kelly street, this evening.

A program of Christmas songs and stories from foreign lands will be given by the choral and dramatic club and tea will be served at its close.

Teachers and Pupils Giving P. T. A. Program

The teachers and pupils of Samuel Hamilton School will give the program this evening at the regular monthly meeting of the school Parent-Teacher Association.

C is for Christmas . . . spelled with a Compact by Corday! And have you seen the new ones by this famous cosmetician? Stunning enamel in turquoise, gold, and white . . . making a loose powder compact of eye-catching good looks. Price $1.65.

* * *

New . . . New . . . NEW! Ring out the old and by all means ring in this news about the cigaret lighters which are taking the world by storm! We've seen them advertised in two of the smartest national magazines . . . NOW we've found them at a store here in town!

Lektrolite! The lighter which needs no turning of gadgets to make it work . . . which has no flame . . . which doesn't blow out in the wind (or rain!) . . . which works like a charm, and is light and easy to carry (about like a lipstick, although you can get them like lead pencils too!) What a gift for HIM or HER! Beginning at $5 . . . and worth it! Give one of these and know you're giving the newest, smartest, most practical thing of its kind!

* * *

Jolly, fat little brown crockery jugs are holding forth somewhere we know . . . filled to their necks with such-like as Angostura Bitters . . . Orange . . and wearing their names inscribed on their sides! Jovial little fellows . . . with silvery metal stoppers thrust into their throats, making a few drops easy to get from them in just that right amount! And so necessary from now on in the concocting of every good party! And so attractive to have on the table, too!

* * *

There's many a slip . . . yes, we know all about it, but did YOU know about THESE slips of French crepe for a lonely $1?

White or tearose they are . . . with straight or V-tops . . . and such expensive-seeming points as adjustable straps! With lace . . . or tailored in a sweet simplicity . . . and even embroidered discreetly at times. Just awfully well made and durable, we think . . . and certainly a boon to us impoverished women who wear sizes 34 to 44.

* * *

Just snooty, huh? Very much high-hat? Then follow in our footsteps as we tramp steadily in the direction of some new jewelry for men . . . gifts, of course!

There are link and stud sets ($2.50 and $4.50) . . . collar and tie holders ($1.50 and $2.50) and every one of them done up in the cleverest sort of way! In high hats no less! Black silk ones of a height . . . what a height! And each little set fitted into the hat as into a case. A "different note for the man you'd like to impress a bit!

The Wilkinsburg Junior League of Women Voters, the first junior voters' organization in the state, has elected its permanent officers. They are:

The new unit is planning a musicale-tea December 29 for college girls who are home for the holidays. It's to be held in Mrs. Arnold M. Replogle's home, Ardmore boulevard, where the organization has its regular meetings.

150 Gotham Buds Attend First Assembly

NEW YORK—One hundred and fifty debutantes, selected by a committee of society leaders with an eye to exclusiveness, achieved the goal of all New York debutantes Friday evening by attending the first of the Junior Assemblies of the season.

Several hundred young women make their bows each winter, and inclusion in the Junior Assembly list means that the fortunate ones have really "arrived," socially speaking.

The dance this year was held in the main ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The committee in charge included Mrs. Richard C. Colt, chairman; Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. Henry T. Peters, Mrs. Walter Phelps Bliss, Mrs. Adrian V. S. Lambert, Mrs. M. Walker Rogers, Mrs. Edwin G. Merrill and Mrs. George S. Brewster. The other Junior Assemblies will be held on January 5 and February 2.

Preceding the ball Miss Margaret Roosevelt, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Roosevelt, made her debut at a dinner dance in the crystal room of the Ritz. Miss Roosevelt is a granddaughter of the late W. Emlen Roosevelt, cousin of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

Earlier in November she was presented to the older friends of the family at a reception at the city home.

RETIRED P. R. R. ENGINEER DIES

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—John B. Bott, 87, active in engineering work for the Pennsylvania Railroad for more than 30 years, died early yesterday.

Bott, a member of the first class graduated from Thiel College, worked on many construction projects including the Ohio River surveys of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey; the Baltimore Belt Line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and many branch lines of the Pennsylvania.

He was associated with the late Samuel Rea in building the Hudson River tubes for the Pennsylvania Railroad and checked Rea's plans for the project.

PLAN TO FIGHT TUGWELL BILL

Opposition to the Tugwell bill which replaces the present Pure Food Law of the federal government will be taken at a meeting of food and drug manufacturers of the Pittsburgh district in the Keystone Athletic Club at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Under the Tugwell plan control of the food and drug industry would be given to the Department of Agriculture and, according to W. B. Wylie, chairman of the Pittsburgh meeting, would establish "autocratic and bureaucratic control over the food and drug industries."

Bones Found, Death Of Man, 80, Probed

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Discovery of a skeleton identified as that of Edwin Fox, 80, has started an investigation by Ohio and West Virginia police into the death of the aged man, missing since February 4.

The skeleton was found by a boy in a field between Chester and New Cumberland, both in West Virginia. Coroner T. E. Cato at New Cumberland said the aged man's skull had been fractured.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Planning New Commission For Radio

By AIRCASTER

Things I've been wanting to say for a week—

A tentative draft of President Roosevelt's message to the new Congress, according to legislative wiseacres, includes the recommendation for a new regulatory body for radio broadcasting.

F. D.'s ambition is to take the radio away from the present commission; telephone and telegraph out of the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and cables and commercial international wireless away from the State Department, and put them all together under a brand new outfit, "the Commission of Communications," after which broadcasters must keep up to a high standard of entertainment or go into the cloak and suit business.

Cantor, 1934

Eddie Cantor has been signed again for 1934.

CBS has engaged and will build up the husky-throated Joan Olsen, who once warbled for Ben Bernie.

A wild night on the air Tuesday night looms up, with the networks and independent stations plotting to make the rounds with microphones of the nation's gayest and dizziest spots.

Children's Program On WCAE Today

The Sun-Telegraph Family Children's Program is heard on WCAE this afternoon at 4:45.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the day's news over WCAE and WJAS at 12:15, 2:15 and 6:30 p. m.

Hour Dramas

A sponsor is almost ready with a series of one-hour plays for the NBC lanes, in which the de-salaried stars of the cinema will act up.

The Troubadours, Vallee, and several other aerial toppers are all planning an avalanche of voices from the movie lots.

For some mysterious reason, the Vallee and Whiteman hours won't be outletted by Canadian stations after January 1.

Kate Smith would like to stay in vaudeville because during the few weeks she has been dancing around on stages, she has shaken off 30 pounds.

* * *

A Tune-Out

An attempt will be made to stage a "last mile" broadcast, over a major network, on the occasion of the next execution in New York, starring the condemned fellow. Anybody want to audition for it? I'll arrange it.

* * *

Radio has come of age at last A Connecticut antique dealer yesterday sent out a call for old crystal sets.

Victor Young is in a tough spot. Somehow, they heard over in Poland that he was air-plugging a beauty program. Sixty self-accused beauties of that country, imagining that he was staging a girl show, sent applications.

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

There are some of you that can take it. You remember that monkey problem? I never expected to hear an answer to that. All I had been getting was rumblings of dissatisfaction which seemed to indicate that the "math sharks" believed that I had let them down and given them a "phony."

I almost thought so myself until I saw a solution submitted by J. S. Swauger, of Turtle Creek, who, by a prolific use of X's, doped out that 2X was a constant difference in the ages of two monkeys and therefore the length of the rope was 15 feet.

That sounds a little balmy, I know, but when Henry Rodney, of Uniontown, after prodigious labor and industry arrived at the same answer through a different line of logic I became convinced. Henry used simultaneous equations, X and Y representing the ages of two monkeys.

Fred DeLazier, of South Connelsville, submitted six feet as the answer.

If any of you want the solutions let me know and I'll send them to you by mail. If I get sufficient requests I'll put them in the column. I'm afraid, though, that there are many of us who never want to see anything that reminds us of that monkey problem again.

W. Patronie, of Forbes road—The winners to the American Weekly contest have not been announced as yet. It can't take very much longer.

Mrs. A. A. K.—The statute of limitations in debt matters is six years. The statute would not apply to your case if the note is signed and sealed. A presumption of payment might arise after 21 years. There are safeguards that you might avail yourself of. Your lawyer is the one to advise you specifically. All cases are not the same.

2,000 GIFT IDEAS AT $1.00 EACH

A Brand New Plan To Help You Hunt Gifts

Briefly, here's the point: Suppose you have a gift list with a definite budget in mind. Your list calls for gifts not to cost more than $1.00, $2.00, $3.00, $5.00—whatever your price may be, what you want to know most is what nice thing you can buy at your price. Gift round-up is the place to find inspiration and direction as to where you can buy that thing in the store.

Tomorrow we open Gift Round-Up with a vast assortment of gifts at a mere dollar. Another time we will change the whole shop and feature gifts at another price.

Make up your mind to visit Gift Round-Up whenever you are in our store, because we know you are going to find this idea of real help.

Throngs Brave Rain To View Body; Many Stay for Services

Richard Beatty Mellon was laid to rest yesterday in Allegheny Cemetery with the same simplicity that had characterized his life. The Mellon home was thrown open to the public for the funeral service.

From early morning until a few minutes before 3 p. m., crowds thronged the marble halls of the great brownstone mansion at 6500 Fifth avenue, to view the body of the man who contributed much to the city's financial, industrial and civic progress during the last half century.

The rich and the poor, the young and the old—the rank and file of the people, poured through the Great Hall where the body lay in a veritable room of flowers. Some left cards. Others had no cards to leave. Their presence there was a tribute to the democracy of the man whose life, relatively, was as simple as it could be in the midst of the wealth and social position, which is synonymous with the Mellon name.

RESPECTFUL THRONG

A steady stream of people, damp from the rain, clutching their umbrellas, purses, hats and gloves, shuffled respectfully through the doors which will probably never receive them again. Met and directed by footmen stationed at intervals along the halls, many of them gazed with ill-concealed curiosity at the gilded mirrors, the illuminated paintings, the crimson, gold-fringed curtains.

In the crowd were men and women whom Mr. Mellon had befriended in innumerable ways; unimportant little men and women who boasted in hushed whispers that they had been associated with Mr. Mellon, perhaps ever so casually, in this way or that. Very likely Mr. Mellon had never received them in his home while he lived. Now they came to see him in death.

White-haired aristocrats in high silk hats, beautifully groomed society matrons and debutantes mingled in the line with shabby men and women who trod cautiously on the costly rugs as if they were unsure of their welcome.

In the door they came, in endless procession, past the door decoration of 13 living orchids; then turned to the left, past the music room, the library and several drawing rooms; past the elevators and stairways which led to upper floors; past shining glass cabinets filled with jade and coral, miniatures and art treasures; left again and down six steps into the Great Hall.

FLOWERS EVERYWHERE

On the right wall, a magnificent tapestry. Flowers banked everywhere — nearly 250 floral tributes from all over the nation.

At the end of the room was the open bronze casket, set against drawn crimson curtains and deep red roses banked half-way to the ceiling. Against the casket, half covered with a magnificent blanket of white roses which trailed to the floor, leaned a white flowered cross with orchids bleeding from its center. A half-opened white rose bloomed from the lapel of the coat which clothed the body. Head on a white lace pillow, the body was turned just a little to one side. About the neck was a black tie with tiny white stripes running diagonally.

Lacking Dollars, You Can Spend Chalk or Marbles

-By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER-

Best substitute we know for money is marbles or chalk.

It has been tried and worked.

We lost them on chalk on a blackboard.

But nothing will ever take the place of gold. It is first in the pockets of its countrymen. The American dollar is still the seeded player of the tournament.

All that groaning and screeching you hear now are from the international dry axles which have lost their grease.

The American dollar is being managed to meet the European level. The pound and the franc refused to come up for air. So we rushed them the pulmotor.

REEL ONE

When and How to Drink

Two short movies wherein one who has forgotten—or never knew—the delicacies of the pre-prohibition era can learn the fundamentals of the use of wines and liquors with the dinner.

—Camera: Sun-Telegraph Staff Photographer—

MAITRE D'HOTEL A. ALBERT ESTELLE JOYCE

Mixing the martini (gin and vermouth) in the cocktail course to be served just before dinner. Note the glasses.

JOE HNATH MARCELL TAYLOR

The sherry wine—and you're watching the types of glasses?—for use with the soup or appetizer at the dinner.

MARIE GABALEC PREPARING THE SAUTERNE

CAMILLA ROBINETTE POURING THE BURGUNDY

Waiters to Attend 'Clinic' on Rum Etiquet

Do you know what kind of a glass to use when drinking?

If you want to drink wines, cocktails and cordials correctly when prohibition dies, you should first see that they are poured into the proper glass, according to A. Albert, president of the Pittsburgh Stewards' Association.

After 13 years of furtive imbibing of high-powered distillates, he said, our knowledge of the proper use of glassware is "rusty" when it comes to serving these three kinds of drinks. Albert, who is maitre d'hotel at the William Penn Hotel, continued:

"Just as there is a correct wine for each course at the repeal table, there is a correct glass for the various wines. Different shaped glasses help preserve the flavor and bouquet of the wine."

LECTURE ON SERVING

Pointers will be given at a lecture tonight at the William Penn, to be held by the Stewards' Association. Hundreds of waiters and waitresses are expected to attend.

Former noted bartenders from this district are to speak, Albert said. They are to tell of the art of drinking and mixing drinks in the pre-Volsted era. The proper use of the various glasses will be explained.

First, is a martini cocktail. Cocktail glasses vary in shape and style, he said, as there is no particular reason to keep them uniform.

Second, with the soup course is a glass of sherry wine, which comes from Spain. The sherry glass, he said, has a wide opening and the bowl tapers in.

Third, if there happens to be a fish course there would be Sauterne, a white wine from the Bordeaux district in France. It should be served in a glass that is narrower at the top than the bottom, in order to hold the bouquet.

MOSELLE SUGGESTED

Or if preferred, he continued, a bottle of Moselle, a white wine, from Germany could be opened. He said:

"This wine should always be served in long-stemmed glasses for the purpose of giving it a touch of distinction."

Since a bottle of Moselle as well as other wines is very difficult to open, he said, a girl should use a French corkscrew which has a leverage attachment. A napkin, Albert warned, should always be placed around the neck of the bottle in case it should break and cut the hand.

Fourth, if roast beef is on the menu, Albert would have some sparkling Burgundy wine, which he declared is good for building up blood in the anemic. It should be served cool in a glass that looks like the champagne glass, but which has a solid stem.

Fifth, is the port wine, which is imported from Portugal, having a sweet taste. It goes well with cheese, Albert said, or at the dessert course. It can be served in a small wine glass.

CHAMPAGNE "KING"

Sixth—champagne—the gayest and the king of all wines. The stem of the champagne glass should be hollow so that its bubbling can be seen. Albert continued:

"You should pull the cork out with a noise when opening the bottle. You should use a napkin to hold the cork so it does not fly across the room."

A cordial as well as champagne can be drunk after the meal is finished. The cordial glass has a small, narrow bowl.

Brandy and tokay, Albert added, also take a special glass, which has a pear-shaped bowl and bulges inward at the top. He explained:

"In France they spread the brandy over the inside wall of the glass by turning it around. Then they put it down and talk about it—in America they drink it right down."

REEL TWO

When and How to Drink

Further into an imaginary dinner party you go, all the while bearing in mind the types of wines served with each course and, likewise important, the type of glassware used for each.

—Camera: Sun-Telegraph Staff Photographer—

NICK CEO CAREFULLY HANDLING THE CHAMPAGNE

EDWARD STREYLE BRINGING IN THE PORT WINE

Port—from Portugal. It's sweet, served with cheese and, of course, the dinner's dessert. Many women like it.

MARIE GABELEC ANDREW KASICKY

ANN KUNKLE DEMONSTRATING BOTTLE-OPENING

NO MORE GRAFT, MAYOR-ELECT DECLARES

Has Mortgage Plans To Aid Housing Project

By HOWARD L. BROWNING, Jr.
Staff Correspondent.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Dec. 4.—Mayor-elect William N. McNair plans real agitation in favor of his free port idea, intends to add to the police force after his inauguration and is hoping to find a short cut to start work on a North Side housing project before the grant of federal aid funds.

He bared these further plans today as he rested on his return trip to Pittsburgh after a short vacation in Miami with Mrs. McNair, George E. Evans, contractor and Democratic politician, and Evans' daughter, Mrs. William C. Ridge, of Pittsburgh.

McNair stopped over in Brunswick, Ga., for a short time yesterday to talk with Carey Sutlive, editor of a newspaper there, who is also a proponent of the free port idea for Brunswick.

SUTLIVE COMING HERE

The Mayor-elect plans to bring Sutlive to Pittsburgh within a week or so to talk on his conception of the benefits of opening a city to imports without tariff. Says McNair—and Sutlive agrees:

"Why, you'd have a building boom in no time. This is the kind of a plan the Chamber of Commerce ought to advocate if it's really interested in Pittsburgh's prosperity.

"But you can imagine the Chamber of Commerce in the heart of protectionism indorsing such a scheme.

"So if people ask why Pittsburgh isn't prosperous and why the rivers on which we've spent hundreds of millions aren't used extensively, I'll refer them to the Chamber. And if the Italians ask me why they have to pay so much for their Roman cheese, I'll tell them the Chamber of Commerce is standing in the way of its free entry up the Mississippi and Ohio by not indorsing my proposal."

So McNair and Sutlive hope to stir up enough interest in the scheme to embarrass the Chamber or force it to ask President Roosevelt to modify the tariff laws and make Pittsburgh a free port.

ABOUT THE POLICE FORCE

Relative to increasing the police force of Pittsburgh in an effort to cut down crime, McNair says:

"I guess if you take the graft out of policing and put more police on the job Pittsburgh ought to be a safe place to live in for a change, eh?"

But of even greater interest to him just now is McNair's plan to raise private funds to start the housing project for which Evans has applied for federal aid from Washington.

The $1,250,000 project, calling for 220 houses in the Brighton road district, may be held up by red tape for as much as two months, McNair feels, if it's left to Washington's mercy.

So McNair is revolving in his mind a plan to use the Marion Building and Loan Association for which he is attorney, to raise about $200,000 with which to start the shovels shoveling. He says:

"A $50,000 mortgage on th[illegible] Benedum-Trees Building wou[illegible] be safe, wouldn't it?

"Well, then, why not get M[illegible] Benedum and three or other owners of big down[illegible] buildings to place $50,000 [illegible]gages on their buildings[illegible] the Marion Building and L[illegible]

"Then get them to lend the money they raise to George Evans, who is a substantial businessman and good security.

"For the Marion to get the money, we'd have to have some kind of a membership drive—

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 4.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I can't get my mind on what's in the papers today. Maybe th[illegible] "better element" are going lynch my good old friend Gov. Rolph, for speaking from his heart, instead of from diplomacy. Maybe another old friend Ethel Barrymore is hanging from a limb, for telling about 90 per cent of the truth about modern society.

Will Rogers

Maybe the world is in mortal turmoil, but I just can't get interested in it today, for our pet dog was killed by a truck.

So darn everything. O. O. McIntyre will know how we feel. I love a dog. He does nothing for political reasons.

Yours, WILL.

(Copyright, 1933, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

M'NAIR TO HIRE MORE POLICE FOR 'SAFETY'

and the mortgages on those big buildings would inspire a lot of "little fellows" with enough confidence to join up.

"It's an old association and it won't borrow money—that's why we'd have to have the drive.

"That $200,000 would be enough to start things going and build 20 or 30 houses which we could sell and get our money out of if the loan didn't go through."

McNair's thought is expressed when he says:

"What we need is local confidence as well as local work."

FIVE-CENT FARE

McNair will also pay personal attentions to questions involving public utility rates after his inauguration.

He admitted he has been considering the best ways to give Pittsburgh street car riders, electricity and gas consumers a "break" after he becomes mayor.

He outlined three tentative plans he's been considering:

1—To bill utilities for taxes on their real estate and buildings and carry the matter to the courts if they refuse to pay.

2—To lay open the entire street railway and traction problem when hearings on the city's contract with the Pittsburgh Railways Company, forming the traction conference board, are held in January.

3—To open rate cases before the Public Service Commission, contesting utilities' charges.

McNair pointed out that Mayor Guthrie, Pittsburgh's last Democratic Mayor, first billed utilities for taxes on their real estate, which has gone untaxed for many years.

The utilities took the case to court, McNair says, and lost it in the lower courts although the Supreme Court upheld their plea that it amounted to double taxation, since the state already taxes their gross income.

But McNair isn't so sure the Supreme Court would again uphold the utilities:

"After all the revelations in the Morgan hearings maybe the Supreme Court won't be so ready to side with the utilities as a matter of principle.

As to the rightness of taxing utilities, McNair points out:

EVANS HAS SAY

Evans, Democratic nominee for Council who withdrew in favor of William A. Magee, chimed into the interview with:

"You know, most land is taxed to the tune of about 33 per cent a year on its gross income; yet a vast quantity of utilities property goes untaxed."

So the next mayor intends to bill the light and gas and traction companies for real estate taxes and expects to take the case to the courts.

McNair also thinks the whole street car situation can be "busted wide open." He says:

"In the charters of most or all of the underlying companies is the provision that they must never charge more than a five-cent fare. Yet today the Pittsburgh Railways Company, operating on those charters, charges eight and one-third cents."

And Evans says:

"Don't forget that they're allowed today to earn on an assessed valuation of $62,000,000. I could build the entire system, a lot more modern, for $25,000,000 and earn a handsome profit."

McNair thinks that:

"Maybe if we gave those things a little airing, to say nothing of the rents the company pays to the owners of the first charters—the Mellons in many instances—we'd get a 5-cent fare."

EST WE FORGET

The Mayor-elect isn't forgetting, meanwhile, the gas companies, charging 63 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, when they can [illegible] for as little as 11 cents. Nor is he forgetting the light company and the money the Byllesby Company is taking out of Pittsburgh annually in dividends, management and other fees, and he is inclined to dig into the subject—there's lots of material available from the various investigations that reported but didn't have much result—after he's inaugurated.

Meanwhile, McNair's been revolving in his head the possibility of securing a "cracker-jack" utilities lawyer to act as special attorney for the city in utilities questions

It is that post that Attorney Charles P. Lang occupied until his death several weeks ago.

THE FUNERAL FOR RICHARD BEATTY MELLON LEAVING HIS FIFTH AVENUE ESTATE FOR THE PRIVATE TEMPORARY INTERMENT IN ALLEGHENY CEMETERY

PLANES RESCUE 5 IN ALBERTA

FORT M'MURRAY, Alberta, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Five injured and sick persons, plucked from the lonely Northland's long winter by rescue planes, received medical attention here today as two more airplanes sped over fast-freezing wastes to deliver the season's first mail.

Pilot Walter Gilbert and a priest from Fort Smith flew to the Great Bear Lake area yesterday to carry in the five hospital cases to Alberta's end of the railroad.

Somewhere up around Fort Smith, or preparing to take off for McMurray on the 300-mile flight, was Pilot Con Farrell. After delivering mail to Fort Smith he was to descend 100 miles north of here, where the motorship Mabel is ice-locked with seven passengers aboard.

Meanwhile W. R. (Wop) May, another flier with a long record of Arctic and sub-Arctic flights, was in the vicinity of Fort Simpson, 700 miles northwest of here, flying the first winter mail into the Simpson district post.

POLICE BEATING PROBED

Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide today said he had asked for a detailed report from North Side police regarding the alleged beating of two Mexicans Thursday night which placed them in Allegheny General Hospital.

McQuaide said he had received no complaint from the Mexican consul here. Three policemen are said to have admitted beating the men, but only after they had advanced toward them with two revolvers and a knife.

The beaten men are Eduardo Malvino, 27, and Armando Robeldo, 35. Both have fractured jaws.

KILLS WIFE, HER MOTHER, SELF

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Angered at failure to effect a reconciliation with his estranged wife, Author Quesenberry, 26, killed his wife and his mother-in-law and shot himself to death today.

Troopers called by neighbors found his mother-in-law, Mrs. Isabell Smith, dead in her home at Snow Hill. Quesenberry lay on the floor dead. His wife was found wounded on a porch. She died in a Charleston hospital.

Investigation showed that Quesenberry and his wife had quarreled about a month ago when she returned to her mother's home.

Trainer on Spree Frees Animals, Fights Bear

Late Saturday night Joe came back to the Carber training farm, near Shelly, Bucks County, where the animals are quartered, singing some Russian songs, according to other employes. As a result of some wild impulse he turned all the animals loose. Acceding to another urge, he stripped off his clothing and jumped in with the animals.

State police found Joe wrestling a 200-pound bear. He warned them not to interfere. Breaking away from the bear, Joe ran into the farmhouse and seized a shotgun. Police seized Joe. He was fined $23.50 for disorderly conduct.

Newlyweds Jailed on Robbery Charge

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A newlywed couple and the bridegroom's mother were committed to jail today to await hearing on charges of looting cottages at Roaring Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lorent, who were married Thanksgiving Day, and Mrs. Anna Lorent, the bridegroom's mother, were arrested by state police, who said they recovered most of the articles removed from the cottages.

Grower of Tobacco, Non-Nicotine, Dies

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Prof. Erwin Baur, the "German Luther Burbank" and the man who evolved a tobacco plant without nicotine, was dead today at the age of 58. He succumbed to a heart attack.

RICH, POOR ATTEND MELLON RITES

Several Negroes were in the parade which filed past the casket. Possibly they were former servitors who had come to bid their master good-bye. Plainclothesmen, looking uncomfortable in the unaccustomed sartorial accoutrements of their cut-away suits and wing-collars, kept their eyes watchfully on the never-ending stream of people who marched slowly in and out the doors.

More than a thousand chairs were set about the halls and rooms for people who stayed for the service. A quartet of two men and two women in long black gowns, from the East Liberty Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Mellon was a member, sang three of Mr. Mellon's favorite hymns: "Now the Day is Over," "Jerusalem the Golden" and "Now the Laborer's Task is O'er."

BEAUTIFUL EULOGY

The Rev. Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison, pastor of Mr. Mellon's church, officiated at the service which he opened with a recitation of the 23rd psalm after the first hymn had been sung. Loud speakers throughout the halls and rooms, amplified his voice as he spoke from the stair landing at the end of the reception hall. He said:

"For three-quarters of a century Richard Beatty Mellon loved the city of his birth with a devotion that never knew doubt nor change. As the chancellor of the university said yesterday: 'Above everything else he wanted Pittsburgh to be a place where people were glad they lived. Vastly more than most of us knew, we have here, because of him, better hospitals, wider streets, more inspiring architecture, more industrial progress, and more sensitiveness to things spiritual.'

"Mr. Mellon's contribution to the industrial greatness of the nation is too well known to be dwelt upon here. There are few spheres in the complex of this great community which he has not touched and adorned. His contribution to science in the fields of industrial research and human healing will enrich and bless generations yet unborn. His active interest in the cause of education has done much to advance the university to the high place it occupies among institutions of its kind.

"These things of which we have spoken are written into the life and thought of our day and generation.

MARK OF GREAT SOUL

"There is another side of Mr. Mellon known only to those who lived in closest contact with him. His genial humor, his wisdom, his ready sympathy, made him very dear to his friends. His considerateness for those in his employ was noted everywhere. Those who knew him best loved him most—the mark of a great soul.

"Rarley a day passed that was not distinguished by quiet kindnesses to poor souls who could never repay him, and who probably never knew the name of their benefactor.

"He was a Christian who was not ashamed or afraid to speak of his immortal hope. It was not necessary for his minister to open the subject. He often introduced it himself. And he was able to give to any man who asked it a reason for the faith that was in him.

"In the valley yonder will stand through coming generations a memorial of his love and that of his wife for the church of their childhood. And in the hearts of those who knew him there will linger always the memory of one whose humility and kindness and Christian faith, will be a heritage laid up in heaven for the resurrection of the just."

After the short service was concluded, everyone left the home except the family and close friends who were to accompany the body to the cemetery. The halls were cleared. The long line of honorary pallbearers, tall silk hats in hands, entered their cars. Thirty-two cars were in the funeral procession. Ten uniformed police, under the direction of Ben Marshall, assistant superintendent of police, were on duty in the Mellon grounds. Six of them, forming a motorcycle escort, preceded the funeral cars to the cemetery.

SON ESCORTS WIDOW

The bereaved Mrs. Mellon, in deep mourning, was on the arm of her son, Richard King Mellon, as she entered her car. Following them were Mrs. Mellon's daughter, Mrs. Sarah Mellon Scaife, and her husband, Alan Magee Scaife.

Accompanying his father, Andrew W. Mellon, was his son, Paul Mellon. Other members of the family connection following included Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mellon, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mellon, their daughters Patsy Mellon and Mrs. J. B. Sellers with Mr. Sellers; Mrs. John F. Walton (Rachel Mellon), Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Mellon II, Miss Alice Negley and party, Mrs. James Verner Scaife, Mr. and Mrs. James Verner Scaife, Jr.

OLD FRIENDS GRIEVE

Among them were Mrs. H. H. McClintic, her daughter, Mrs. George H. Love, Mrs. William J. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Jr., the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson.

Among the industrialists and former business associates of Mr. Mellon attending the services were Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company; Arthur V. Davis, head of the Aluminum Company of America, one of the many Mellon interests; former Gov. John S. Fisher, Senator David A. Reed, Howard Heinz and A. L. Humphrey, former chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company.

Also seen were Herbert A. May, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, Mr. and Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly, Mrs. William Zang, Miss Nell Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Denton, Mr. and Mrs. William Frew, Mrs. William Nimick Frew, Miss Louise Reed, Mrs. W. McCook Reed, Mrs. Enoch Rauh and her daughter, Miss Helen Rauh; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Duckham, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. Roberdeau Green Annan, Mrs. George Singer Ebbert and her mother, Mrs. James I. Kay, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan B. Schiller, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr.

Mrs. C. A. Painter, Jr., came with her mother, Mrs. W. Harry Brown; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jones III were there, Mr. and Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Mr. and Mrs. Howard S Evans and their daughter, Miss Evelyn Evans; Mrs. George C. Stephenson; Miss Phyllis and Miss Louise Totten, Mrs. T. J. Hilliard, Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, Torrence Miller, Mrs. Carroll P. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crawford, Mrs. John W. Lawrence, Mrs. Raymond Hilliard, Harmar D. Denny, Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, Mrs. John M. Phillips, Mrs. J. L. D. Painter, Mrs. W. L. Jones, Jr., Mrs. Jacob S. Payton with her father, Joseph W Marsh; Miss Helen Leovy, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Miller, Mrs. A. E. Braun and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Braun.

The Hunt, the Chalfant, the Miller, the Rust and McEldowney families were represented, as were many other leading families of Pittsburgh.

Grand Jury Starts Work on 450 Cases

H. Clay Berger, of 2104 Spring street, today was sworn in as foreman of the December grand jury by Judge Sylvester J. Snee in Common Pleas Court.

The grand jury consists of 12 men and eight women. Within the next two weeks it will consider about 450 routine cases, according to Assistant District Attorney Ralph H. Hunter.

HEART SEIZURE FATAL TO LEGGE

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Death from a heart attack has ended the career of Alexander Legge, 67-year-old president of the International Harvester Company and former chairman of the Federal Farm Board.

Mr. Legge, called "the iron man" because of his seemingly tireless efforts, died suddenly yesterday at his home in suburban Hinsdale, where he had been working in his garden.

During the war he was director of the War Industries Board. He was the second important figure in the nation's war time affairs to die within two weeks. The other was his close friend, Edward N. Hurley, head of the war time shipping board.

ITALY FETES LITVINOFF

ROME, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Maxim Litvinoff turned from business to pleasure today—from talks with Premier Mussolini productive of an agreement on Italian-Soviet political collaboration to the formalities of diplomacy.

Chief of these was a reception by King Victor Emmanuel of the Russian Foreign Commissar and a banquet at the Soviet Embassy. Tomorrow he will be a guest at the American Embassy.

Litvinoff, who arrived Saturday after concluding Soviet-American recognition negotiations in Washington, discussed with Mussolini problems of international policy and how to better the general political situation in the spirit of an Italo-Soviet nonaggression pact.

That much was reported yesterday in an official communique, between whose lines well-informed persons read that Il Duce obtained Soviet support of his efforts to solve the disarmament dilemma.

It was generally believed that they talked about major international problems, the four-power Western European peace pact that Russia wants to join on an equal basis, religious liberty in Russia and direct diplomatic exchanges among the major powers about arms.

U. S., Russian Envoys Hold Parley in Paris

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The first official contact between the Paris embassies of the United States and Russia since the founding of the U. S. S. R. took place today.

J. Theodore Marriner, American charge d'affairs, called upon Valerian Dovgalevsky, Russian ambassador to France. They had a lengthy conversation.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25c at drug stores.

Refuse "something just as good", for it may gripe, loosen teeth or scald rectum. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. ©1933, C.M.Co.

AN ORDINANCE — Authorizing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works to advertise for proposals and to award a contract or contracts for the reconstruction of the existing 24-inch sewer on old Freeport road and on private property of the City of Pittsburgh, O'Hara Township (Former site of the Montrose Pumping Station) from the existing sewer on old Freeport road at a point about 400 feet north of Boyd Avenue to the Allegheny River, including as may be necessary, the excavation of exploratory test holes, and authorizing the setting aside the sum of one thousand five hundred ($1,500.00) dollars from Code Account No. 109, Public Works Bonds 1932, for the payment of the cost thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works, shall be and they are hereby authorized and directed to advertise for proposals and to award a contract or contracts to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for the reconstruction of the existing 24-inch sewer on old Freeport road and on private property of the City of Pittsburgh, O'Hara Township (Former site of the Montrose Pumping Station) from the existing sewer on old Freeport road at a point about 400 feet north of Boyd Avenue to the Allegheny River, including as may be necessary, the excavation of exploratory test holes. Said sewer to be 24 inches in diameter and to be constructed in accordance with Plan Accession No. D-5126 on file in the Bureau of Engineering, Department of Public Works. The said contract or contracts to be awarded for a sum not to exceed one thousand five hundred ($1,500.00) dollars, and the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to enter into a contract or contracts with the successful bidder or bidders for the performance of the work in accordance with the laws and ordinances governing said city.

SECTION 2. That for the payment of the cost thereof, the sum of one thousand five hundred ($1,500.00) dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby set apart and appropriated from Code Account No. 109, Public Works Bonds 1932, and the Mayor is hereby authorized and directed to issue, and the City Controller to countersign, warrants drawn on said funds for the payment of the cost of said work.

SECTION 3. That any ordinance or part of ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Passed in Council November 27, 1933.
Approved December 1, 1933.
JOHN S. HERRON, Mayor.
Recorded in O. B., Vol. 45, page 407.

Drawings of Former Patient Used by League

A talent for sketching, developed by Elmer Lind while a patient at the Tuberculosis League Hospital, is now being put to use in the League's Christmas Seal drive.

Lind is making preliminary drawings for posters at the forthcoming booth sales. His ability, a casual aptitude before his admittance and cure at the hospital, has been drafted by the league on various occasions.

The league's program, to educate doctors and nurses in the diagnosis, treatment, and care of tuberculosis, is chiefly financed by Christmas Seal sales.

Infant Girl Perishes In West End Blaze

Margaret Bell Johnson, an infant, was burned to death yesterday when fire damaged the residence of her father, Walter Johnson, Negro, 21 Mansfield avenue, West End.

Johnson and Mrs. Margaret McGraw, who lives on the second floor, suffered burns. Capt. J. W. Cunningham, of Engine Company No. 10, said the fire broke out when a water heater ignited gasoline being used for cleaning purposes.

BISHOP NAMES COMMITTEE

Committees have been announced for the meeting of the American Catholic Historical Association, scheduled in Pittsburgh for December 28 and 29. Chairman of the executive committee will be the Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of Pittsburgh; of reception, Rosemary Casey; of registration, Helen Hierholzer.

The meeting will be under the joint auspices of Bishop Boyle and Duquesne University. Among the speakers on the program are: Dr. Peter Guilday, of Catholic University; Dr. F. X. Millar, of Fordham, and Dr. Carleton Hayes, of Columbia.

SYRIA TEMPLE GUIDING SANTA TO ORPHANS

Six thousand orphans in 66 institutions throughout Western Pennsylvania will have real, honest-to-goodness Christmases this year—with presents and candy and Santa himself, in person—through the efforts of nobles of Syria Temple, John G. Daub, potentate, announced today.

Prior to the holiday, each child will be asked what gift he or she wants most from Santa Claus, and, making his visits Christmas Day and Christmas Eve, the old saint will personally supervise distribution to see that no one is disappointed.

Orphanages to be visited are located in Allegheny, Armstrong, Westmoreland, Butler, Fayette, Washington, Lawrence, Beaver and Indiana Counties. Uriah W. Tinker is general chairman of the Syria Santa Claus committee; Albert C. Darragh is secretary. Included on the committee are S. G. Barton, Robert F. Bell, C. E. Brown, E. L. Connelly, J. L. THIEF 'KIDNAPS' STORE CLERKS

Forced into their machine by an armed man, three Munhall chain store employes were compelled to drive to a secluded spot in the West Run road and robbed of $80 shortly before Saturday midnight, they reported to police.

Clinton John, of 7701 Jeremias street, Swissvale; George Dixon, of 190 Marsden street, Hazelwood, and Adam Thompson, told police that they were leaving the store at Twelfth avenue and McClure street, when an armed man stepped from the shadows, herded them into the front seat of their machine, and clambered into the rear.

They were forced from the machine in West Run road and then robbed, they told police.

4 DEAD, 10 HURT IN N. Y. FIRES

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Three men and a woman died as a result of fires yesterday. Ten other persons were injured.

Jack Hunter, 36; his wife, Beatrice, 32, and Louis Vadosi, 30, died in hospitals after being removed from a Bronx apartment fire that started, police said, when fumes from a paint removing fluid were ignited by a gas refrigerator.

Frank Harris, 64, was fatally burned and eight other persons injured when fire swept a West Side rooming house adjacent to Polyclinic Hospital.

Gail Sends Message And Waits for a Dread Event

What Has Gone Before

The Union cavalry generals complained bitterly that they could not surprise their brave and alert enemies, Jeb Stuart and Fitzhugh Lee. Col. Sharpe, head of the Federal Secret Service, told them it was because of the activities of a girl Confederate spy, Antonia Ford, whose ancestral home was at Culpeper.

Clever, bold and resourceful, Miss Ford was a vital link in Gen. Stuart's chain of spies. So, Col. Sharpe sent beautiful Gail Loveless, Operator 13 in the Federal Secret Service, to Culpeper. Operator 13, an accomplished actress and a daring and successful spy, went to Culpeper and actually became the house guest of Antonia Ford. Her instructions were to checkmate the other girl's efforts and, if opportunity presented, to surrender her to the Union Army for punishment.

Gail Loveless, for her part, was certain to be hanged if the Confederates discovered her identity. Following a cavalry review, a party of Confederate officers came to the house for a midday dinner. One of them was Capt. Jack Gailliard. Gail began to tease him about his reputed conquests, but suddenly he threw her into confusion by calmly announcing that he loved her.

Gail, in love with Gailliard, could not warn him of dangers that beset him. He kissed her goodby and rode away on a secret mission with Miss Ford.

Now Go on With the Story

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By the stream among the oak trees an old Negro, bareheaded, sat upon the bank fishing for green bass and bream. When Operator 13 drew near him he peered up at her sideways.

"Howdy, ma'am?" he said smilingly.

"Good afternoon, uncle," replied the girl; "do grapevines grow along this creek?"

"Yaas'm, lady, yaas'm," he chuckled, "right smart o' grapevines 'long o' dis hyah crick."

Operator 13 waited.

"Is yuh did yuh stent, lady?" inquired the old man slyly. He removed the cover of a battered basket and held it up for her to see the mass of glistening fish.

As she leaned over to look she was carelessly rearranging a rebellious strand of hair. The tortoiseshell side comb, entangled, fell from it into the basket; and the old man, reaching for it, slipped it down the throat of a green bass.

Where to Sell

"Ole big-mouf done swaller yuh comb, missy," he whispered, chuckling. "What I gwine to do now, lady?"

"Sell your fish at Hazel River Tavern. The tavern keeper will offer you one dollar and six cents for your fish. Sell them to him and to nobody else."

"Yaas'm." He drew in his line, examined the bait, cast it out again toward a submerged log where a turtle sat.

The turtle slid overboard. Operator 13, also, had disappeared when the old man looked around.

* * *

There was a dance that evening at Blythedale House and a cavalry band for the dancers. But four of the gayest among the guests were missing. For the Culpeper court martial had been postponed; and Stuart and Pelham had gone back by rail. And Jack Gailliard, also, had gone away—nobody asked where—and Antonia Ford, it was said, had been invited for a day or two to Fairfax Courthouse to visit a school friend, and had ridden horseback thither, leaving her valise to be sent on by wagon.

They danced late—the girls at Blythedale—with the lively youngsters from Fitz Lee's regiment. Operator 13 left a proposal half spoken on the stairs and retired to the safety of her chamber.

Uneasy Sleep

She slept badly, listening, even in her restless dreams, for the startling voice she dreaded and expected.

It sounded, late the next morning, outside her locked door—the frightened voice of Elizabeth Shackleford. "Gail! Gail! Col. Mosby rode into Fairfax Courthouse last night and caught a Yankee general in bed and galloped off with him, and the Yankee provost has arrested Antonia Ford at Hazelhurst!"

Gale Loveless got out of bed, trembling, and opened the door to little Miss Shackleford, dressed in riding clothes, deathly pale and all a-tremble from her gallop in the morning chill.

"Will the Yankees hang Antonia?" gasped the girl. "They can't, can they? They can't do such a horrible thing to Antonia!"

The girl from Charleston appeared at the door in her nightdress, fiery with wrath and scorn for "Northern scum." "Maj. Blythe says they have sent Antonia to the Old Capitol prison!" she exclaimed. "Our scouts have just ridden into Culpeper with the news. Oh, I hope Col. Mosby will hang that wretched Yankee general if they do any harm to Antonia."

Rosalie Blythe came to the door, wide-eyed, fearful. "Mr. Shackleford says the Yankees have captured a Confederate spy. It just can't be Jack Gailliard!"

Amid wailing, patriotic execration and feminine lamentation, Gail Loveless managed to bathe and dress, but her limbs and body continued to shake in spite of her, so terrible the fear that was growing in her frightened heart.

And when at length she appeared at the breakfast table, Rosalie Blythe, behind the coffee urn, halted her in tearful triumph and exultation, saying that Jack Gailliard had led Mosby and his 30 rangers into the very heart of a sleeping Yankee camp and had yanked the Yankee general out of his bed from the very middle of his snoring soldiers.

The old veteran, Major Blythe, however, spoke gravely of Jack Gailliard and of Antonia. "Fortunately," he added, "She was within our lines and not in disguise when the Yankee provost arrested her. But they may send the child to a fortress."

A horrified silence—then Gail Loveless, in a faint voice: "Did the Yankees catch any more of our people, sir?"

"I don't know, ma'am. John Mosby got cl'ar away with his prisoner, they say. And I hope Jack Gailliard did, too. Give Miss Gail some hot coffee, Rosalie."

But Operator 13 could not touch her breakfast, and presently, pleading headache, returned to her room to lie on her bed and tremble and remember the man she had seen hanging on a hayrick and that three thousand sabers were coming to Culpeper as soon as Colonel Sharpe had read the message of her comb and had signaled to Stoneman that the ford was clear for his eager horsemen.

* * *

No further news came that day.

It was a dull week at Blythedale that followed. Repeated attempts to communicate with Antonia proved useless. The Federal authorities were in a boiling rage over the kidnaping of a Union general from the middle of his own brigade. Baltimore newspapers gloomily chronicled the arrest of a Miss Antonia Ford and reported that she was now locked up in Old Capitol.

Jeb Stuart sent telegram after telegram inquiring about her. John Pelham, in his letters to Miss Shackleford, always begged news of Miss Ford.

Hidden Forces

Finally, both Stuart and Pelham arrived in Culpeper by train again, the postponed court martial having been called for March 13.

But again, on the twelfth, an old and grizzled Negro had sold another basketful of fish at Hazel River Tavern to a man who paid exactly one dollar and six cents for the lot. The man was John C. Babcock, Federal Secret Service Operator 106. And on Wednesday, March 13, he delivered one more tortoiseshell comb to Colonel Sharpe, chief of the Union Secret Service.

On Thursday, March 14, General Averell, with 3,000 Union cavalry and some horse guns, set out secretly for Kelly's Ford, with orders to destroy the brigade of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee at Culpeper Courthouse.

All that day Fitz Lee's scouts and vedettes, always active north of the river, reported no sign of Yanee activity excepting the classic and frantic clowning of Colonel Wyndham's cavalry rushing around in circles in pursuit of Mosby and his angry prisoner.

In consequence, there was some revival of gayety at Blythedale House; officers of Fitz Lee came laughingly to exalt and to play croquet and drink a cup of tea; the military court was now in session; Miss Shackleford's father received John Pelham in his own house and gave him his consent to the betrothal.

So Jeb Stuart, as usual, had his fill of dancing, singing and story telling with the youngsters and was unusually optimistic concerning Antonia Ford, against whom, so far, nothing serious had been proven by the Federal authorities.

On the fifteenth the court martial at Culpeper ended.

A Battle Near

Operator 13 was sitting on the veranda when Jeb Stuart and John Pelham came riding up for a last cup of tea. Stuart had been teasing Pelham about the boy's wishing to remain at Culpeper over Sunday; and the girls on the veranda began to torment the blushing young man.

Said Stuart, twinkling at them: "I am utterly unable to understand why the gallant Pelham desires to stay here in this peaceful spot when he may be missing a first-rate battle over yonder—" He checked himself, still laughing, and took a telegram from a dusty cavalryman who had just arrived. "Ladies," said Jeb Stuart, gayly, "may I crave your indulgence a moment?"

He read the dispatch at a glance, laughed and turned to John Pelham.

"You are right, as usual, John," he said. "Fitz Lee has word from general headquarters that a heavy body of Yankee horse is moving north of the river."

Maj. Blythe pricked up his veteran ears. "It may mean nothing, general," he remarked; "Who commands them?"

"Averell, it is supposed."

There was a silence. Gail Loveless' dark eyes had been fixed on Stuart and her heart was beating violently.

Stuart said: "Fitz Lee has made all proper preparations. I hope Averell comes to Culpeper." He turned to John Pelham. "Well, then, John, suppose we do remain here over Sunday and see whatever is to be seen. Shall we? Not that I think Averell will really venture to cross the river."

The boy gave him a grateful look.

"I imagine, sir," said Maj. Blythe to Stuart, "that Fitz Lee can take care of Gen. Averell if he rides this way."

Stuart's blue eyes sparkled. "I am sure of it," he replied; "and I propose to remain here on that chance and see for myself how Fitz Lee is going to do it."

That night after supper there was a great deal of patriotic singing by the young ladies. But Stuart had gone to Fitz Lee's headquarters with John Pelham and only Maj. Blythe's quivering old voice furnished the bass relief to the fresh-voiced youthful chorus.

Toward 9 o'clock there resounded a trample of cavalry—details from the Second Virginia riding down to Kelly's Ford. Everybody retired early. But wax candles burned late in the bedroom of Operator 13, where she sat writing on thin sheets of jeweler's tissue with colorless ink, which left no mark.

Agonized Listening

It was not yet daylight on Sunday morning when Operator 13, fully dressed, pulled a chair to her open bedroom window and listened intently for what she knew was coming.

After a long time a bird awoke and sang a fitful note or two. Star after star faded in the gray chill. Suddenly dawn revealed the foggy woods and fields.

From very far away, softened by fog, came a gunshot. And, as though she had been struck by the same bullet, Operator 13 sprang to her feet.

The deadened banging of carbines filled her ears like rolling of muffled drums—lost now in the thunderous racket of horsemen passing the house on a frantic gallop. A clanging alarm of bugles broke out; more horsemen galloping and shouting; lights sparkled in the village.

At the Shackleford house a loud knocking and John Pelham's quiet young voice: "Goodby, Elizabeth! The Yankees have rushed Kelly's Ford and we're off to see the fight!"

The girl, in slippers and cloak, reached the garden gate too late; but Pelham, riding on beside Jeb Stuart, looked back and saw her white arm lifted in farewell. He waved his cap gayly. At that moment the first sunbeam struck Culpeper and Elizabeth Shackleford's eyes, blinding them so that all she could see was her transfigured lover riding straight into the golden flames of morning.

PITT AND COLUMBIA IN LINE FOR ROSE BOWL BID

SPORTS

By JAMES J. LONG

Eastern Title Left Clear.•Harvard to Keep Casey. Tigers Earn Top Ranking. Canadian Hockey Slump. Warburton Amazes Mosse. Giants Won't Fire O'Doul.

NOTRE DAME VICTORY HAS MANY EFFECTS

Rarely are the effects of a single football victory so many and varied as in the case of the surprising triumph which Notre Dame scored over Army Saturday by a great uphill fight in the final quarter. It kept Army from finishing the season with a perfect record for the first time in many years and deprived the Cadets of a trip to the Rose Bowl; it took away much of the sting of Notre Dame's most disastrous campaign; it made Hunk Anderson's job safe, though in spite of reports to the contrary, said job had been safe all along; it upheld the tradition that any year in which the Soldiers beat Yale by a big score is bound to see them lose to the Irish in the end; it provided the biggest and most notable upset of the American season; it probably cured the South Benders of a two-year "We can't win" complex and restored their old confidence of 1934; it showed the folly of placing any trust in previous records or laying heavy betting odds on a gridiron game, and, with Duke also losing and Princeton unavailable, knocked Rose Bowl plans temporarily higher than a kite.

Hunk Anderson

One thing the defeat of Army did clear up was the matter of the Eastern championship. Local football folk will not alter the opinion that at the close of the season Pitt was the best team in the Atlantic division, regardless of records, but there's no getting away from the fact that Princeton, having crushed Yale to complete its first perfect year since 1922, went through the schedule without a defeat or a tie and with 217 points scored against only eight credited to opponents. On the strength of that great record—made against Amherst, Williams, Columbia, W. & L., Brown, Dartmouth, Navy, Rutgers and Yale—the Tigers, while playing no Western teams, can't be denied the right to be ranked at the head of the Eastern parade or a claim on even national honors. And in declining to be considered for the coast invitation, Princeton must be given further credit for living up to a principle.

WARBURTON BEST BACK MOSSE EVER SAW

The strongest boost yet given to Cotton Warburton, Southern California's wild rabbit, comes from none other than your old friend Arthur Mosse, who played for D. C. & A. C. here in the faded past and coached W. U. P. in 1904 and 1905, before the name of the school was changed to University of Pittsburgh. Mosse, who resides in Los Angeles, pronounces Warburton the best back he ever saw. The veteran asks himself, "What is it that makes Warburton so good?"

"He has speed," Mosse says, "but so have lots of others. He is apparently handicaped by lack of weight, but perhaps this is an advantage, as it makes him less easy to tackle. Above all, he has absolute courage. Warburton never slows up unless his interference gets in his way, or he is momentarily impeded by the enemy. Some of the greats of the gridiron have to slow down to dodge a tackler in the open field. Not so Warburton. He can think more quickly than any other man I ever saw on a football field. How did he get away from a Stanford man who had his arms around his waist? He probably doesn't know himself. He just has that divine afflatus or whatever it is that makes him the answer to a coach's prayer. He stands a class above all other evaders of tacklers in an open field."

CASEY TO STAY AND FACES HARD JOB

There is no doubt in the minds of Eastern football men that Eddie Casey will be retained as head coach at Harvard in spite of all the talk about his removal that was heard during the season just ended, though it is expected there will be new blood in his corps of assistants. The victory over Yale is figured to have saved Casey's scalp. At that, not many other coaches will envy Eddie his job in 1934. Of his 32 players of this year, 24 will be lost by graduation, so that he will have to build almost an entire new team next fall for a schedule that is considered the toughest in Harvard history—Bates, Brown, Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Princeton, Army, New Hampshire and Yale.

Eddie Casey

Casey at least can show a better record for his first three seasons than could his predecessor, Arnold Horween, for a similar period. During the Casey regime, the Crimson has won 17 games, lost six and tied one. Horween's first three seasons produced 12 victories, 11 defeats and one tie.

BOOMING HERE, HOCKEY SLIPS IN CANADA

Though the birthplace of hockey, Canada is losing the game to the United States. At least that is the belief expressed by Connie Smythe, manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who says he finds that while the ice sport is booming in this country it suffers from diminishing interest in the Dominion. He attributes the Canadian slump to the folly of the club owners in letting things ride instead of rebuilding.

In Smythe's opinion, Les Canadiens, Ottawa and the Montreal Maroons have been permitted to acquire a coat of rust, leading to waning public interest and box office anemia. Les Canadiens, he says, haven't produced a new player in three years, Ottawa hasn't developed any major league talent in an even longer period, and Ottawa is content to hire outsiders while good material all around the home ice goes unnoticed.

What is needed, Smythe thinks, is more fostering and promoting of amateur hockey. Club owners can't afford to sit back and expect new talent to fly through the windows. Only Toronto has been active. That club employs five scouts, supervises the development of Ontario youngsters and now has more players within call than it will be able to use in a long time.

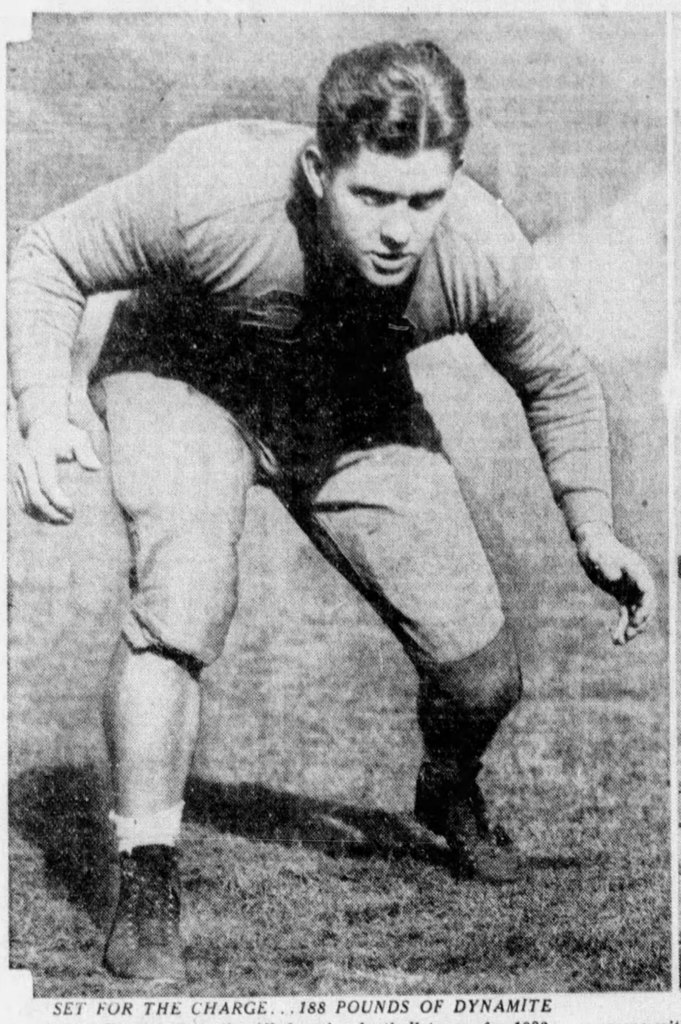
GIANTS DENY ASKING WAIVERS ON O'DOUL

Rumor has named Lefty O'Doul as one of the veteran major league baseball players on the way out of the big show, or at least slated to be transferred to another club. It was said that the Giants had asked waivers on O'Doul, that no other club in the majors had claimed him, and that if no chance offered to make a deal for him, the senior league's batting champion of 1929 and 1932 would be dropped.

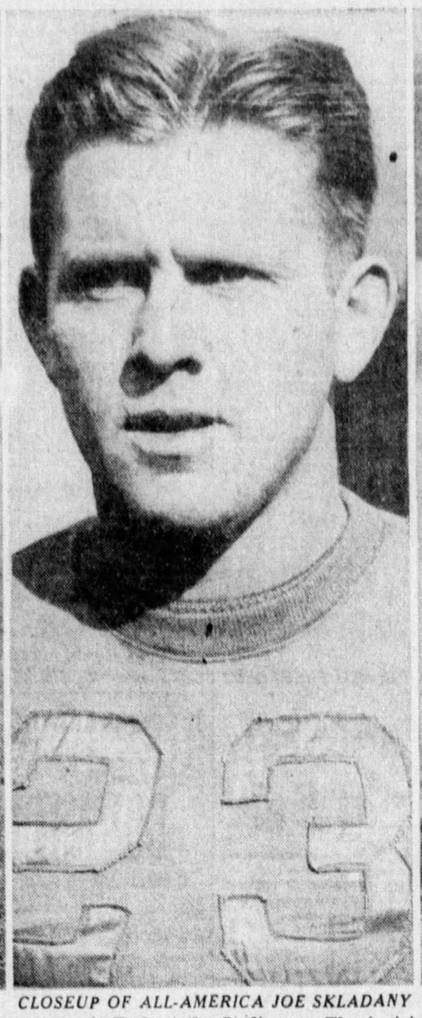
Lefty O'Doul

Now comes a vigorous denial from Giant headquarters. Officials of the New York club declare they never asked waivers on O'Doul, and predict Bill Terry will have plenty of use for Lefty's heavy bat next year. It is pointed out that the veteran rendered valuable aid when the Giants were driving hard to hold first place in the National League race, and then helped to win the world series with his pinch hitting. Terry is expected to have practically the same regulars in harness during spring training who finished the world series against the Senators. The probability that the National League will have a livelier ball in play in 1934, through an agreement with the American League for the adoption of a compromise uniform sphere, is doped as certain to make O'Doul a more valuable hitter than he was last season.

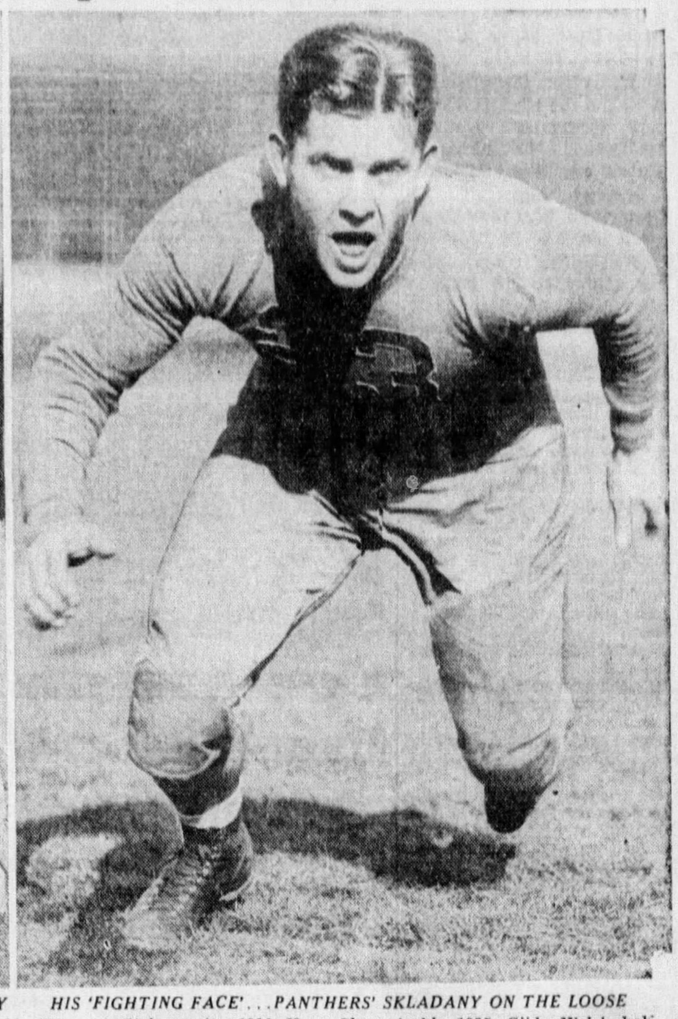
Pitt's Thirteenth All-American—Meet Joseph Skladany, End



SET FOR THE CHARGE...188 POUNDS OF DYNAMITE



CLOSEUP OF ALL-AMERICA JOE SKLADANY



HIS 'FIGHTING FACE'...PANTHERS' SKLADANY ON THE LOOSE

Generally picked on the All-America football teams for 1933, all indications are that the highest individual honors in the college sport will go to Joseph Skladany, of Larksville, Pa., chunky end of the University of Pittsburgh Panthers, one of the best terminal men ever seen in these parts, who finished his college career in the game with Carnegie Tech at the Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. If named for the All-America Board's team, which will be announced shortly, Skladany will be the thirteenth Pitt star to make the top grade. Others were: Bob Peck, center, 1915-16; Tom Davies, halfback, 1918; Leonard Hilty, tackle, 1918; Herb Stein, center, 1920; Horse Chase, tackle, 1925; Gibby Welch, halfback, 1927; Joe Donchess, end, 1928-29; Ray Montgomery, guard, 1929; Mike Getto, tackle, 1928; Jess Quatse, tackle, 1931; Ralph Daugherty, center, 1931, and Warren Heller, halfback, 1932. An impressive array. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

MORGAN SOCCER TEAM DOWNS HEIDELBERG

By TOM BIRKS

The Morgan eleven, of the Keystone League, and Cecil will clash next Sunday afternoon in the final qualifying round of the national challenge cup competition. After two unsuccessful tries, Morgan yesterday defeated Heidelberg, 1 to 0, at Greenlee Field in a terrific battle. In two previous clashes the elevens played to deadlocks, tying 1-1 at Morgan and 0-0 at Heidelberg.

The Miller's Run booters had to fight all the way to win yesterday. The game's lone goal was scored in the second half. Led by Gordon Hart, Morgan checked a promising Heidelberg rally and then transferred the action in front of the Green and Gold goal.

MITCHELL SCORES

Three of the Morgan forwards swept in close and Bobish and Kuten took desperate methods to stop the onslaught. While two of the Morgan attackers had their feet swept away, Felix Mitchell came up on the outside of the play and flashed the ball into the far corner of the net.

On the run of play Heidelberg did not deserve to be trailing, but Stanley Kuten wasted many efforts on the part of his mates with long shots that never had a chance to score.

Bobish and Kuten defended valiantly as did Villani and Mangan, while Dresmich, the Morgan goalkeeper, was brilliant in the extreme.

Curry, the defending champion of the Keystone League, lost valuable ground when Cecil held the Black and White to a 1-1 tie at South Park. Moon Run helped its chances by stopping Gallatin by a 4-to-2 score.

CORAOPOLIS TIED

There was a big upset in the Panhandle League when the Fink A. C. held Coraopolis to a 1-1 tie, the first point that Coraopolis has dropped in the league this season. The Morgan Juniors fought their way into the league race by beating Leasdale, 5 to 1.

All of yesterday's games were played in a heavy downpour of rain, but the attendence at most of the contests was excellent. The lineups:

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

Would you like an Andy Kerr story?

Most of you know Andy. He taught in the classrooms of old Central High School before he tutored in sports at Pitt. Handy Andy became famous as Pop Warner's assistant at Stanford and then came back over the Rockies to coach football in the East. Andy was a real teacher on scholastics, though he loved football so much it was often hard for him to keep his mind off the game.

Charles (Chuck) Dashbach, one of Andy's old pupils more than 15 years back, listened to a radio account of Colgate's victory over Brown on Thanksgiving Day. Powerful in physique and with legs of a sprinter inherited from his dad, Joseph Dashbach, who as one of the sprinting champs of his day, Chuck loved baseball. The high schools of the city played up the diamond sport at that time. Chuck had big league ambitions at the time, but after his catchability took him as far as the American Association he gave up the game for a business calling.

Andy coached the high school team when not engaged in the classrcoms. One day Chuck was straining and perspiring over a tough problem in algebra when he heard a voice behind him:

"You're pretty good in algebra, young man, but why don't you come out for football?"

When the Pitt players pick their all-America writers' team, Damon Runyon won't even get honorable mention. Damon is said to have nominated Columbia as the best eleven in the East. One Pitt booster says the Panthers could lick Columbia on Monday, Princeton on Tuesday, the Army, Wednesday, and then play doubleheaders with other standout clubs of the East for the remainder of the week without losing a decision.

A certain young University of Pittsburgh dentist (name deleted by the advertising dept.) is synchronizing radio football with extracting and getting good results. The radio was near the patient's ear Saturday as Notre Dame came from behind against Army. As the D. D. yanked the molar, the Ramblers tried for the extra point on top of their first touchdown. Instead of inquiring about the missing tooth, the victim wondered if the kick was good.

A few appropriate songs—

Carl Hubbell—"All By Myself."

Chuck Klein, (dedicated to the Phils' rightfield fence)—"That's How I Need You."

Mayor-elect McNair—"I'm Sorry I Made You Cry."

Blondy Ryan—"After the Ball."

Mr. Insull—"My Little Gray Home in the West."

Hunk Anderson—"Crossing the Bar." (D'ye get it?)

Senator Borah—"Take Back Your Gold."

Red Lucas—"You Made Me What I Am Today."

Goodman Beaten By Denny Shute

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Playing the same brand of steady golf that won the British Open crown for him last summer, Denny Shute, lanky Philadelphia pro, yesterday scored a 2-up victory over Johnny Goodman, Omaha amateur and holder of the American Open title, in a 72-hole charity exhibition match billed as a mysthical "world" championship affair.

Immediately upon completion of the match, Gene Sarazen, P. G. A. champion and until recently holder of both the American and British Open titles, announced he would challenge Shute to a 72-hole battle.

ITALIANS VICTORS

FLORENCE, Italy, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Italy yesterday defeated Switzerland in an international soccer football match, 5-2.

REED IS THIRD TO TAKE TWO CROWNS

By JULIUS LEVIN.

A newcomer has joined the ranks of the select few who have coached championship teams in the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League's football and basketball races.

Johnny Reed, popular mentor at Scott High School, North Braddock, whose football team carried off the class A championship of the W. P. I. A. L. during the past season, now takes his place alongside of Phil Bridenbaugh, of New Castle, and Harry M. Springer, of Allegheny, as the only coaches to win both the basketball and football titles in that league.

Springer was the first to attain this goal. He won the W. P. I. A. L. basketball championship for Bellevue in 1920 with a lineup that included Harry (Red) Eaton, Fleming, Bruckman, Schuster and Parker. Two years later, having shifted his allegiance to Wilkinsburg, Springer surprised the scholastic world by taking both the basketball and football championships in succession.

WASHINGTON BEATEN

Wilkinsburg's football team defeated Washington, then under the coaching of Leroy P. (Hank) Day, in a post-season game at Forbes Field, 7 to 6, to win the crown. A forward pass from Burrell Coleman to Blair (Tuffy) McMillan, now coach at Monongahela, and a perfect placement goal by Tiny Duvall, midget end, gave Wilkinsburg the points needed for victory.

Wilkinsburg followed this triumph by carrying off the basketball crown in the final battle of the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations in the Trees gymnasium, and strange as it may seem, this same Tiny Duvall scored the winning points when he shot a field goal the length of the floor to give the Holy City quintet a one-point triumph.

WINNER AT ALLEGHENY

Springer did not confine his championship activities to Bellevue and Wilkinsburg, continuing his success at Allegheny, where his basketball team of two years ago won the Section II crown, only to lose to Schenley in the city playoff in the Stadium pavilion. Arthur Hyatt, brother of Charley, played an important part in that setback.

Bridenbaugh, New Castle's successful coach, has figured in the class AA football championship for two successive seasons. Last season New Castle was involved in a three-way deadlock with Jeannette and McKeesport, and this season was awarded sole possession of the trophy when Greensburg, also undefeated, declined to go through with a post-season game.

New Castle, playing some of the strongest teams in the tristate district, boasts a two-year record that is free of defeat.

Bridenbaugh has had quite a number of teams entered in the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations for the basketball championship, but only in 1927 was his Scarlet Hurricane successful in carrying off the title. His quintet broke a two-year reign held by Uniontown, which included in its lineup at that time, the incomparable Charley Hyatt.

FORMER STATE CHAMP

It was just three years ago that Johnny Reed turned out a basketball team at Scott High School which was hailed as one of the greatest ever to appear on a local floor. Scott not only won its sectional crown and the W. P. I. A. L. championship, but went on to take the state championship, the last time a Western Pennsylvania team accomplished this feat. Only three other district quintets have held the state title, McKeesport winning in 1921, Homestead in 1924 and Uniontown in 1925.

New Castle was the only school to repeat in the football race. Scott displaced Ambridge as class A champion, Mt. Pleasant succeeded Springdale and Glassport as class B titleholder by swamping East Pittsburgh last Saturday at Greensburg and California replaced Donora as Monongahela Big Five champion. Ambridge, while it lost the class A title, retained its Beaver Valley laurels.

Princeton Lone Major Eleven Undefeated

Associated Press.

The list of undefeated and untied football teams had shrunk to seven today, with Princeton the only major school in the group.

Of the surviving teams with perfect records, six have completed their regular schedules. Emory and Henry, of Virginia, will wind up against Richmond Saturday. The list follows:

	W.	P.	O.P.
Emory & Henry (Va.)	10	206	6
Bluefield College (Va.)	9	291	19
Murray (Ky.) Teachers	9	255	25
Princeton	9	217	8
Kirksville (Mo.) Teachers	9	212	26
Depauw (Ind.) University	7	136	0
St. Cloud (Minn.) Teachers	7	105	19

DUKES' FOEMEN NOT CERTAIN

The Dukes are scheduled to resume practice today for their two post-season games, the one with the University of Miami on New Year's Day and the other in St. Louis next Sunday.

The latter game, when scheduled, was to have been against either St. Louis University or Washington U., depending on which one wound up on top in the game Thanksgivinng. St. Louis won, but last night, Father Maxwell, the St. Louis priest, head of the Boys' Club, the organization sponsoring the game, announced that the Dukes would play a team of senior footballers from St. Louis University, Washington U. and Missouri.

Well, Coach Elmer Layden, of the Dukes, is due back in town from New York today and he may have plenty to say about such a plan. He vetoed Father Maxwell's plan for such a game in the first place, and there is no reason why he should go for it now. Father Callahan, president of Duquesne, said he'd placed the matter entirely in Layden's hands. Father Maxwell said that he'd secured Father Callahan's permission for the all-star game. It looks like a misunderstanding all the way around.

A report yesterday was to the effect that only the Duquesne seniors would take part in the game, and that recent graduates of the school, such Kass Kovalcheck, Lou Skender, Larry Sullivan, Babe Kelleher, Sammy Pratt, Jim O'Donnell and others would fill in. In that event, it will be merely an all-star game and not a collegiate affair.

Walker Gets Win Over Kid Azteca

NAVY WINS TITLE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The West Coast Navy retained the President's Cup, emblematic of the national service football championship, with a 14-to-7 victory over the San Diego Marines here yesterday. The trophy was first presented by the late Calvin Coolidge in 1924.

ARMY KNOCKED FROM RATING BY IRISH

By JESS CARVER

One more football campaign is wrapped up and ready for the shelf. Barring one or two post-season games, including the classic Rose Bowl battle at Pasadena and the infant Festival of Palms affair at Miami, Fla., the 1933 season has been completed.

It has been a swell season, particularly here in Pittsburgh. All things considered, each of our trio of varsities enjoyed fine records. Tech didn't win as many games as the Panthers and Dukes, but it was not expected to do near as well as it did.

DUKES, PITT BEST

The Dukes got by everything in its way but the Pitt Panther and the Panther clawed every foe it took seriously. Had the Golden Cat not fooled with Minnesota's Gopher, all this fuss over the East-of-the-Rockies Rose Bowl selection that is on today would not be.

Columbia already has denied getting the bid. A report from Palo Alto said that the field had been narrowed to Columbia, Princeton and Pitt. Princeton already has refused the invitation.

There is just a fair chance that Pitt will get another Rose Bowl invitation. Stanford will make known its choice sometime today and maybe the Panthers will get the call. If they do, the chances are they'll accept. There is no good reason why they should not, for against Stanford, they'd stand a good chance to win and make up for the three defeats they have suffered in previous Rose Tourney appearances.

Chancellor Bowman said last night that he didn't think his institution stood much of a chance and that the matter of accepting or turning down the bid would be in the hands of the athletic council. Charles Wettach, the presiding officer of that body, and John Weber, the business manager of the university, said it would be up to the players, and that there would hardly be any change in the policy toward Rose Tourney games that has been in effect in the past.

UP TO STANFORD

But it is up to Stanford entirely. If the Indians went to line up the strongest possible representative from the East, they know, and the East knows, that the Pitt laddies are the candy kids. Pitt made a lot of friends, even though it was beaten by Southern Cal last New Year's and the Panthers always have been a fine drawing card on the coast, so if you pick up a later edition of this newspaper and read where the local boys have been given the call, don't be shocked.

It remained for Notre Dame, the team that kept the football pot boiling all fall, to provide a smashing climax to a season jammed with anti-climaxes by knocking off the Army in New York on Saturday.

There never was any call for the Cadets to rule as strong favorites over the Irish as they did prior to Saturday's game. The Cadets played a fair schedule, but made only one or two impressive showings, while the Irish, save in the games with Pitt and Southern Cal, showed that all they needed was a break or two and more cohesion to pile up a flock of touchdowns. They out-rushed every opponent on the card save the Panthers and Trojans.

DUKE DEFEATED

The defeat knocked the Army out of the Rose Bowl picture, just when a strong movement was under way to snip a mile or so of red tape and send the Sojers westward. It hardly is likely that any

SKLADANY PLACED ON I. N. S. ALL-AMERICA

DUQUESNE, PITT AND TECH AGES ALTERNATES

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Owing to certain technical difficulties, it has not been possible for the International News Service to announce its official 1933 all-America football team until today. That is, it was unable to decide exactly what happened during the season until the season actually ended, which it more or less formally did on Saturday with at least four key-games being played.

Under the circumstances, we feel that it is the best of all possible teams. It was picked last night, not last week. The official team follows:

Position.	Player.	College.
End	Skladany	Pittsburgh
Tackle	Wistert	Michigan
Guard	Stevens	Southern California
Center	Bernard	Michigan
Guard	Corbus	Stanford
Tackle	Ceppi	Princeton
End	Matal	Columbia
Quarterback	Warburton	So. California
Halfback	Feathers	Tennessee
Halfback	Lund	Minnesota
Fullback	Sauer	Nebraska

First Flight Alternates:

Ends — Larson, Minnesota; Petoskey, Michigan; F. Canfinus, St. Mary's; Geisler, Centenary; Borden, Fordham; Smith, Washington; Batchelor, Georgia; Devore, Notre Dame.

Tackles—Crawford, Duke; Buss, Michigan State; Lane, Princeton; Jorgenson, St. Mary's; Schwammel, Oregon State; O'Brien, Nebraska; Krause, Notre Dame; Gentry, Oklahoma; Kopans, Harvard; Rucker, Arkansas; Harvey, Holy Cross.

Quarterbacks — Montgomery, Columbia; Laws, Iowa; Roberts, Tulane; Smith, Centenary; Masterson, Nebraska, Soleau; Colgate; Fay, Michigan.

Halfbacks—Franklin, Oregon State; Purvis, Purdue; Howell, Alabama; Wilson, St. Mary's; Everhardus, Michigan; Sebastian, Pittsburgh; Nott, Detroit; Buckler, Army; Kabealo, Ohio State; Laforge, Arkansas; Roberts, Tulane; Randour, Villanova; Ferrara, Cornell.

BERNARD STANDOUT

It is neither necessary nor expedient to go into the "honorable mention" business, since to do so is to rapidly reach a limit by which far too many names are excluded. The list of first-flight substitutes doubtless could be expanded to name some names that are equally deserving of consideration. But I take it that those mentioned will suffice, at least, it seemed as though they did during the season.

As for the official team, it may have a few surprises, but these need no apology. Bernard, at center, and Warburton, at quarterback, are practically automatic, there being no contest on these choices. No Army man made the team because, in my opinion, no Army man should.

Buckler didn't quite belong before the Notre Dame disaster of Saturday. After it, he had no chance. Thrice he let pass-receivers get down field on defense, once for a long run. He was drawn out of position on an end-zone pass, the receiver dropping the ball while standing all alone. He was outpunted badly in both the Navy and Notre Dame games and he remained, all told, just a hard-plugging runner without real deception or guile.

SKLADANY PRAISED

In spite of what had been said about him, Crawford, of Duke, didn't seem to be quite the tackle that Wistert, of Michigan, was all year. As for Ceppi, of Princeton, he was more than consistently good and, on Saturday, he was almost great.

In the same way, Stevens came along in the late games to take the play away from Rosenberg, his U. S. C. team mate, and even Corbus, by all accounts. Skladany, at end, was one of the very best last year. He's better now. That describes Beattie Feathers, of Tennessee, the "perfect halfback." Lund, of Minnesota, hasn't the latter's deception, but his drive rates him in there above a horde of candidates.

The least that can be said of Sauer is that he was the best man on what turned out to be one of the great ball teams of the year. Pitt stopped him, but nobody else could.

RANGERS SCORE EASY WIN

The attempt of the Christy Park gridders to snap the long victory string of the Rox Rangers failed by a margin of exactly 40 points yesterday as the Rangers, playing in fine form, turned in a 40-0 triumph.

The Rangers tallied in every period, Antonnelli accounting for three touchdowns, Tkach two and Karkoski one.

The Broadway Mounts recovered from their defeat on Thanksgiving Day and walloped the Millvale Amici, 18 to 0, in a Conference battle. Bruner, Welch and Mohr scored the Mounts' touchdowns.

In other battles yesterday, the St. Rosalia Preps nosed out Sto-Rox, 12 to 6, a forward pass, Sludden to Webb, in the last period, accounting for the winning score; the Ambassadors downed Allison Park, 12 to 8; Twenty-third Ward Traders won over the Burton Scholastics, 13 to 0; Scott Morgans nosed out the Tarentum Firemen, 7 to 6; Williams A. C. beat the Cascades, of New Castle, 8 to 0; Oakland Ramblers defeated the Lewis A. C., 12 to 6; Soho Oakleafs took over the J. J. Doyles, 7 to 6; McChesneytown and Monessen tied, 0-0. The line-up of the Rangers' game:

Rox Rangers—40		Christy Park—0.
Zyroll	L.E.	Mckee
Kolinsky	L.T.	Dietrich
Milovich	L.G.	Kynar
Pavkovich	C.	Tulas
Spisak	R.G.	Poppolo

Loffano	R.E.	Eisenberg
Peru	Q.B.	Knister
Karkoski	L.H.	Mikheltar
Rodgers	R.H.	Dougherty
Antonnelli	F.B.	Strohm
Rangers	15 13 6 6—40

Substitutes: Rangers—Tkach, Skaylo. Touchdowns—Antonnelli 3, Tkach 2, Karkoski. Goals from touchdown—Rodgers (placement); Mamels (pass from Skaylo).

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY: THE CRIME OF H2O—Until Sultan Hamid II, of Turkey, was deposed in 1908, the censorship on all written matter was incredibly strict. The word "dynamo" was taboo, because it resembled "dynamite" too closely. The formula H2O baffled the ignorant censor until somebody suggested that it might read "Hamid II is a zero." It was then forbidden as constituting the crime of "less majeste." 158 HOURS OF GOLF—Edward A. Ferguson, who is a well-known actor during the theatrical season and evidently has marvelous endurance, has chosen marathon golf as his extra-seasonal hobby. After establishing a record of 60 hours of golf in August, 1928, he bettered it in 1932 by playing for 158 hours, at the end of which a swelling of his hands forced him to stop. The average was slightly over 86 for each 18 holes. The night play was accomplished with the aid of a flashlight and a common barn lantern, carried by his caddie. He also uses a luminous ball in the darkness.

PITT MAY GET BOWL BID

strenuous efforts will be made now toward getting the Cadets to the Rose Bowl.

Wallace Wade saw a dream dancing — dancing away—Saturday as he sat on the sidelines and watched his Duke University gridiron creation take a smacking from Georgia Tech's aroused engineers. The Engineers campaigned this fall much after the fashion of Notre Dame, losing tough ones by a point or two and seldom getting even a miser's share of breaks. But they got 'em against Duke, and what is more, had the stuff to stand off the Carolinans when it looked like the latter were about to go places and do things.

U. S. C. TAKES GEORGIA

Georgia, conqueror of Yale, New York U. and several other major opponents, found storming the walls of Troy another proposition entirely and was served a 31-0 shellacking by U. S. C. Villanova wound up its campaign by taking Rutgers; Kansas, playing its second game in three days, nosed out George Washington, 7-0, and Boston College bumped off Holy Cross, 13 to 9.

Anyway, everyone is grabbing for a seat or a hold on the Notre Dame band wagon now, and it looks like the entire football world is joining in sending Coach Hunk Anderson a telegram, something on this order:

"Come home. All is forgiven."

PITT COACH TO SPEAK

MIDLAND, Pa., Dec. 4.—Dr. John Bain Sutherland, Pitt football coach, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet to be given the Midland High School football squad a week from Thursday.

SPORT VIGNETTES

It seems the end of the season came too soon for Notre Dame. . . . The boys were just getting started when the other teams were through. . . . Can they take it? . . . That Army thriller goes down as the classic of the year, with the Irish wrapping up their season in a knockout wallop in the last 15 minutes of play to enable Coach Anderson to get "hunk" for a lot of things.

Randour and Weisenbaugh star for Villanova and Sebastian for the Army in the closing games . . . The first two are brothers of Pitt stars and the last named is no relative of our one and only Mike . . . Too bad no one has thought of picking an all-America team this fall. . . . The end of the campaign finds Princeton standing alone in the East, with Army and Duke bowing in their final games . . . And Bill Alexander, of Georgia Tech, standing with Hunk Anderson among the most-kicked-about coaches of the land, joining the latter in a grand finale with that defeat of Duke.

It was said in this column yesterday that Jim Buchanan, the boxing manager, is in Mercy Hospital . . . He is in the West Penn Hospital . . . What we need is a New Deal which will give us less boxing in wrestling and less wrestling in boxing . . . And less defensive and more offensive stress in football . . . When Hurry-Up Yost was the great coach at Michigan his last word of advice to his quarterback always was: "When in doubt, PUNT."

Lew Raymond, the matchmaker, may be one of our most corpulent citizens, but no one ever has accused him of parking fat above his ears . . . He is quick to take a hint and to respond to the reactions of the cash customers and the authorities . . . After reading the statement of Dr. W. D. McClelland, our newly restored boxing commissioner, in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph anent the wrestling situation, following the clownish bouts staged at the Arena on Friday night, Raymond today announced he will go to New York tomorrow for a showdown with Jack Curley, who supplies the wrestlers for the Arena shows . . . He will tell Curley the grapplers sent here will have to cut out the acting and really wrestle or the doors will be closed to wrestling and the club will go back to boxing exclusively . . . Another change worked out by Raymond calls for only one show a week, on Friday nights, instead of two shows a week, boxing on Tuesdays and wrestling on Fridays.

The new program will offer two boxing and two wrestling shows a month, on alternate weeks . . . Next Friday's mat show has been called off pending the new arrangements with Curley, and the first boxing show will present Young Terry against Jimmy Smith, Friday night of next week . . . Last Friday night's mat program drew a gross gate of $1,799, which is very good for these times, and much better than the average boxing take . . . Raymond left this morning for Cleveland, where he will attend the all-star Christmas fund show tonight, in one of the bouts of which Ted Yarosz boxes Paul Pirrone.

New slogan of Notre Dame: "Don't do as I say; do as Carideo." . . . Pretty soft for those sports writers . . . Now that the football season is over they can go back to their tiddlewinks and parchesi games . . . Maybe they'll not be over their heads with them.—HARRY KECK.

Wrestler Brown Star in Rodeo

Orville Brown, who takes on Milo Steinborn, the German strong man, in one of the four preliminary bouts on the Olympia Athletic Club's show at Motor Square Garden Wednesday night, gave up wrestling steers to wrestle wrestlers in the professional ring.

Brown, who scales around 220 pounds, used to earn his three squares a day bulldogging steers with rodeos. He still keeps his hand in at that game, having won second honors in the rodeo held a few weeks ago in Madison Square Garden, New York.

TRI-STATE LOOP CONFAB TODAY

Some fireworks are expected at the regular semi-annual gathering of the Tri-State Conference at the Fort Pitt Hotel this afternoon. Geneva, Waynesburg, Thiel, Bethany, Grove City and Westminster will be represented at the confab.

The action of several institutions in dropping old foes from 1934 football schedules has caused somewhat of a furore in Conference ranks and this afternoon the whys and wherefores are to be learned.

Waynesburg is due to complain against being dropped from both the Grove City and Thiel schedules for next fall. Geneva is peeved because Grove City did not grant the Covenanters a place in the '34 program. Waynesburg, by being off both the Grover and Luther cards, becomes ineligible for the Conference title next year, and a team, to qualify for the championship, must meet four member rivals.

The trouble between Geneva and Grove City is said to have been over the interpretation of the athletic scholarship agreement and some trouble that developed over a soccer game that Geneva called off after the Grove City team had arrived on the scene of battle, which happened to be at Beaver Falls. The Grovers claimed that Geneva could have let them know that the game was off earlier in the day and saved them the expense and trouble of making the trip from Grove City.

A rules interpretation session was held, with the coaches and officials alike explaining and attempting to clarify the edicts.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The Eastern Division championship of the National Professional Football League belongs to the New York Giants. The Giants clinched the honor and the right to meet the Chicago Bears for the league gonfalon by beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 27 to 3, with a vicious second-half attack at the Polo Grounds yesterday.

Stopped cold in the first half, the Giants suddenly opened up a furious passing and running attack, pushed over four touchdowns and closed their home season with a clean slate of seven victories on their own field.

MOSE KICKS GOAL

The Pirates got off to a flying start as Mose Kelsch, veteran sandlot player, booted a field goal from the 14-yard line in the second period. The Giants came back with a drive that carried to the visitors' one-yard stripe where they were stopped on third down as the half ended.

The New Yorkers definitely came to life at the start of the third period and quickly passed their way to a touchdown. Ken Strong, former New York University ace, flipped the ball 20 yards to Max Krause who caught it over the goal line. Strong added the extra point.

The Pirates were buried under three more touchdowns in the fourth period. The first came on a 25-yard pass from Harry Newman, former Michigan quarterback, to Red Badgro, who caught the ball in the end zone.

PIRATE PASSES FAIL

The next two were the direct results of a despairing passing attack by the Pirates. Deep in their own territory, the Pirates attempted to overcome the Giants' lead with a surprise aerial barrage, but Hank Reese intercepted one toss on the Pirate 14 and on the next play Newman tossed a lateral to Richards who raced to a score.

Later Newman intercepted another Pirate pass and ran to Pittsburgh's 38. Clancy picked up 16 yards in two smashes and Richards then bounded through for the score. The lineup:

GIANTS—27.		PIRATES—3.

BEARS TO MEET GIANTS

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Chicago's Bears will defend their National Professional Football League title against the New York Giants in the circuit's first title playoff game. Joe Carr, president of the league, said he would announce the date and place of the playoff tomorrow or Wednesday.

Portsmouth, making its final effort to stop the Bears, battled the defending champions to a 7-all tie at half time, but could not withstand the pace and went down, 17 to 7.

Green Bay trimmed Philadelphia, 10 to 1, on a field goal by Clark Hinkle and some fine passing by Arnold Herber. Hinkle scored in the second period, and in the final Herbed tossed to Hinkle to put the ball on the eight-yard line, from where Hinkle bucked it over. Herber threw 35 passes and completed 14 for a total of 198 yards during the game.

A 98-yard dash by Gil Le Febvre was the high spot of a 10-to-0 victory for Cincinnati over Brooklyn. Le Febvre took Shipwreck Kelly's punt on his own two-yard line, instead of letting the ball roll over the goal line for a touchback, and with excellent blocking, scrambled through the whole Dodger lineup to score.

Holt and Green In Return Go In Moose Ring

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

There are certain set rules for boxing matchmakers who would play it safe in making up their cards.

Don't match two Jewish boxers, two Italian boxers, two Negroes; in other words, don't risk brotherly love when the fans want action.

Billy Holt

Every once in a while some intrepid soul comes along and defies the traditions of the sport, as Bus Vogel did when he paired off Anson Green and Billy Holt recently. They are Negro middleweight rivals.

FIRST BOUT A WOW

It was a 10-round bout and a wow. You would have thought they were restaging the World War. At the finish, Holt was declared the victor, although the general sentiment seemed to be in favor of Green. There was a hue and cry for a return bout, and so tonight they're meeting again in the main bout of 10 rounds in the same ring, that of the Moose Temple, in Penn avenue, downtown.

If tonight's melee is anything like the first battle between the pair, it will shatter another tradition. Rematches of great battles seldom are as good as the first versions, although, of course, there are exceptions to prove the rule. If tonight's go is only nalf as good as the first between Holt and Green it still will be highly satisfactory. On this basis, interest in the bout is intense and the Moose should hold its largest crowd of the season.

Three six-round bouts make up the preliminary bill. Johnny Durso and Johnny Birek, lightweights, box the semi-final. Jack Dalcherone and Kid Barry, middleweights, are in a return bout in the second engagement and Al Farone and Georgie Smith open the show at 8:30.

YAROSZ BOXES PIRRONE

Ted Yarosz, Monaca middleweight, who has not been in action since he dropped a disputed decision to Young Terry, of Trenton, N. J., at Newark, N. J., several weeks ago, returns to action tonight against Paul Pirrone, veteran, in one of four feature 10-round bouts headlining an all-star card for a Christmas fund in Cleveland's Public Hall. Tony Canzoneri meets Cecil Payne, Kid Chocolate boxes Frankie Wallace and Lew Feldman takes on Jimmy Vaughan, the show pitting four Cleveland favorites against top-notchers. The Alabama Kid, Negro southpaw middleweight, of Dover, O., engages Norman Conrad, of New Hampshire, in a six-rounder and there will be a wrestling bout opener.

The trials in the Allegheny County eliminations of the Western Pennsylvania amateur championship tournament get under way tonight in the Etna Elks Club, where the bouts in the classes from flyweight to lightweight, inclusive, will be disposed of tonight, with the heavier classes down for disposition at the Palisades Rink, McKeesport.

STANFORD MAY MAKE KNOWN FOE TODAY

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Al Masters, graduate manager of Stanford University, arrived here today with a denial that any Rose Bowl opponent from the East or Middle-West had been selected. Masters said:

"I hope to make an announcement some time today. I may not be able to do so, but I hope it will be possible. In regard to stories that Columbia had been invited, my only comment is 'there is nothing to say.'"

SEVERAL IN LINE

It was presumed he had been handling the negotiations there for Stanford. This would mean any one of several elevens, including Army, defeated Saturday by Notre Dame; Princeton, which Stanford followers hoped might be ready to change its mind and accept after all, or possibly Columbia, beaten only by Princeton.

It was reported last night Columbia would furnish Stanford's opposition. This could not be confirmed, and later Dr. Howard S. Elliott, Columbia athletic director, denied Columbia had been invited. This, however, was not regarded as eliminating Columbia as a possibility.

PITT CONSIDERED

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Selection of an eastern team to meet Stanford University in the Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena, New Year's Day, for the mythical national championship, was believed here by observers to have narrowed down to a choice between Pittsburgh, Princeton and Columbia universities.

Pitler to Pilot Scranton in 1934

SCRANTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Jake Pitler, former manager of the Elmira and Hazleton clubs in the New York-Pennsylvania League, and pilot of the Springfield team in the Mid-Atlantic circuit last season, has signed a contract to lead the Scranton Miners during the 1934 pennant race.

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

EFFECT OF GOLD PLAN WATCHED BY PRESIDENT

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Business goes serenely along, undeterred by the propaganda of impending collapse spread by the critics of the President's monetary policy.

Mr. Rukeyser

Perhaps the "sound money" extremists would liken current business to the man who fell from the fortieth floor of the Woolworth Building, and comforted himself as he past the thirty-eighth floor with the thought:

"Well, I'm all right so far."

But as a matter of fact, the objective observer recognizes that President Roosevelt is cognizant of the great dangers of uncontrolled inflation, and is determined to use all his prestige to prevent it.

BROAD EXPERIMENT

In taking a middle course of supplying moderate stimulants, he is carrying on a broad experiment to determine the effect of monetary policy on trade. Some of his spokesmen believe that the gold policy was helpful in checking the declining tendencies in general business last month, after the setback in industrial production from mid-July through October.

Business, still at an unsatisfactory subnormal level, shows genuine stability on this plane. Those who hold the view that a balanced economy is necessary think that the present volume of trade is about in line with current farm purchasing power.

They maintain that a further increase in the relative prices of farm products is necessary to enliven general business and create a free circulation of goods and services among the vast social groups on a higher level.

MANY-SIDED FIGHT

In popular discussions, there is a tendency to overlook the many-sidedness of the administration's recovery program. In July, August and September, NRA was ballyhooed to the exclusion of other important policies and in recent weeks outside attention has been focussed primarily on the monetary experiment.

But official spokesmen for the administration point out that it is not relying on the gold experiment alone, but is attacking the depression on many fronts, including NRA, the farm program, direct dealing with debt and the refinancing of mortgages, public works and re-employment activities.

It can be definitely set down now that, when, as and if genuine recovery comes, the economic doctors will never agree that the President's specifics were responsible. It will long be argued that recovery came in response to world-wide tendencies, in spite of political interferences.

But if recovery is fully realized, Mr. Roosevelt will not have to worry too much about his theoretical detractors. The people will acclaim the President, just as Mr. Coolidge was credited with the prosperity which occurred while he held office.

BUS, TROLLEY TRAFFIC UP

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Increased passenger traffic for 75 per cent of the electric railway and city bus lines in the United States for October, was reported by the American Transit Association.

For the first time since 1929, the industry's revenue passenger traffic in a current month exceeded in October that of the corresponding month in the previous year.

Reports from 190 lines, embracing about three-fourths of the mileage in the country, showed an increase in passengers of three-tenths per cent—698,448,383 for October, 1933, against 696,284,966 for the same month a year ago.

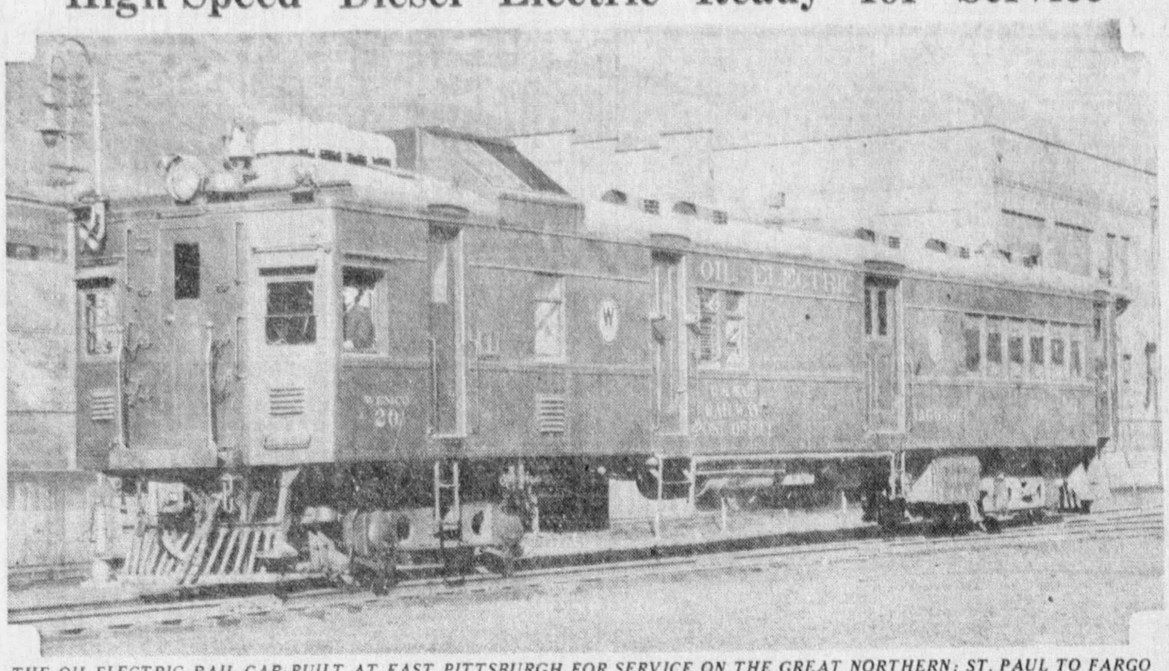
High-Speed Diesel Electric Ready for Service



THE OIL-ELECTRIC RAIL CAR BUILT AT EAST PITTSBURGH FOR SERVICE ON THE GREAT NORTHERN: ST. PAUL TO FARGO

The second oil-electric car, its power plant a six-cylinder 400-horsepower diesel engine to produce current to operate its electric driving motors, built by Westinghouse for Great Northern. It's 75 feet long, accommodates 22 passengers, mail and baggage.

Financial Topics

Electric Will Show Smaller Deficit For Quarter

The final quarter should show a loss for Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company of more than $1,000,000, after depreciation, to bring net loss for the full year to about $7,000,000 of which roughly $5,000,000 will be depreciation charges. This would compare with loss in 1932 of $8,903,540. With funds made available to the Pennsylvania Railroad for its electrification program, Westinghouse is in position to benefit. It has already received orders from the carrier for considerable amount of electrical equipment but the work has been held up. If these orders are now released Westinghouse billings should rise, with consequent reflections in profits.

The Trader in Barron's Weekly says, in part: "Speculation at the moment is dead, for two reasons. In the first place, the people at large obviously do not fear wild inflation or a stampede into equities and commodities would be under way. In the second place, business is pausing and the experience of stock markets under inflation in foreign countries and under normal conditions at home is that stocks do not rise unless business is moving forward. There is no pressure upon the market. Brokers' loans are still only $720,000,000. Money is going begging, and, though business has paused, dividends are decidedly rising. Enough is going on and planned in Washington to stimulate business and earning power and to justify patience, if not stubbornness, in the retention of industrial equities in the groups that are bumping their 1933 peaks."

When asked to comment on the probable dividend action on the preferred stock, S. T. Bledsoe, chairman and president, said: "I hope that the action of our board on this matter will be satisfactory to our preferred stockholders." The earnings for 12 months ended June 30 last indicated a balance of $4.50 a share for the preferred. The indications are the board tomorrow will declare a dividend of at least $2.50 for the second half of 1933, payable February 1 next. This would make at least $4 a share for 1933, the payment on August 1 having been $1.50.

The week-end brought no change in the views of local interests concerned with impending Treasury financing. Those active in the field of government securities are still convinced that the new issue, to be announced around midweek, to provide for meeting of mid-month maturities must be made attractive. The flotation will probably run between $700,000,000 and $1,000,000,000, is expected to be short-term, very likely one-year, and carry a relatively high coupon. Belief is that the issue may be expected to go readily enough if the coupon is fixed around 2½ per cent, but a lower interest rate taking into account yields now ruling on relatively similar maturities, would probably be found "sticky."

Though disposed to hold to the sidelines as the action of the market indicates, the trading fraternity by and large is inclined to look to the near-term future with a measure of confidence. Those in a position to size up sentiment are of the opinion that the "Street" is more bullish than bearish, but not of a kind to anticipate any broadening of interest until some of the uncertainties are out of the way. Successful handling of the Treasury's needs would be helpful, but there is a tendency to await an expected statement from President Roosevelt. Meanwhile with passing of prohibition imminent and business showing signs of perking up better feeling would not appear to be without some foundation.

RFC ADVANCES NEAR 4 BILLION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—More than $3,500,000,000 has been poured into the nation's credit arteries in one way or another by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The monthly report of the corporation, which was organized February 2, 1932, to provide credit for banks, railroads and other financial institutions, today showed total cash advances of $3,543,913,394.

Total loans and advances, excluding mandatory loans to government agencies for relief and other purposes authorized by the corporation since its inception, amount to $4,254,453,348, of which $314,469,467 was withdrawn or canceled, with $1,014,653,068 remaining at the disposal of the borrowers. Repayments have totaled $986,844,212.

The report, although setting forth in detail the advances made to banks, railroads and the various government agencies, did not give the amount of gold the corporation has purchased in its gold buying program, but it was known that up to last Friday $10,500,000 worth of domestic gold had been purchased.

STOCK MARKET PINS HOPE ON RUM TAXES

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—As I see it, the stock market is holding up chiefly for the following reasons: (1) The problem, "what to do with my money?" (2) The possibility of either a drastic devaluation of the dollar, or "currency inflation," or both; (3) The possibility that the various parts of the administration's policies may before long produce a stimulation of business.

Some doubtless figure that temporarily at least, as the various recovery measures, repeal, and dollar manipulation begin working smoothly they may have effect. Then there might be a spurt of business which would bring the cheaper dollar into play and thus produce an effective inflation. As yet these various elements have been so unco-ordinated and so full of uncertainties and conflicting tendencies that they have not clicked. But some day it might happen that liquor taxes might bolster the credit of the government sufficient to allow it to borrow and spend so much on public works and relief, that enough depreciated currency would be put into circulation to force prices up.

Otherwise, the market would probably be working lower. There is little sponsorship. The short interest is small. Some tax less selling is taking place.

GLOOMY PROSPECTS

Furthermore, business prospects are none too good, as is demonstrated by the backwardness of retail trade and railway car loadings. Domestic commodity prices have failed thus far to respond to the manipulation of the dollar in foreign exchange.

So the market is marking time waiting for the stimulating elements in the administration's schemes to rise above the depressing elements.

Last week's dull performance resulted in a net loss of about one point. No progress has been made now for two weeks, or since the bond market began to rally.

The total volume of trading is also small. Such volume as there is has tended to increase with the selling, and the extreme dullness on the little rally Thursday and Friday is to be noted. Scattered liquidation is suggested.

I note that on Saturday, 43 per cent of the trading was in 15 stocks, which is the heaviest concentration of the activity since the Krueger and toll liquidation last January. The three most active issues were Commonwealth & Southern, Producers & Refiners, and Grigsby Grunow—all low-priced "cats and dogs." Five of the 15 were utilities, all selling lower.

If, during the past two weeks you had each day bought the 20 most active stocks, and sold them the next day, you would have made nothing, and would have lost your commission.

PRESSURE LIGHT

On the other hand, selling pressure has not been heavy. Since October 23, each dip in the averages has been stopped a little above the preceding dip. So, while the rise has been checked, one can't say that any downward trend has set in.

If the volume rises above something like 1,200,000 shares, while the averages first spurt up and then close near the low of the day, a sizeable little reaction would be likely to follow.

But if today there were a fairly sharp decline of about two points in the average, with the volume not rising much above 1,500,000 shares, it would probably be only another one of those one-day markdowns.

There are two lower levels to watch: The first is last Tuesday's low. If that should be broken by the closing price, the averages would probably next test the 102 of November 15. These two levels for key stocks are:

Chesapeake Traffic Drops During Week

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4.—Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad revenue freight loadings during the week ended December 2 totaled 21,537 cars, comparing with 27,293 handled in the week preceding and 23,150 in the corresponding 1932 period.

STEEL OUTPUT GAIN SEEN

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Contrary to the usual year-end trend, the magazine Steel said today that steelworks operations were expected to hold between 28 and 29 per cent of capacity for the third successive week. The review added:

"Under the stimulus of gradually mounting shipments operations this week may develop a slight rise, contrary to the seasonal trend, which usually begins to draw down the rate from the middle of November to the close of the year.

"With few exceptions, higher prices will apply on practically all finished steel products January 1, either through outright advances being made now, or through application of price schedules announced early in the fourth quarter, after practically all fourth quarter requirements were covered at lower levels.

"Coupled with the generally improved sentiment for business in early 1934 these advances supply a cogent reason for specifying expiring contracts. They have led to a broader and more diversified demand."

WORLD COTTON USE SPURTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—World used more bales of all growths of cotton in October than in any corresponding month since 1929, according to the New York Cotton Exchange Service. During October, world's spinners used 2,128,000 bales of American and foreign cotton, compared with 2,088,000 bales in September, and 2,078,000 in October, 1932.

During the first quarter of the current cotton season, from August 1 to October 31, spinners of the world consumed more cotton than in any corresponding three-month period since the 1929-30 season. Their three months consumption totaled 6,391,000 bales, against 5,856,000 in the similar period last season and 5,788,000 two seasons ago.

Anthracite Coal Output at Peak

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Anthracite production touched a new high mark for the fall, but bituminous coal output fell off slightly during the week ended November 25.

The Bureau of Mines estimated hard coal tonnage for the week at 1,398,000 tons as compared with 1,317,000 tons the previous week and 976,000 tons Thanksgiving week last year.

The soft coal fields turned out 7,290,000 tons as compared with 7,665,000 tons the previous week and 6,525,000 tons the corresponding week last year.

Russia Seen as Gigantic Market For American-Made Products

By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Editor, The Econostat

The recognition of Russia restores normal diplomatic and trade relations that have been more or less suspended during the past 16 years. Entirely aside from the satisfaction of again having open relations with Russia, a great deal of interest attaches to her as a possible market for American goods.

Optimistic students of foreign trade have painted the Russian picture in glowing colors. One executive, the president of an American steamship line specializing in Russian trade, believes that the U. S. S. R. can use American products at the rate of a billion dollars a year for the next five years. In his calculations there may be found 150,000 tractors, 100,000 trucks, 7,000 locomotives, 2,000 electric freight engines, 1,000 steam engines, 260,000 freight cars, 60,000 passenger cars and 5,700,000 tons of steel rails.

Of course, no such buying can be undertaken by Russia except with the aid of long-term credits from American manufacturers, the American government, the American public, or a combination of the three. The U. S. S. R. is at present offering 7 per cent gold bonds to private American investors. Negotiations are under way for a substantial R. F. C. loan which may reach fifty million dollars a year for the next few years. The amount which Russia can obtain from private manufacturers is problematic.

Of course, there is one other way in which Russia can buy all these American products. It can send us an equal amount of Russian anthracite, timber, fur, manganese ore and other exportable products. Whether this will be acceptable under the new deal theory of self-sufficiency is a matter of great doubt.

STOCKS STAND STILL IN DULL TRADING

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The stock market performed in slow-motion fashion today and prices, generally, got nowhere in particular.

With no further increase in the gold rate, the dollar spurted in foreign exchange dealings. Sterling dropped nearly 14 cents and French francs yielded more than .13 of a cent. They recovered moderately later. Equity trading was around the dullest of the year. The ticker tape stuttered only occasionally in the early hours. While there was little stock for sale, buyers were extremely diffident. Grains sagged, but came back to their starting point. Cotton, rubber and silver softened. Bonds were irregular.

Shares of Canada Dry got up about 2 points and issues of Schenley, American Commercial Alcohol, United States Industrial Alcohol and National Distillers were up fractionally to a point.

The announcement of Chairman Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, that to date only $10,400,000 of newly mined domestic gold had been purchased was about in line with expectations. Jones did not reveal the information which the "street" would like to have—the amount of foreign gold purchases.

Wall street continued to hear rumors that some sort of currency stabilization conversations were going on between Washington and London, although no confirmation was available. In some quarters the belief was expressed that serious stabilization talks would not get under way until the domestic gold price has been pushed up above $36 an ounce. At this level the dollar would have a theoretical value of about 57 cents.

Whether President Roosevelt, in his speech next Wednesday, would touch on the administrative fiscal policy was a matter of conjecture in the financial sector. Banking circles ostensibly in close touch with the capital did not believe the Chief Executive would enter into any extended explanation of the gold buying move, but it was thought he might reiterate the government's intentions to raise commodity prices by one means or another.

In the meantime some market observers were of the opinion that equity operators would continue to maintain a "watchful waiting" position, at least until Congress convenes and some indication is given as to just how far the lawmakers will go toward drastic currency inflation or monetary stabilization. With the lines now rather sharply drawn between the two schools of thought—the stabilizationists and the depreciationists—financial commentators were somewhat timid in predicting Congressional results.

WHEAT, CORN DIP AGAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Responsive to a sharp downturn in British exchange and to uncertainties of domestic financial conditions, grain prices ruled lower early today.

Further rains over domestic winter wheat territory were also a bearish influence. Opening 1⅛-¾ lower, wheat afterward receded further. Corn started unchanged to ⅜ off, and subsequently sagged all around.

Notwithstanding that the December crop summaries of leading unofficial experts estimated the condition of United States winter wheat as the lowest ever known except last year, the acreage reported formed more than a counterbalance. Corn and oats largely paralleled the course of wheat. Provisions were neglected.

REPEAL, YULE SPUR RETAIL BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—While retail trade continued to show a spurt toward the end of the week, the general feeling, according to reviews, is one of hesitancy which has slowed down the pace of business in some centers last week.

While some sections of the country reported an easing in business, others continued to hold the improved trend which developed some weeks ago. The return of warm days was a factor in bringing about the slackening in general lines, reducing the percentage of gain below preceding weeks.

In retail lines, the opening of the holiday gift season, and the launching of the annual Christmas promotions helped to bolster sales volume, while a number of stores were forced to resort to clearance sales on some lines, which in some sections was seen as an indication of an easing in the price structure.

QUALITY DEMAND GROWS

A marked contrast reported with a year ago in regard to the character of the demand evident in the past week, which, due to Thanksgiving, brought out extra consumer spending, was the tendency on the part of most customers to ask for and demand better quality merchandise.

A year ago, the marked tendency had been toward obtaining the bargain prices, which resulted in a larger turnover in cheaper-priced merchandise. This year, the best volume is reported to be taking place in the medium and better-priced brackets. Coats continued to lag in demand, but despite this and the fact that December is usually regarded as the best clothing month, retailers are still expecting a good turnover in coat lines, with promotions planned for this month and next.

FORMAL CLOTHES CALL

A considerable pickup was noted in the demand for formal evening wear, with increased sales of dinner and evening gowns and accessories. In between dresses and sweaters still continued to be well taken, while jewelry, shoes and evening slippers as well as handbags and accessories for evening and formal wear are reported selling better than a month ago. The sales of cruise and resort apparel are still showing an increase, and the volume is reported to be the best in more than two years in this type of merchandise. Men's, boys' and children's clothing lines continued to move well.

The combination of Thanksgiving and advent of repeal only a few days later spurred the demand for festive decorations and accessories. Sales of table linens, silverware, and a wide range of glassware were reported to be extremely heavy during the past week.

PREACHER SEES REPEAL GOOD

Condemning the Eighteenth Amendment as unjust infringement on personal rights, the Rev. Stewart M. Smith, pastor of North Ten Mile Baptist Church, said in his sermon yesterday:

"Now that the iniquity called prohibition is gone, we can preach the gospel again."

Total abstinence is a virtue, he said, and men and women soon will be in a position to practice it by force of character rather than by fear of law.

Life, said the Rev. Mr. Smith, is a contest, and no law can eliminate the personal phases of it without destroying personality.

DR. GLUECK QUE FOR TALK HERE

Appearing under the joint auspices of the Allegheny County Medical Society and the Pittsburgh Child Guidance Center, Dr. Bernard Glueck, noted psychiatrist of New York, will give a lecture at Hotel Schenley Thursday at 8:30 p. m. His topic will be "Some Mental Hygiene Problems of Today and Tomorrow."

Dr. Glueck is consultant in psychiatry at Neurological Institute, criminologist at Warwick State School for Boys and a lecturer at New School for Social Research, all of New York. He formerly was director of the psychiatric clinic at Sing Sing Prison.

Editor to Lecture Here on 'Security'

Devere Allen, former associate editor of The Nation, will speak tomorrow night at 8:15 in the Y. M. & W. H. A. His subject will be "National Security and How It May Be Obtained." Mr. Allen, who is making a national lecture tour under the auspices of the Socialist party, also will speak at Beaver Falls and Jeannette.

Scores of Children Are to Sing Carols

A Christmas pageant, sponsored by the Methodist Episcopal Church Union, will be presented in Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Hall, December 14. Several hundred Pittsburgh children will sing carols and dramatize the Christmas legends of various races and countries.

Here Are the Simple Rules

Every day we will publish an unfinished rhyme. Read these Christmas Shopping Hint ads and select an article from these ads to use in making your own last line. Then clip this square, fill in your line, or write the whole rhyme on a piece of paper and mail to the Want Ad Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, giving, at the same time, the name of the dealer from whose ad you made the selection.

The best rhyme on each day's contest, judged from the points of originality, neatness and accuracy, will win a $5.00 merchandise order on any advertiser in the Christmas Shopping Hints which the winner may select. The second best $2.00 and the next three best $1.00 each. Two prizes of $5.00 each will be given on each of the last two days of the contest.

Answers to today's contest must be in our hands by 4 P. M., Thursday, December 7.

In case of a tie duplicate awards will be made. You need not buy anything to compete and all persons are eligible except Sun-Telegraph employees and their families.

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XLVII.

The dance at Redwood went with a grand flourish.

Mrs. Judson had spared no expense upon it.

With her log cabins, and the annexes, and the tents down in the canyon, she could accommodate a number of people.

What did Mrs. Judson care though Madeleine and Rhoda had their knife in her!

Jealous they were. As cruel and ruthless as they were predatory.

She was on Nollie's side. She had become attached to the quiet, pretty little secretary.

WORKS HARD

Nollie worked hard to make the thing a big success. All the more so because things weren't running quite smoothly between herself and Tony.

They met, down by the lake, it's true. But a certain constraint seemed to have sprung up between the couple.

That this was due to Rhoda's and to Mareleine's influence, Nollie felt certain.

Tony was often at the Galbraith place these busy days. Nollie had never had an invitation there.

And she was glad of it. She wouldn't go—after the disagreeable interview she once had had with Madeleine and Jack Brilling.

"You've no idea how sorry I am about what happened—you know—that day in the office."

She had cut him short. Had assured him the incident was buried.

But why keep up old grudges? Why not forget about it?

But what else could she do? With those jealous women listening and looking on, how could she have explained the incident?

FEARS RHODA

Even with her own inexperience, it had hurried in upon her, before her hurried exit from the tawdry little flat, that "Daffy" was a "cocotte" . . . a woman of loose morals.

"But she was kind to me." In her heart, Nollie, the conscientious, felt she had betrayed Daffy in disowning her.

But what else to do? Were she to admit the hateful meeting with the predatory Ted White, she would more than likely lose Tony!

Over and over she would repeat the love-words he had burr whispered to her, in the past enchanted days by the lake side.

She started to speak to Nollie as though the two were quite alone. ("This is where servants get all their gossip from!" Nollie told herself).

Rhoda lay back in a deep arm-chair before the looking-glass while Yvonne massaged and kneaded her face and neck and shoulders.

"Tony's a nice boy, isn't he? You and he are quite friendly, aren't you?" commenced Rhoda, whose policy was to carry her banner right into the enemy's camp.

LIES ABOUT TONY

Nollie answered, guardedly. "Somewhat."

"He's a dear, and we're all fond of him. His little flirtations are really quite harmless," said Rhoda.

To which Nollie answered nothing. But she was ready for the next move.

"I don't expect old Tony will marry for years. He's had some sort of an affair with practically every woman of our crowd and then it's fizzled out in smoke," continued the beauty.

"Is THAT so?" Nollie contrived to say nonchalantly.

"It is indeed! No one ever takes him seriously, you know, although for a time he and I were quite inseparable," smiled Rhoda.

She had little cotton pads over her eyes, soaked in astringent, so that Nollie couldn't read the expression in them at the moment.

Nollie forced herself to answer that. She said, her lips dry: "You haven't a very high opinion of Tony if you think that he's a fortune-hunter."

Synopsis

Nollie Day, stenographer at an exclusive hotel, is befriended by wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. Nollie goes to a theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Nollie wants to clear her identity, but is unable to get in touch with Tony. Mrs. Judson returns and ask Nollie to become her secretary and visit her ranch. Nollie accompanies Mrs. Judson to a garden party and meets Rhoda Vane. Rhoda seems to dislike Nollie. Nollie and the widow leave for the ranch after inviting Rhoda. Nollie is surprised when she meets Tony near the ranch. Tony is pleased when she tells him she is not Mrs. Judson. Rhoda visits the ranch. She is rude to Nollie, but plainly tries to gain Tony's favor. Tony confesses that he loves Nollie. Jack Brilling and his bride are on a honeymoon near the Judson place. Brilling's bride is angry when she learns that Nollie is so near.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When darkening the eyelashes, use a tiny brush and mascara. Dip the brush in water, pass over the mascara substance, apply lightly to the lashes as they rest on the finger. Liquid mascara can be had, if one prefers. Crayons are not suitable, they shower dust upon the cheeks. All right for marking eyebrows, if they must be accentuated; even then a black crayon should not be used, a dark brown one provides a more natural effect.

She of the plump, round face must be rouge-wise. The way to make her face more moonlike is to carry her rouge in the center of her cheeks in a circular spot. Not so good. Tinting should begin on the cheek bone, close to the eyelid, extend outward over the temple, drop to a rounded point. By putting coloring on long instead of round, the face appears to lengthen.

Premature graying of the hair is usually an inheritance. Just why the hair loses its coloring substance nobody knows exactly. Specialists have their doubts about hair turning white from fright. It is difficult to touch up a crown that is a combination of white and dark, usually the entire head must be treated. The pepper and salt effect is displeasing to some, yet many a head of hair of this type is extremely attractive. Everything depends upon the viewpoint.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S INAUGURATION

George Washington was inaugurated as first President of the United States April 30, 1789, in New York City. His administration (1789-1797), though not free of adversities (rising of opposing political parties, Jeffersonians and Hamiltonians; Whisky Rebellion; Indian warfare) accomplished the chartering of the United States Bank, establishing of the National Mint, the assumption of war debts by the National Government; admission of Vermont, Kentucky, Tennessee as states. Besides other strengthening measures, Washington's wise guidance kept the country out of foreign entanglements, such as alliance with France, ravaged by revolution. (United States History)

COL. LINDBERGH SPANS ATLANTIC IN SOLO FLIGHT

The short flights of Orville Wright with his motor-powered craft (Dec. 17, 1903) proved the possibility of flying with heavier than air machines. Engineers, scientists, sportsmen of all industrial countries started to develop the theory, technique and machinery of flying. The initial slow progress was accelerated by the World War, in which all the nations made great use of the airplane.

A milestone in performance was set by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who (May 20-21, 1927) flew alone from New York to Paris in 33½ hours, covering 3,639 miles. Above: Col. Lindbergh with his "Spirit of St. Louis," a Ryan monoplane powered with a nine-cylinder Wright Whirlwind engine, developing 225 h. p. (Transportation)

The first two centuries after Christ are called good years in Roman history for their relative peacefulness, though Christians were persecuted with great cruelty and several tyrants shed much blood.

The third century brought raids of invaders and civil wars. Emperor Diocletian (284-306) restored order temporarily. Constantine the Great (306-337) unified the divided empire under his sole rule. It fell apart after his death. Though reunited once more (394-395) under Theodosius, it was bound to collapse soon under the tidal wave of the enclosing barbarians. (World History)

"DON'T DISTURB MY CIRCLES"

Archimedes (287-212 B. C.), philosopher and greatest engineer, was absorbed in scientific work in Syracuse when Marcellus took the city. "Noli turbare circulos meos," shouted Archimedes to the invading Romans, who killed him. He valued scientific work much higher than life. (Character Building)

MILK TEST FOR FAT

The test discloses productivity of cows and reveals fraud by watering. Babcock test is used generally: 1, Add strong acid (H_2SO_4) to milk; this dissolves casein and melts fat by heat. 2, Centrifuge (whirling in machine at right) in test bottles the acid-milk mixture; fat collects in calibrated necks and percentage can be read.

The legal minimum of fat in milk is 3.2%. (General Science)

OCTET THEORY OF ATOM—THE LEWIS SYSTEM

G. N. Lewis conceived (1916) the outermost shell of the atom as a cube, the valence electrons (determining the chemical behavior) occupying corners of it. If only a few corners are filled, the tendency is to lose, if there are only a few unfilled corners, to complete them to eight by transfer of electrons from or by sharing of pairs of electrons with other atoms. (Chemical reaction.)

Above: Outermost shells with valence electrons of a periodic series of elements. Each in sequence has one more valence electron until the eight corners are filled, when a new shell (cube) is started. The Lewis system—expressing electronic relations—shows the valence electrons (as many dots) around the symbol, which latter stands for the nucleus and the rest of the satellite electrons. The Worm Turns

Bugs Baer

Unmooting a Moot Subject

After hearing those Republican senators singing, "When shall we two meet again?" it reminded us that Congress ain't due for quite some time.

The anxious postcard hurlers and letter tossers have been asking us about ratification of repeal. They seem to think that it ain't official without Congress doing something about it or to it.

Well, from what we can eardrop in the corner cigar store it ain't necessary for Congress to adjourn or postpone. The vote of the sovereign commonwealths is all the floating power it requires. This will be the first time that 36 cancellations swamped the factory.

The Eighteenth Amendment was put over the same way. The states voted yes in the circle marked no. They got a three-dozen plurality and the noble experiment scampered on its rubber-tired heels. It was an artistic success. Door crashing and bottle breaking became items of good housekeeping.

If, after 13 years, the people of the people and by the way, find that taxation without ripsnort sensation is tyranny, then they vote by tabulated individuals or as an unidentified body.

That is what they chose to do. They voted by states and the voice of the populace is treble but final. Therefore, it is not essential for Congress to put its trained seal of approval on the accumulated ballotage. That is what we think. Maybe, you had better look it up. We ain't seen the Constitution lately. That stucco finish they put on it never dried out.

The average man knows little of parliamentary procedure and the finer things of long debate and loud abuse. He gets the idea that nothing is right unless Congress is against it. That's a basic superstitution started by Bill Nye and Peter Finley Dunne. We hope that Mr. Dooley opens up his bar again and tells us where we stand and how to fall.

If you don't understand this foggy reasoning always remember that it is the explanation of the problem that confuses. The question itself is as clear as wet cellophane. Do your best and you will be all right. The fighter who looks at his manager is usually clipped on the chin by the other fighter whose manager missed the train.

We will be delighted to decipher and decode any other national problems for our mystified readers at any time in the future or past. We reserve the present. You can argue here all you want. This column is a forum when it ain't against 'em.

No Saloons!

Care Must Be Taken That Public Barrooms Are Not Operated Under the Guise of Clubs.

With repeal of prohibition tomorrow Pennsylvania embarks on what we may as well admit is an experiment in liquor control.

Until January alcoholic beverages are to be dispensed only in licensed hotels, restaurants and clubs; thereafter liquor will be sold by the bottle or in wholesale quantities in stores owned and operated by the state.

Samuel Harden Church, who has given much study to the liquor problem as a foe of prohibition, believes the experiment will be a failure. He predicts that "where we had one bootlegger under prohibition we shall have 10 under Gov. Pinchot's plan, together with the graft, bribery and crime from which the American people are endeavoring to rid themselves."

We hope and believe that Dr. Church is mistaken. If unhappily, however, he should prove to be right, the people of Pennsylvania have it in their power quickly to abandon the experiment and try some other plan of liquor control. A change can be made by the Legislature. We no longer will have to wait for the long, tedious process of constitutional revision.

In our judgment the new experiment is well worth trying. It has for its object the promotion of temperance. To a large extent the commercial profit motive for selling whisky is eliminated, and consequently there will be less incentive than before prohibition to persuade people to drink.

The weakest point in the new scheme is the extreme liberality of the regulations for the sale of liquor in clubs. What is to be feared is that under the guise of chartered social clubs old-fashioned saloons will be re-established.

Dr. Church says in his statement:

"The manufacturer should be prohibited from having any interest in the places of sale, and the saloons should be put out of existence."

The Sun-Telegraph is in hearty accord with him on this. If there is the slightest ground for suspicion that brewers or distillers are financing in any way, directly or indirectly, the establishment of clubs, hotels or restaurants, a strict investigation should be made, and if the suspicion is found to be a fact the license should be revoked.

School Tax Reduction

Notwithstanding a reduction of $101,000,000 in the assessed valuation of real estate in Pittsburgh, the Board of Public Education has found it possible to reduce the school tax rate half a mill to 11¼ mills, the lowest school tax rate since 1921.

The board has demonstrated on so many occasions that it is opposed to lowering the standards of the schools that we can accept the announcement without misgivings.

The economies are to be effected without impairing the quality of the education, without shortening the school term, and without reducing teachers' salaries.

In the circumstances the tax cut is very welcome, and both taxpayers and the school board are to be congratulated.

The Power Trust's Guile

One of the counts in the popular indictment of the public utility companies is their use of covert propaganda to soften criticism and forestall attack.

This propaganda took many and subtle forms. Lecturers on subjects wholly unrelated to the utility business were induced to maneuver their discourses into laudatory references to the utility industry and its outstanding personalities. Paragraphs and even chapters were inserted in school textbooks for no reason except to plant the seeds of a favorable opinion of the utility business. In countless ways, the helping word was inserted where it would do the most good.

The "useful" research organizations which the utilities maintained at their own expense, their "disinterested" efforts to lift the standard of living, to promote social progress, to safeguard health and what not, were described in picturesque language and with no mincing of superlatives.

The Federal Trade Commission, however, has turned up a phase of their activities not hitherto suspected.

It seems that the utility companies have been in the habit of seeking, by stock purchases or freely given loans, to influence newspapers circulating in regions where the utility companies or their subsidiaries operate.

This does not speak well for the newspapers in question, but we are glad to note that they are publications of minor importance and rather obscure standing.

The weakness of moral fiber, however, which rendered them susceptible or receptive to financial support from such a source, cannot be too severely reprobated.

It happens that the utility company whose activities in this line are revealed by the Federal Trade Commission is the Middle West Utilities Company and several of its subsidiaries. With reference to this unhappy and much exposed company, it is only fair to say that other companies have doubtless pursued the same practices.

Like all evil practices, however, they have proved in the final analysis void of profit.

The efforts of the utility companies to develop an artificial public opinion favorable to their methods have collapsed. They now appreciate that they must stand or fall on their record. Facts may be distorted or colored for a time, but like truth itself, facts will out.

And a newspaper which so far forgets its high calling as to color its news or "pull its punches" for gain, soon forfeits all standing and loses the power to serve its readers—even badly.

'See America First'

And Save Money.

One result of the dollar's drop—and a good one—is that it will induce many Americans who don't know America to get acquainted with it.

Because of the value of the dollar in terms of the pound or franc, the cost of living in Europe has almost doubled as far as American visitors are concerned.

On the other hand, the cost of taking a trip in the United States has not risen, and in many cases has been reduced.

The dove, whenever it draws near
The porcupine, recoils in fear,
And who can blame it for its fright
At such a terrifying sight?

During a wakeful stretch last night I got to chuckling about W. C. Fields and one of his long ago sketches in a revue whose name I've forgotten. Anyway, the scene was in a bleak, blizzardy shack in the Arctic Circle. Two frosty hard-panners had run into continual misfortune. Fields, as one, is trying to thaw out over a smidgin of fire. His partner comes in covered with snow, inquiring if anything happened while away. Whined Fields: "That old pill was over here from Medicine Hat to foreclose the mortgage." Silence while the wind shrieked outside. Finally Fields continues: "But he won't get Balto, the lead dog, 'cause I et him!"

Grandpa looked up from his barndoor whittling and observed: "There's only one way to get rid of sassafras sprouts. Pack up and leave them." I thought of that today when a troubled young caller told how he was working at a place where every promotion went to relatives of the proprietor.

Chinatown is the most overrated excitement in New York but threads of plot there cry for a knitter. Above dirty downstairs dens are cozy bed-sitting room apartments white wives of Chinese never leave. Now and then their shadows are silhouetted through shuttered windows—that's all. These clean havens, well carpeted and furnished, are in crazy contrast to the decaying morgues of dwellings in which they are located, veritable shrines of domesticity. And in Chinatown they will tell you the Chinese, even with such isolation, treat these kind of girls better than white men would.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Courage.

Courage—what popeyed notions we have about it!

We think of courage as a flame which fires our cowardly flesh to heroic deeds. What a buoyant thing to be a hero! How heroes must thrill and tingle!

Or we think of courage as a constant quality which some people have, some haven't. You're brave, or you aren't; just as you're short or tall, blonde or brunette.

Of course you'd prefer to be brave. It must be wonderful to face life without flinching—to be always sure of oneself. How lucky to be made like that! But if you aren't, you aren't; that's all.

So we dream and drool—and run away at the first boogieman—merely because our ideas of courage are all muddled. Whereas, if we were taught the truth we might all be brave.

FOR COURAGE IS SOMETHING ANYONE CAN ACQUIRE.

Courage isn't a flame which seizes us and sweeps us on to superhuman feats. Nor is courage a birth gift.

No one is "born brave." We are all born cowards—and we must fight fear all our lives.

AND THE FIGHT IS USUALLY TOUGHEST AT THAT VERY MOMENT WHEN WE SEEM MOST HEROIC.

Heroes do not thrill and tingle. They ache and shiver. They want to cry.

In short, in the face of unpleasantness, discomfort and danger a brave man feels exactly as a timid man feels. He has exactly the same reluctance to go ahead, the same miserable sense of insecurity and the same identical knots in his rebellious insides.

Then why are some men heroes, and some cowards?

BECAUSE SOME MEN CHOSE TO BE HEROES—AND SOME CHOSE TO BE COWARDS.

COURAGE IS A DELIBERATE ATTITUDE—A CIVILIZED HABIT.

The brave man is as much afraid as the timid man, and he knows it. But he won't surrender to that fear. He won't let it rule him.

He has been taught, and he has taught himself, that yielding to fear is abominable. He has watched the kind of men who do yield to fear—who let fear rule them. He has seen how that surrender affects every department of their lives; how it cheats and betrays them. He has noted, also, the enormous amount of time and energy which cowards consume in their ducking and dodging. He sees what a bad bargain cowardice is, and that no proud man can live comfortably inside himself if he yields to fear.

So the brave man determines to be brave. Chances are, he never really feels brave. He is never buoyed up by courage. He is frightened all his life. But he goes ahead and makes the gestures.

ANYONE CAN BE BRAVE.

ANY CHILD CAN BE TAUGHT TO BE BRAVE.

WE CAN CHOOSE TO BE BRAVE EXACTLY AS WE CHOOSE TO BE HONEST, TIDY, PROMPT, AND POLITE.

That is the truth about courage. It is a very simple truth, and it lacks the sensationalism of the Heroic Hooey with which we stuff our silly minds. And because it's plain and practical most of us will prefer the hooey. That's a pity. For it's a dreadful thing to stay a coward when you might, by doing a daily dozen, go up and over the top.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

The Sweet and Lowdown

There ARE, of course, other ways of wrecking your life, besides eloping to the nearest marrying-parson, after an all-night whoopee party—but none surer or more popular.

A knowledge of medicine is not sufficient to make a young doctor rich and famous; he must know enough about psychology to cure a woman's boredom and act as a tonic for her vanity, without letting her get her clutches on him.

"Repeal," says Reno Ruth, "apparently means that now we can go right on drinking just as we did during prohibition, only we won't have the kick of feeling that we're breaking the law."

Oh, well, one of the pleasures of a WET era is that you don't feel that you have to get SOPPING-wet at a party in order to avoid insulting your hostess or spoiling the fun for her guests.

* * *

There are times in every woman's life when her only alternative is an eloquent SILENCE—but these, dear heart, are her bitterest moments.

No man—not even King Solomon—has ever written a convincing article on "How to Win a Woman." Because the kind of man who could write authentically on that subject, is always too busy trying to LOSE one to indulge in theories.

You can underpay your employes if you call them "vice presidents," says a columnist. Well, why not? You can get a combination cook-housekeeper-valet-and-nurse for the price of a cheap wedding if you call her "The Missus." It's the prestige of the thing!

A gentleman is a man who refuses to believe that ANY woman is over 39 as long as it clashes with the color of her hair.

The Federal Government's Plan for Seadromes—Perils of the Ocean

By Edwin C. Hill

THE United States government is going to spend a million and a half, immediately, to test the practicability of floating landing fields, or seadromes, to be anchored, 500 miles apart, between our coast and Spain. If the test is successful, 30 millions will be spent on five seadromes, with the expectation that passenger, mail and express flying between America and Europe will become as simple and as easy as winging it from New York to Chicago.

The whole idea, fascinating in its possibilities, springs from the brain of Edward R. Armstrong, of Holyoke, Del. Sixteen years ago the idea came to him. He worked with small, sheltered tanks and in the Navy's big test tanks, where they try out models for battleships and cruisers under high seas and gale conditions artificially created. He went from government to government, begging and pleading that his plan be tried.

Hard times stopped him until recently, when the Roeblings, who built the Brooklyn Bridge and spun the cables for the great George Washington Bridge over the Hudson, got behind him. And so did other big steel and construction companies. And now, with the federal government interested, success looms after all these years upon the man of one idea.

The seadrome, or ocean landing field, will be 1,225 feet long, 150 feet wide at the ends and 300 feet wide for a good section of the middle. The deck will have an area of six acres. The whole structure is designed on the general principle of giving the angry ocean nothing to fight; of offering no serious resistance to its moods and rages.

Edward R. Armstrong's dream may take shape in steel, in five little steel islands dotting the Atlantic between New York and Spain. Trans-oceanic flying may become as common as train travel. But one turns with a doubtful eye toward that untameable old demon, that ancient enemy of mankind, the restless, hungry, insatiable, cruel, devouring, lunatic old ocean. His might is so great, his rage so terrible.

Entire Crew of Saxilby Lost

ONE thinks of the bitter fate that recently befell the whole ship's company of the little British freighter, Saxilby; 27 officers and men swallowed up in darkness and storm. What terrific drama there was in that brave, desperate, hopeless search which seven vessels made in the shrieking gale and in the Stygian blackness of the night!

The great Cunarder Berengaria, one of the largest ships that ever sailed the seas, was crashing her way through mountainous waves, her speed throttled down to a mere 20 knots. High up in the crow's nests the lookouts were straining their eyes through sheets of rain as a 60-mile gale drove at the laboring liner. Rain and mist and waves that leaped so high and with such savage force that they crashed over the towering bridge of the great liner made it impossible to penetrate the mystery of the night.

Suddenly comes the call of distress, faint and broken—the SOS of the wounded, dying freighter, sinking in the great storm, 400 miles off the coast of Ireland. Into the hand of the master of the Berengaria, Captain E. T. Britten, is thrust the message taken down by the radio man:

Without an instant's hesitation, Britten swings his giant ship to the northeast, drives her out of the ocean road to Cherbourg, drives her squarely into the teeth of the raging storm and begins his battle with ten thousands devils of death and destruction. Everything forgotten, save the lives of those 27 men, riding in their frail little chips of boats upon a sea mad for their lives, tearing at them like a thing with claws and fangs. Nothing of any importance—neither time nor cost nor mails—nothing, except the rescue of those 27 men.

And from half a dozen points of the compass other ships are taking up the race against death; the British cruiser Exeter, the freighter West Eldara of the Black Diamond Line, the Boschdyk of the Baltimore Mail Line, the British steamer Manchester Regiment, all turned about in their courses at that last, faltering SOS from the sinking Saxilby.

* * *

No Trace Found Of Lost Vessel

IN the early hours of the morning, after driving through the night at a speed which shook her vast bulk from stem to stern, the Berengaria leaps out of the storm and comes up to the exact spot where the Saxilby went down, where her officers and men took to the boats.

Out upon the tossing sea flash the Cunarder's searchlights, penciling the blackness in brilliant bands of light, turning here, there, everywhere, examining every mountain and valley of that convulsed sea. Steaming in vast circles, ever wider and wider, the Berengaria sweeps and combs the ocean, until long after daylight. Hopeless, useless. No lifeboats could live an hour in such a sea.

Sadly, grimly, Britten gives the order. The great ship swings back toward her course, toward the long stone breakwater of the ancient port of Cherbourg. On the bridge, searching the endless, stubborn storm, Capt. Britten shakes his head, a gesture in tune with his thoughts. And his thoughts are of the old sea; the old, unconquerable enemy; the ancient demon that, year by year, claims his sacrifices—the brave men that are drawn to him by his beauty, his false gentleness, and as surely, too, by his cruelty and his awful power.

Special Interests Seeking Plums From New Congress

By James T. Williams, Jr.

ONE of the signs that another session of Congress is near at hand is to be found in the increasing bombardment of Senators and Representatives in Congress with questionnaires concerning legislative proposals likely to be considered at the coming session.

These lists of questions are generally prepared by special interests supporting or opposing measures they expect will be advocated by the President or by the leaders of the minority in both Houses or by what the late Senator Beveridge called "the invisible government."

"These special interests," Mr. Beveridge said, "which suck the people's substance are bipartisan. They are invisible government behind our visible government. Democratic and Republican bosses alike are brother officers of this hidden power. The root of the wrongs which hurt the people is the fact that the people's government has been taken away from them—the invisible government has usurped the people's government."

When he was elected United States Senator from Indiana Mr. Beveridge refused to answer any questionnaire concerning legislative proposals. The rule he followed has been followed by the abler and more courageous members of both Houses regardless of their political affiliation.

Glass Ignores Questionnaires

NO well-informed citizen of Virginia would subject Senator Glass to a questionnaire. Mr. Glass is not the kind of Senator who can be coerced or cajoled in the discharge of his duties as a national legislator by anybody, or group of "busy-bodies." Neither is Senator Stephens, of Mississippi. That is one reason why the people of Virginia and Mississippi are proud of the statesmanship exemplified by these able gentlemen from the South.

Throughout his 30 years in Congress Mr. Garner, who went last March from the speakership to the vice presidency, threw questionnaires in the waste basket regardless of the special interest whence they came.

It was not often during his service in the House that any citizen of his own Congressional district insulted him by sending him one. Only those who did not know the man would make the mistake of wasting a two cent stamp by mailing him a questionnaire.

In the House today there are some strong men on both sides of the aisle who treat questionnaires with the same contempt that Congressman Garner did. One of them is Congressman Pou, of North Carolina, chairman of the Committee on Rules and dean of the House, with 33 years of service to his credit.

* * *

Serves One Useful Purpose

THERE are other Democrats and some Republicans in the Houses who refuse to answer questionnaires about legislation, but this number is not as large as it ought to be.

In fact, if the number is not increased at the next session some of the measures of greatest merit will be defeated by the votes of sheep-like legislators who, under pressure of a questionnaire which they are afraid to ignore, say how they will vote before they have a chance to find out how they ought to vote.

The questionnaire serves one useful purpose, however, when addressed to a member of either House. It gives his constituents a chance to put Senators and Representatives in Congress to the test. Those who can be intimidated by a questionnaire into telling how they will vote on all sorts of questions before they have a chance to study them generally turn out to be the kind of legislators that the forces of "the invisible government" try to keep in Congress.

It was the questionnaire that put prohibition into the Constitution and kept it there long after the people became disgusted with the ignoble experiment.

The questionnaire is the enemy of representative government because it is the instrument of "rubber stamp" government. It is a device by which organized minorities intimidate the weaker members of our national legislature into ignoring the voice of conscience.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

Song of Change

Never twice the same comes day,
Dawn, sometimes a wisp of gray;
Then again, in amethyst
Veiled with rose and amber mist;
But no dawning, gold or blue,

Never comes day twice the same,
Not as any other came
In whatever bygone year,
Does the brave today draw near;
Change so subtle none can trace
Greets us surely on time's face.

Twice the same? Ah, never so,
For each day the soul must grow
Greater, wiser, stronger still,
Better armed against all ill;
Sky and time and life must change,
So each day dawns, fresh and strange.

Isn't It So?

Hope has more lives than a cat.

There never was a sermon yet that beat a good example.

We always have had somebody over us. It used to be our parents and now it is our children.

A necessity is something we must have, but most of us have trained ourselves to think anything we want is a necessity.
